City Government Struggles With Question of Location for the Junior High School at West Newton and Auburndale

The city government evidently don't realize that it is vacation time, as the board of aldermen held a session this week beginning Monday evening and lasting until 1:40 A. M., Tuesday morning.

President Hollis presided and all were present but Aldermen Ball, Walton, N. F. Pratt, and Tucker.

There were several long and tiresome hearings. Mr. Curtis Abbott appeared in favor of the petition of himself and wife that land on Claffin place and Walnut street be changed from residential to the business district. Mr. Abbott has some trouble with his speech and hardly a word he said for over 15 minutes could be understood. His petition was vigorously opposed by Messrs. Warren F. Gregory, Robert Douglass, Charles F. Cheney and others.

A lively hearing with West Newton supporting one site and Auburndale another came over orders for the taking of the Atkinson land corner of Commonwealth avenue and Washington street and for taking land on Washington street and Greenough street, for the proposed new Junior High School to serve the Auburndale, West Newton and Waban districts. Mr. Harold W. Knowlton spoke in favor of the Atkinson site and he was followed by ex-alderman V. J. Spaulding, Stephen E. Wright, Mrs. Arthur W. Lane and several ladies who merely gave their names.

Ex-alderman S. H. Whidden gave a history of the Junior High School movement calling attention to the fact that five years ago nothing was mentioned regarding a playground for such schools. He said that the Frank A. Day school had but three acres and was apparently well served. He favored taking the Greenough street land for the proposed school and the Myrtle street property for a playground. He opposed the Atkinson land as too rough, expensive to level, as well as to buy, and thought the automobile menace would confuse the children.

Mr. Henry Whitmore wanted the board to look ahead and predicted that with the city growing as fast as at present, the corner of Washington street and the avenue would become a business centre. He called attention to the fact that Elm road had been closed on account of the noise by passing automobiles and did not see why any consideration should be given the Atkinson land on that account alone. He believed that the Atkinson land was favored merely on the ground of vanity, and in order to let strangers see what a fine school building we had. He suggested that the problem had not been studied geographically and suggested that Waban would get better service if its children joined with those of Newton Highlands rather than with Auburndale and West Newton. The Atkinson land would involve law suits, and minutes could be understood. His petition was vigorously opposed by Messrs. Warren F. Gregory, Robert Douglass, Charles F. Cheney and others.

Hon. Thomas Weston for the West Newton Men's Club said its Village committee was unanimously opposed to the Atkinson land. They believed it a great mistake to build schools as monuments and that if that plan was abandoned we could build more and better schools.

Mr. John M. Walsh opposed the Atkinson land and called attention to the fact that if a ball field was located on that property there would be a congestion caused by cars stopping along the avenue at that point. Mr. Frederick J. Fessenden urged the need of quiet for school buildings and suggested that one trolley line was bad enough and two would be infinitely worse. Mr. Murray Ballou, master of a Boston school, told of the dangers of children crossing a heavy travelled street.

A letter was read from the Atkinson estate opposing the taking of their land and a similar one from the Saunders estate on the Greenough street site. In addition Mary Ella Saunders asked that their homestead should not be taken.

DEATH OF NOTED SPECIALIST

Dr. P. Challis Bartlett, who died quite suddenly last Friday at his home on Forest street, Newton Highlands, was a physician of high standing and a noted specialist on the heart and lungs.

He was born in Amesbury, Mass., 49 years ago, and has been a resident of Newton Highlands for about ten years.

He was a graduate of Dartmouth College, and began his medical career as assistant physician at Danvers asylum, then as assistant superintendent at the Worcester State Asylum. His health failing, he was for some time at Rutland, and then was appointed superintendent at the New Hampshire Sanitarium at Warren, N. H. Later, he returned to Rutland as superintendent and was there until he resigned to accept an appointment on the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

He was a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and of the New York Medical Club.

He married Miss Mary Fowler of Worcester, and is survived by her and one son, Challis Bartlett.

Funeral services were held at his late home on Monday morning, and the burial was in Walnut Grove, Danvers.

DEATH OF MRS. FARNHAM

Mrs. Jennie A. Farnham, of West Newton died quite suddenly at Ithaca, N. Y., on Tuesday, following an operation. Mrs. Farnham, who was 58 years of age, was the widow of the late Irving T. Farnham, former City Engineer of Newton, and had made her home in Warwick road for many years.

She is survived by three daughters, the Misses Edith A., Dorothy F., and Gertrude J. Farnham and one son, Irving T. Farnham.

Funeral services are being held this afternoon in the Fuller chapel of the Second Church, Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Park officiating and the burial will be

THE GARBAGE PLANT

The garbage station of W. H. Mague on Lexington street, Auburndale, is again in litigation. It will be recalled that a few weeks ago, Mr. J. J. Keith obtained an injunction against Mr. Mague prohibiting the existence of a nuisance at this place.

Mr. Keith now claims that Mague is not obeying that injunction and has brought the matter to the attention of the court. Rutherford E. Smith has been appointed as a master to hear the evidence and several hearings have been held with Mr. T. W. Proctor representing Mr. Mague and Mr. Harry B. Ross appearing for Mr. Keith.

DEATH OF MRS. SPENCER

Mrs. Grace E. Spencer, the wife of Mr. Albert F. Spencer, died suddenly last Monday from heart trouble at her home on Washington street, Newtonville. While Mrs. Spencer had been in failing health for some weeks, her death was unexpected.

Mrs. Spencer was 70 years of age, and has been a resident of Newtonville for about six years.

She is survived by her husband and three daughters, Mrs. S. LeRoy Mason of Dennisport, Mass., Mrs. Arthur D. Quimby of Washington Park, Newtonville, and Miss Janet Spencer of New York City.

She was a member of the Bright-helmstone club of Allston and of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the B. of L. E.

Funeral services were held at St. John's Church, Newtonville, yesterday morning, Rev. R. T. Loring officiating. Mrs. Clara Crowley sang two selections, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Abide With Me," and Mrs. Harold Shultz was at the organ. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

DEATH OF MRS. TROWBRIDGE

Mrs. Susan W. Trowbridge, wife of Alpheus E. Trowbridge, died at her home on Parsons street, West Newton, Tuesday, July 29th, after a long illness at the age of 61 years. Mrs. Trowbridge was born in Boylston, Mass., but has made her home in West Newton for many years.

Mrs. Trowbridge is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Philip Bourne of West Newton.

Services conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Park of the Second Church were held at her home on Thursday and the burial was at Boylston, Mass.

CHILDREN'S DAY A SUCCESS

Newton Lodge of Elks Entertains Over 3500 Children at Norumbega Park on Wednesday

One of the most successful affairs ever given in this city was the Children's Day last Wednesday at Norumbega Park under the auspices of the Newton Lodge of Elks.

Beginning with the idea of an outing for some of the crippled and orphan children of the city, the social and community service committee of the Lodge gradually expanded the scope of the plan until it embraced all the children of the city between 6 and 15 years of age.

The Playground Department of the city under the direction of Supt. Hermann rendered invaluable assistance, both in the registration of the children last week, and in the carrying out of the scheme on Wednesday.

The children, some 3500 in number, were taken to the Park by the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company, some thirty cars being used for the purpose, and reaching all parts of the city, except Auburndale, where the children walked to the Park.

Each child had a ticket with coupons calling for admission to the Park, a ride on the merry-go-round, a ride on the Dodge, on the caterpillar and sea plane, for refreshments, and for admission to the theatre.

The tickets were of different colors, yellow for the Lower Falls and Norumbega, green for Auburndale, Upper Falls and Highlands, buff for Newton and West Newton, and blue for Newtonville, Newton Centre and Thompsonville.

The committee provided a hospital tent and several nurses in case of need, but only three slight accidents were reported.

Twenty children from the Peabody Home for Crippled Children were the special guests of the Elks, and 52 boys were present from the Working Boys' home on Winchester street.

The merry-go-round never made so many successive trips since it was installed in the park years ago. The roar of the revolving caterpillar was heard from the time the youngsters entered the park until late in the afternoon. The "sea planes" flew in continuous circles, stopping for only a fraction of a minute to unload and take on another cargo of "aviators." The "dodge" cars were filled every minute.

Impromptu dances were staged around the bandstand, where the inspiring musicians played for hours for the youngsters. The crowd around the baby bears in the zoo, Ned, Nick and Nora, was so great that the animal trainers and half the Elks' committee was compelled to station themselves around the cage so that overalled, barefooted "Huck Finns" would not work their way through the bars of the cage to the little black balls of fur that swung, played see-saw and begged for peanuts from the kiddies.

Feeding the multitude was some task, but it was successfully done thru the splendid assistance of the Playground Supervisors, the children filing rapidly past the refreshment tables, and each receiving a cup of milk, crackers and a slice of ice cream. 120 gallons of ice cream were required to meet the demand.

After refreshments came the theatre, followed by the diving stunt, which is a feature this week at the Park, and then the crowd was taken home by trolley.

The affair was well managed by the social and community service committee of Newton Lodge of Elks, consisting of Alderman John H. Gordon, chairman; Dr. Michael Chirug, John Enegess, Alderman Arthur W. Hollis, Oswald J. McCourt, Judge Thomas Weston, Jr., and Walter I. Woodman.

Great praise is due to the Playground supervisors: Messrs. Harris, Lane, Dacy, Alexander, Holman, Donahue, Bond and L. Harris, and to their corps of assistants, Miss Rickard, Mr. Brown, Miss Mahoney, Miss Bushnell, Miss O'Hara, Mr. Smith, Miss McEwen, Mr. McLanem, Miss Richard, Mr. Washburn, Miss D. Keach, Mr. Bowen, Miss Anderson, Miss Pearson, Miss Forbush, Miss Barry, Mr. McPherson, Mr. Cox, Mr. Monahan, Miss Howgaard, Miss Quinlan, Miss Munroe, Miss Swartz, Miss E. Leach, Mr. Shrier, Mr. Dunn, Mr. Tedesco, Mr. Rickard, Mrs. Champagne, Miss Thompson, Mr. Everett, Miss Robinson, Miss Albree, Mr. King, Miss Kerrigan, Mr. Person, Mr. Hogan, Miss Burns, Miss Marshall, Miss C. O'Hara, Mr. Leary, Mr. Barber, Miss King, Miss Temperley, Mrs. Hills, Miss Butler, Miss Cameron, Mr. Cannon and Mr. McGrath.

September 8, 1924

After many attempts, including one Public Hearing given by the Board of Aldermen, with a view of determining the advisability of granting a license to an exclusive, high-class American-Chinese Restaurant to be located at 277 Washington Street, Newton, in quarters practically completely open to view and with no opposition to mention, so far, the Board in its well-known fairness, considers, in view of the fact that at this season many citizens are out of town and perhaps far remote from the local papers, that it would be fairer to all concerned to postpone further action until a time when it will be reasonable to expect the large majority of the people to have returned to their homes from their summer vacations, giving them absolute opportunity to record their approval, or disapproval, without fear or favor.

A proposition which I, as representing the owner of the property where it is desired to locate the restaurant, as well as the applicants for the license heartily co-operate.

Therefore, September the 8th, 1924, has been named as a date for a Public Hearing No. 2 by the Board of Aldermen, and it is earnestly desired that every citizen shall appear without the slightest hesitation and record their opinions.

If granted the franchise we guarantee to maintain a restaurant which will reflect credit to the city of Newton. Managed by thoroughly skilled people, where the entire family, regardless of sex or age, may resort with perfect safety for high-class service.

BIG DEMAND FOR TICKETS

The early demand for tickets for the joint outing of the Newton Chamber of Commerce and Brookline Board of Trade, at Norumbega Park on Wednesday afternoon and evening, August 13, is exceeding expectations and all advance indications promise that both Newton and Brookline will be represented by large delegations.

Tickets are now on sale in seventy-five or more places of business in the several villages of the city these being easily identified by window cards inviting those who read to "Buy 'em here" and indicating to some extent the variety and attractiveness of the program.

Some of the merchants are also displaying the tickets in their windows, these in themselves proving of interest because of the large number of coupons attached, each of which is good for one of the various attractions scheduled as a part of the day's program. These tickets are, in their entirety, nineteen inches in length, including a name tag for identification purposes and designed to promote fellowship and acquaintance between the members of the respective organizations.

The ticket has a coupon for parking of cars, a coupon for admission to the park, and coupons for rides on five of the most popular amusement devices at the park, including the launches on the Charles River, the Balloon Racer, "Dodge 'em," the Caterpillar and the Sea Plane. These are interchangeable, so that guests may use one coupon for each attraction, or use them all on one. The dinner ticket is also attached to the outing ticket, as is a coupon which may be exchanged for a reserved seat at the Norumbega Park Theatre in the evening. There are also to be various attractions and amusements not listed on the ticket, including the auto parade, band concerts, baseball game, tug of war, the entertainment and speaking features at the dinner, and others of varying interest and importance.

While the price of the ticket is four dollars, the entire event has been planned so that this should provide every conceivable thing that will be desired and will represent the total expense to each patron. The many attractions and minor extras will be all covered in the one ticket and everyone in attendance will be in a position to try practically everything worth trying, to see everything worth seeing, to eat his fill, and have a continuous good time generally, without digging in his pockets for extra nickel. The dinner is going to be a real one in every sense of the word and those who have attended other outings and luncheon meetings of the Rotary Club and other organizations, at the Norumbega Restaurant are looking forward to this important feature with a great deal of anticipation.

Some of the old time baseball artists are already practicing diligently in the back yards and learning the new wrinkles of the great national game from the younger generation, hoping to reach their old time form before August 13. The city is being canvassed for heavy men for the tug of war team, while specialists in other lines of athletic endeavor are being sought out in an effort to make Brookline extend itself to the limit in the various competitive events of the program. Those who are blessed with large and healthy appetites will be especially welcome, and the restaurant management has been given ample warning that large appetites are the rule in Newton and Brookline rather than the exception. In fact, the several committees are endeavoring to anticipate every possible contingency, every possible desire on the part of outing patrons, and are striving to see that no individual experiences the slightest disappointment, hopes, or expectations.

Civic members of the Chamber will be cordially welcome and many have already indicated their intention of being present. In fact any member or friend of the Chamber may secure tickets at their convenience, at the various places of business where they are on sale, or by writing or telephoning the Chamber office at 277 Washington street, Newton.

BURGLARS IN NEWTON CENTRE

MRS. MARY A. PELOUBET

Mrs. Mary Abby (Thaxter) Peloubet, the wife of the late Rev. Francis N. Peloubet, died at her home in Auburndale on July 28. She was born in Limington, Maine, October 17, 1837, and as a very little child removed to Bangor, where her early life was spent. Given the best education that Bangor could offer, she graduated from the high school; but when the brilliant brother with whom she had kept pace in her studies entered Harvard she longed for the college training denied to women in those days. Yet she had the advantage of being numbered among the pupils of the great Louis Agassiz who had opened in Cambridge a school for young ladies.

Her marriage took place in 1859, when Dr. Peloubet was in his first pastorate at Lanesville, Mass. There and in his other pastorates at Oakham, Attleboro, and Natick, she took part in all the church activities, never stinting either time or effort. When Dr. Peloubet undertook the preparation of his yearly volume of Select Notes for the Sunday School, in addition to the burden of a pastorate, she offered her aid, giving a large portion of her time to this work; and for many years her name was associated with his on the title page.

Mrs. Peloubet had not only a deep interest in missions, but a wide knowledge of them, and while in Natick was president of the Middlesex Branch of the W. B. M. In 1883 Dr. Peloubet resigned his pastorate to devote himself exclusively to writing, and in 1889 the family moved to Auburndale. Mrs. Peloubet entered heartily into the various types of work of the Congregational Church, became president of the Woman's Board auxiliary, and was active in other church organizations.

Nor were her interests confined to the church. In the third year after its organization, Mrs. Peloubet undertook, as president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, the task of arousing a sense of city-wide responsibility among the club women of Newton. At that time (1897-1899) there was indifference and even opposition to efforts at cooperation between the various Newton villages, and Mrs. Peloubet's wise guidance did much to establish permanently the Federation of Women's Clubs, which has done so much for the city's welfare and to lessen village isolation. Mrs. Peloubet also served as president of the Review Club of Auburndale, and she presided at the first meeting of the Auburndale Woman's Club, ten years ago.

She had much of the spirit of the pioneer. Interested in community problems when many did not know that there were any, a suffragist in the days when suffrage was a popularly unpopular cause, a worker in the W. C. T. U. in its early and struggling days, she was yet always broad minded and tolerant of others' opinions. She was a discriminating reader and familiar with the best literature; and in her later days of comparative leisure was able to keep in touch with the finest of modern writing. Not only did she maintain to the end of her life keen and intelligent interest in the affairs of the church and the nation, but her outlook was world-wide, and she was conversant with international affairs, political and social, as well as religious.

Two sisters and two brothers survive her, and four daughters: Mrs. Alice Norton of Chicago widow of Lewis M. Norton; Mrs. Grace Thaxter Farquhar of San Francisco, widow of David W. Farquhar; Mrs. Ernest Swallow recently of Gardner, Mass., now of Auburndale, and Miss Louise Peloubet, of Auburndale. There are also eleven grandchildren and fourteen great grandchildren.

Dr. William C. Gordon, former pastor of the Congregational Church of Auburndale, had charge of the service at Mrs. Peloubet's home, 132 Woodland road, Auburndale, on Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Walter Cole and Miss Sally Turner sang. The burial was in the Newton cemetery.

BEEKEEPERS HERE

The 20th annual field day of the Eastern Massachusetts Society of Beekeepers was held Saturday afternoon at "Gladioli Gardens," the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Jacobs, 450 Highland street, Newton Highlands. A basket lunch was served at 12.30 and an abundant supply of honey was contributed by the Corey Hill Apiary. Not only members of the society, but many others interested in bees and flowers responded to the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs to visit the spacious grounds, and listen to the secrets of the beekeepers.

The principal speaker of the day was Prof. R. B. Wilson of Cornell University. Representatives of the Honey Protective League also addressed the gathering. The program was in charge of the Federated Massachusetts Beekeepers' Association, Inc. The committee comprised George A. Phillips, Arthur E. Wilson, Miss Josephine Morse and Mrs. Randall Good-nough.

No Match for Wolf

No dog on four legs, unless he is tired of life, says Nature Magazine, has a right to match himself against a full-grown North American timber wolf.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

"DO YOU KNOW HIM?"

There is a man in our town. For whom all should be sorry. It seems he can't make up his mind. But gives his time to worry;

No matter where he finds a friend He starts a conversation. And almost begs them to advise "A good place for vacation."

He wants to have it free from noise. But not exactly quiet. A boarding place that's not too high. He doesn't want to "buy it."

He doesn't care to "dress-up" much. He scorns thoughts of pretending. He wants "a little going on" And good food without ending.

He says, "There must be some good place With all this advertising." Still constantly he's querying To hear his friends advising.

He places he has thus far heard. None is quite to his liking. The beach is hot, the farm is still. He has no taste for hiking.

He cannot sleep he worries so. I think his health is failing. His doctor's warnings thus far prove All pleas are unavailing.

Of course some day he'll find a spot. And end this sore vexation. 'Tis then that you'll agree with me, HE'S EARNED A LONG VACATION.

It happened recently that we obtained a "close up" of a real "rum runner" which had been captured by the vigilant Coast Guard on the shores of Massachusetts Bay. What most impressed us was the daring and ingenuity displayed by the victors of the law. Incidentally we had a chance to see what excellent men are employed in the Coast Guard service, one of the most poorly paid, and most exacting jobs in Uncle Sam's catalogue. The Coast Guard is a branch of the Federal Revenue Department and is not only called upon to patrol the coast, brave all kinds of storms to save the lives of sailors and prevent ships from becoming wrecked, but also to act as policemen and pursue the cleverest type of criminals. We soon found that the Captain in charge of the Sandwich Station, Capt. Sullivan, was not only one of the ablest in the service, but fearless in face of great odds and devoted to his duties. On this occasion he and his crew patrolled the bay in their big launch and overtook, just as daybreak, a rum-runner's launch that had a crew of two or three and was laden with 200 cases of alcohol. Capt. Sullivan fired in all 23 shots across the bows of the rum-runner until finally the desperate law-breakers decided to jump overboard and try to swim ashore. They were so close to the beach it is assumed they were successful in reaching dry land very dry land as far as they were concerned. Capt. Sullivan captured the launch and its cargo. When we were permitted to look over the rum-runner's boat we were amazed to see how carefully it had been camouflaged to represent a fisherman's craft. One of the guards informed us that the disguise included all the necessary paraphernalia of a founder-fisherman's equipment. There was a green net, with cork floats, etc., and lines, ropes, buoys and other things that looked very business-like from the viewpoint of a fishing expedition. The "stage setting" was perfect. Had it been arranged by a motion picture director he would have been praised for his cleverness and faithful attention to detail. As it was it only showed to what extremes the rum-runners go in order to defraud the Government and escape just punishment. We were told that the boat, which probably cost $2,000 or more would be sold at auction for $200 or $300. The confiscated liquor will be destroyed. In spite of frequent seizures the rum-runners keep steadily at it. The profits must be indeed highly satisfactory to warrant such risks.

Furthermore, the number of "boobs" who buy and consume bootleggers' booze appears not to have diminished. We are not forgetting our pledge to "carry on" for those citizens who still have use for the sidewalks of our city and who like to feel they may walk out at any time night or day without danger of painful injury or death. Therefore we feel it our duty to say that a boy of about 13 years was riding a bicycle on the sidewalks surrounding Farlow Park on Eldredge, Vernon and Church streets early last Wednesday evening, July 23. He liked it so well he later rode on the paths in Farlow Park. No one interrupted his sport and it appeared that he was confident no one would. It was really the most audacious performance we have seen in some time and that is saying a great deal for those who ride bicycles on sidewalks must find Newton their paradise.

A friend of ours recounted to us the other day some of the most exasperating examples of "tipping" that had come to his notice. As he is in no degree a "tightwad" or "nickle nurse" his observations have the weight of sincerity. What he particularly objected to were practices known to all of us—men at least. He did describe one that was a genuine novelty, although it may not be to some of our readers. "The newest twist of this pernicious tipping system," said he, "I encountered in New York where I found the soda fountain clerk practically demanded a tip before he would draw the kind of glass or soda we desired. Several of our party advised us before we went into the store that we could not expect to obtain an ice-cream soda unless we 'took care of the fountain clerk.' This meant that he would not give us the amount of syrup, ice cream or even 'soda water' to which we were entitled unless he had assurance that at least five or ten cents in the form of a tip were coming his way. Our friend characterized this as

"What about you and me? Don't we expect to come across to the barber? It may not hurt us but what about the young fellow or the old man who has to be very careful of every penny? We get 'service' but the other fellows get a hurry-up, half-finished job." We ourselves believe that it is not quite fair to charge all barbers with such customs, for we know that in our home town there are long-established shops that would not permit of it. No doubt it does exist in larger cities where the customer is looked upon as a "transient" and consequently "fair game" for a tip-seeking workman. It is unnecessary to enumerate tipping abuses that exist everywhere in the civilized world. Maybe we human beings ourselves are to blame. It strikes us that tipping the barber and the bootblack are customs of many years standing and therefore more easily reconciled. When it gets to the soda fountain clerk we have a decided protest to offer. The public need not fear, however, according to our belief. Any clerk that would dare attempt a hold-up for a tip on a hot day would stand the grave danger of being cut-up with his own ice-pick or at least of having some crimson spots on his dainty white coat.

The newest piece of street-car propaganda has made such a deep impression upon us we cannot refrain from reference to it in spite of the fact that it may displease our friend the compositor who insists we should own a flivver. The other day we found the following among the advertising cards in the Boston Elevated cars:

I am your street car.
I carry you to and from your work.
I carry your wife to the shops.
I carry your children to school.
Use me more often, I'm dependable.
Day or night. Patronize me. Rain or shine.

We read the sign again and again. Then came an impulse to reply. This we could not resist. Here is our answer to the Elevated:

I am your passenger.
I often have to stand while riding to and from work.
My wife often has to stand.
My children also have to stand frequently.
We'd like to have seats often.
We need rest.
Day or night. Same old story. Rain or shine.

Did you study the list of worthwhile books, selected by a committee of 96 educated men and women as being the books that every American, between the ages of 20 and 45 would do well to read? Not only is it informing but most of us may well afford to profit by it. Furthermore it may not amaze you to learn that the time when the same kind of work of literature with which you are unfamiliar.

August is upon us. A suggestion for the month—two suggestions in fact. One for the Board of Assessors and the other for the Weather Man—lower the tax-rate and the temperature and make us all happy.

The marriage of Miss Mary Meyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meyers of West Newton and Mr. Leslie James Mayer, son of Mrs. Mary and the late William Howard Mayer of 160 Newton street, Waltham, took place at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, last Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Esther Gallagher of Newton, was gown in a becoming creation of white crepe meteor and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses, while her bridesmaid wore a frock of powder blue crepe back satin and carried an arm bouquet of tea roses.

WEST NEWTON MAN DROWNED

The body of Thomas K. Holbrook, 58, married, a druggist who lived with his brother at 404 Waltham street, West Newton, was found floating in the water near Magee's Wharf on Marginal street, near Shawmut street, Chelsea Friday afternoon. The identification of the body was made at the Northern Mortuary early last night by his wife, Catherine S. Holbrook, who lives at 73 Bird street, Dorchester.

Holbrook was employed at the Walden Drug Company in Chelsea, and left that place on Thursday night to go to supper. Nothing further was heard from him until his body was discovered. There was nothing surrounding the finding of the body to indicate whether the drowning was accidental or with suicidal intent.

The Graphic will support the candidacy of Lieutenant Governor Alvan T. Fuller for the Republican nomination for governor at the coming primary. Mr. Fuller has made a success of his own business where he has clearly shown his great ability as an executive and can be depended upon to give the Commonwealth a splendid business administration. In addition to this premier qualification, Mr. Fuller has a large following throughout the state among the so-called independent voters, who if he receives the Republican nomination, will undoubtedly become closer affiliated with the party organization. On the other hand, if Mr. Fuller fails to receive that nomination, this large body of voters will antagonize the party leaders for the next ten years and will prove to be a veritable thorn in the flesh of the Republican party.

It will be good business as well as good politics to nominate Mr. Fuller as the Republican candidate for governor.

It makes one's blood boil to read of the serious injuries inflicted on four little girls in East Boston by an automobile operated by men crazed with liquor, and which was driven over the sidewalk and into a group of children playing on a door step. Don't forget, Mr. and Mrs. Reader, that it may be your children who may next become the victims of these juggernauts of destruction, and that until the citizens of this state rise up in their righteous wrath and demand that these murderers be barred from our streets, death may be at hand for those near and dear to us.

One of the important changes which should be made in our municipal affairs, is the discontinuance of bell alarms for fire in the city. The ringing of the alarm, usually attracts hundreds of automobilists, whose curiosity is the sole reason for rushing to the place of the fire, where the machines often obstruct the firemen in their work as well as delay the apparatus in reaching the fire. The new chief will make a good beginning of his administration if he will cut out the bell alarms which after all, were only necessary when we had a call force.

The whispering campaign which is being pushed in this city to the effect that Lieutenant Governor Alvan T. Fuller should be defeated for the Republican nomination for governor because his wife is a Catholic deserves the condemnation of every right thinking person.

We note from figures given out by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin, that out of 101 drivers of automobiles convicted of being under the influence of liquor, that only six were committed to jail, and that 8 of these 101 cases were for second offenses where the law requires a jail sentence. When our judges refuse to obey the law, what can be expected of the average citizen.

Water Commissioner Whitney's appeal for less use of water between the hours of 6 and 8 P. M. is not based on a lack of water, but is an attempt to prevent a lowering of the water pressure in case of fire.

The Children's Day of the Newton Lodge of Elks was a tremendous and fully deserved success. It reminds us of the old time Read Fund picnics.

We heartily approve of the informal action of the board of aldermen in favoring the Greenough street location as a site for the proposed new junior high school for West Newton and Auburndale.

We hear many complaints that bath-ers using Crystal Lake are fond of parading through our streets in their bathing attire.

We have an idea that Brookline's tax rate of $20 per thousand will be an object of envy when the Newton rate is declared.

Be sure you have a mail box at your front door if you wish mail left at your residence or office. The P. O. Department means business this time.

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor, Newton Graphic:
Newton High School on Claflin Park. This land was given by the citizens of all the wards of the city, that Newtonville might have a Park the only one in the ward.

This school is to be 160 feet on Walnut street, and 288 feet down to the Tech' School to within 12 feet of it, thus obliterating it from sight.

An extraordinary effort is being made to save the Park.
The deed says that no building other than the said Tech' School shall be erected on the granted premises until its site and design have been approved. This was approved by vote of the School Committee, Dec. 6, 1907.

Secret Service Tells How to Detect "Raised" Bills

The raising of United States currency above its face value by unscrupulous individuals has become so general during the past few years that the secret service has issued a general warning to all who handle large sums of money to give close watch to all currency accepted. Hotels, banks and merchants are generally the ones who receive most of the raised money.

Ninety per cent of the money in circulation in the United States is in the form of federal reserve bank notes. Ninety-five per cent of the raised currency in circulation is in these same notes. Crooks succeed in changing the figures and the letters, but they can't change the portraits. If bank tellers, department store cashiers, railroad ticket sellers and others who handle large sums of money would memorize the portraits which appear on the different denominations of federal reserve bank notes there would be very little passing of raised currency. This ought to be easy because the portraits which appear on these bills are ones which everyone remembers from school days. They are: On the $1 federal reserve bank note, Washington; on a $2, Jefferson; $5, Lincoln; $10, Jackson; $20, Cleveland; $50, Grant; $100, Franklin.

Lives of High and Low Influenced by Figures

A book published recently draws attention to a remarkable table that Seddon, the poisoner, compiled, showing how the number 13 influenced him all through his life.

Murderers seem to be particularly subject to the malign influence of figures. Crippen's unlucky number was 48, and Charles Peace, was evilly influenced by 7.

The Bible is full of references to the potency of certain figures, notably 3 and 7, while both Oliver Cromwell and Napoleon had sincere convictions regarding the luck-bringing propensities of certain numerals.

In connection with this superstition there is the well-authenticated story that the famous Italian charlatan, Count Cagliostro, based his famous prediction concerning Marie Antoinette's execution and Josephine's elevation to empress by a calculation based on the number of letters in their names.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Ivory Famine

The elephant is a very useful animal, both for draft purposes and for ivory. A few years ago 70,000 were slaughtered annually for their tusks so that it seemed as though there was a good chance of the big animal's becoming extinct. Wise laws, however, have checked the destruction so that the number is increasing. The war gave the elephants their chance and the British authorities in East Africa have also protected them. South of Zambesi the elephant is virtually extinct and the Cape market for ivory has ceased to exist. At present Mozambique is the center of the ivory trade. Oddly enough the Portuguese, through whose hands it comes, send nearly all the ivory across to Bombay, where it is sorted and cut and dispatched to the European markets. The world's supply of real elephant ivory is now about 250 tons a year.—Washington Post.

The Radiometer

An instrument by which radiant heat and light may be directly converted into mechanical energy is an invention of Sir William Crookes. It consists of an exhausted globe of glass in which is a needle support carrying a rotating four-disk vane, the faces being blackened on one side. Placed in a field of light, the blackened side of each disk absorbs more of the radiant energy than the other side, and the molecules of residual air that strike it are thus given greater energy. The resulting pressure does not become quickly equalized for the two sides, as would be the case in air of the ordinary density, hence the vane rotates. An adaptation of the Crookes radiometer has been devised by Nichols of sufficient sensitivity to detect the radiant heat of some of the fixed stars.

Speech of Wild Beasts

All wild animals have a language of their own and the only persons who can train and handle the beasts successfully are men and women who have learned their language and give it constant study. Such is the opinion of Otto Selzer-Jackson, who has just completed twenty-five years of service as a trainer of man-eating animals and is now exhibiting his educated tigers in a Berlin circus.

Scientific Facts

Prof. W. F. Watson of Athens, Ga., claims to have taken the eyes of insects and made minute lenses through which he has made photographs of various objects, thereby throwing new light on insect vision. Commenting on insulin used in the treatment of diabetes, H. A. Shonle and J. H. Waldo of Indianapolis said that this product has yet to be obtained in pure and isolated state.

All of which were approved.

He also sent in the recommendations of Chief Randlett that $12,000 be voted for new fire apparatus at Newtonville, $150 for purchase of a Lung-motor for additional hydrants, for removal of the Willow street stable at Newton Centre and for two new men, one of which was subsequently granted by the board.

These petitions were granted: Norumbega Park for permit for children to appear on its stage, Elizabeth Casey for an intelligence office license at 336 Centre street, the Texas Co. to erect a building at 1174 Beacon street, and these garages—Samuel Farulla, 115 Cabot street, John C. Philleen, Pleasant street, and Charles V. Daiger, Grasmere street.

The petitions of P. Cetrone for a garage on West street and of P. E. Sweeney for two additional taxi licenses were refused.

Petitions were received for sewers in Fenwick road, Silver Lake avenue, and Parker street; for sidewalks on Dedham street and from J. E. Dudley that heavy trucking be prohibited on Parker street.

Hearings were assigned on Sept. 8 on matter of a victualler's license for a Chinese restaurant in Bacon Block and for the widening of Chestnut street, Waban.

An order was passed directing the Sheriff to take possession of the Byfield property, now obstructing the completion of the Underwood school and directing "using such force as you may deem necessary for the purpose."

At the request of the City Engineer an order was passed requiring numbers to be placed on all houses on certain streets.

Major Charles Raymond Cabot on behalf of Newton Post of the American Legion urged the board to appropriate the sum of $23,152.94 received from the State as its proportion of the unexpended balance of the bonus act, for a War Memorial.

The trustees of the Newton Free Library sent in their approval of the proposed site of the new High School on Walnut street and Elm road.

The Mayor recommended an appropriation of $26,122 for work of changing the course of Laundry brook to make room for the new high school, that $50,000 be appropriated from the tax levy towards the purchase of land for junior high school at Auburndale and West Newton and offer of the Newton Machine Screw Co. to buy for $125 land of the city on Dover avenue.

The board went into the committee of the whole to consider the purchase of the Atkinson or Greenough street lots, and it was rumored that the Greenough street site was approved by a vote of 11 to 7. No action was taken, however, when the board reconvened after several hours of discussion.

As stated before the board adjourned at 1:40 A. M.

Trustees of Church

Insure Pastor's Life

A new idea in church building finance made its appearance in Rochester, N. Y., recently when the trustees of the Baptist temple, who are putting up a combined church and office building in that city, insured the life and health of their pastor, the Rev. Clinton Wunder, for $100,000 for the benefit of the church, the premium to be paid out of the building fund.

Success of the undertaking depends so much upon the Rev. Wunder's energy, initiative and devotion, the trustees explained, that his death or disability would be an irreparable blow to it, and the insurance is taken out to protect the plan so far as money can do it.

The policy calls for fifteen payments. In the event of the pastor's total disability the church will receive $3,000 a year; in case of the death it will receive the full amount of $100,000.

At the expiration of twelve years, if the church desires to surrender the policy, it will have $50,000 in cash to apply on the payment of its second mortgage bonds, which become due at that time. The premium will amount to approximately $4,000 a year.

Birds May Share Fate

of Antelope and Bison

America's effort to preserve her game bird supply has proved a complete failure, according to T. Gilbert Pearson, president of National Association of Audubon Societies. He says that many species of birds are declining so rapidly that they are as sure to pass as have the antelope and bison.

"Some time ago," said Mr. Pearson, "Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborne, head of the American Museum of Natural History, issued a widely quoted statement that the animal kingdom is tottering. He said that nothing in the history of creation has paralleled the ravages of the fur and hide trade, which threatens the entire vertebrate kingdom, and he added that final cause of the close of the age of mammals can only be arrested through the creation of sound sentiment and education of the women and children."
"In the same manner the bird kingdom is tottering and will fall unless the National Association of Audubon Societies keeps up its work of arresting the destruction of birds."

Shaking Mop Out Window

In a loud voice she was telling a friend in the subway of a stunning trip she had recently made. "And do you know, my dear," she said, "the people are too lazy to dispose of rubbish in the proper way. They fling it from the windows into the street. It's all your life's worth to walk down there after dark. It's a wonder some one wouldn't teach them better."
"There's a law against it, of course," the friend agreed. "But even people who know also break it. Up where I live it is a common sight to see housewives shaking mops out of the windows over the sidewalks, and that's only one step away, don't you think?"

But the loud-speaking one suddenly became silent. The shot had gone home.—New York Sun and Globe.

Smoothing Concrete

Concrete in the rough was for a long time treated with carborundum or some other abrasive stone to remove from it unsightly surface board marks. Concrete houses where a cement wash or paint is later used are usually treated in this way.

An electric surfacing machine which works dry, that is, without the application of water, performs the task much more quickly and produces a more perfect surface. The cutter discs operate at a speed of 2,000 revolutions, under pressure. One set of cutters will do about 3,000 square feet of surfacing.

The discs revolve only when pressed upon the surface of the concrete, and operate absolutely square to it.

Petaun Grows Roses

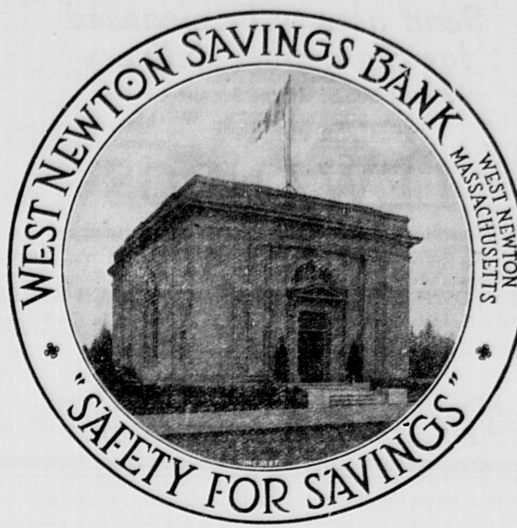

Marshall Petaun, one of the outstanding figures of the World war, has been awarded a medal by the French Agricultural society for developing a new species of blue roses. This rose, it was said, may be kept flowering for weeks. The marshal bought an abandoned farm on the Riviera, southeastern France, just after the war and his success with roses has been phenomenal. Perfume makers are organizing to market the Petaun brands.

Anthracite Substitute

Construction of an oven that turns lignite into a substance with heating properties similar to anthracite has resulted from experiments conducted by the bureau of mines co-operating with the University of North Dakota and the Canadian government. Four years ago congress appropriated $100,000 to carry on our experiments. Lignite charcoal should be available in periods of hard-coal famine that may occur in the future.

Built Own Guillotine

Isidor Hespel, nicknamed "the jackal," was for many years the executioner in the French penal settlement at Cayenne, French Guiana. Recently he killed a convict in a quarrel and was himself sentenced to be hanged. Not having much confidence in his successor he petitioned to be allowed to build his own guillotine, which favor the government granted.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

Solutions of the problems surrounding the human element in industry will be discussed by S. F. Fannon, noted business authority and production engineer in his address before the Newton Rotary Club.

MR. S. F. FANNON

Mr. Fannon's solutions, gained through an intensive study of business and industrial conditions in all parts of the country for the past eighteen years, have engaged the attention of business men and many of his ideas are being put to practical use. His talk is based on facts gained through his investigations, and is presented in a very interesting manner. Mr. Fannon's subject will be "The $7500 Industry" and the meeting will be held Monday noon, August 4 at the Norumbega Park Restaurant.

Mr. Fannon, who is now director of the department of public service of the Sherman Service, Inc., was one of the speakers at the Business Conference held in Washington, D. C., to which all the large business organizations in this and foreign countries were invited. POLICE COURT

Joseph Connelly of Prospect street, West Newton, was fined $100 by Judge Bacon in the District Court Saturday, for making an illegal sale of intoxicating liquor, also fined $250 and sentenced to one month in the House of Correction for keeping and exposing liquor for sale.

Connelly appealed and was held in bonds of $800. He was arrested by Sgt. Moran and patrolmen King and Gaquin.

This is the second trial within two weeks as a result of the Newton liquor squad's drive on the booze sellers in which the maximum fines and jail sentences have been imposed.

Chief Bernard F. Burke appeared to testify against Connelly, and asked that he be given a severe sentence, stating that complaints about the man's house have been numerous, and it has been a common nuisance.

In his defense, Connelly said he had not sold any liquor to Mrs. Albert Foley of Watertown street, West Newton, who claimed that she had bought a pint of hooch from him.

It was brought out that when the house was searched the marked bottle alleged to have been given Connelly by Mrs. Foley in payment for the liquor was not found.

Mrs. Connelly asserted that she had made Mrs. Foley a present of the liquor. The latter's husband was arrested last week on a charge of illegal sale of intoxicating liquor, and his trial was continued another week.

Three men whose homes were raided last Saturday by the liquor squad in command of Sergeants Moran and Leehan were charged in court Monday morning before Judge William Bacon, with illegal sales of liquor and keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquor. The raiding party in West Newton, consisting of officers W. J. Kiley, C. Feeley, Gaquin, King, created considerable excitement in that section on Saturday night.

The men in court were Salvatore Vintio of 124 Sheridan street, charged with illegal sale; Angelo Demotte, same address, charged with illegal sale, and Domenico Mancuso of 100 Lexington street, charged with illegal sale and keeping and exposing liquor for sale. The charge against Vintio was continued a week. Mancuso was found guilty and fined $100 for illegal sale and $250 for keeping and exposing for sale, and six months in the House of Correction. Mancuso appealed and was held in $800 for Superior Court. Demotte was also found guilty and fined $50 and was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction, both being suspended for six months.

At Vintio's home, 75 gallons of wine were seized, and at Mancuso's, five gallons of wine and two pints of whiskey. There was no seizure at Demotte's home.

At the same session of court George Titus of 41 Chesley road, Newton Centre, was fined $25 and sentenced to two months in the House of Correction for operating without a license and driving so as to endanger the lives of the public. He appealed and was held in $200.

Adjoining the Brae Burn Golf Links, there is a single house of nine rooms and 12,000 square feet of land surrounded by rustic scenery which has been sold for J. J. Conley. It is valued at $12,000 and will be occupied as a home. Alvord Bros. were the brokers.

This splendid home consists of an attractive eight room house fringed with balconies and verandas and surrounded by well arranged flower beds. OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

By William L. Daley

Washington, July 28 — From now until January, 1925, there is one college which will engage the attention of the United States, though it has no faculty, student body, or campus traditions. It has, however, received the greatest of all charters, recognition in the Constitution of the United States. This noteworthy institution, which comes into existence every four years, is the Electoral College. It is perhaps one of the most potent factors of our political system, yet not one person in a hundred thousand is acquainted with its operations.

The average citizen is usually indifferent to the fact that the Electoral College holds the key to the ultimate selection of the President and Vice President. There are a few who know the power of the "college." With formidable candidates for the Presidency now offered to the American people, the problem of capturing sufficient electoral votes has become an absorbing topic with political leaders. All too frequently the average voter regards the Electoral College as a necessary body which convenes quadrennially merely for the purpose of ratifying the popular vote. History tells another story.

The selection of John W. Davis, as the Democratic standard bearer, and Mr. Coolidge as the leader of the Republican party brings two conservative types into competition and leaves Mr. LaFollette as the leader of the so-called liberal element, making keen competition in every political sector. It is necessary that the successful candidate should have 266 electoral votes, thus the full significance of the Electoral College becomes obvious. Twice in the history of the country have there been presidential candidates threatening so to divide the electoral votes as to prevent any one of them from having a majority.

The growing fear on the part of the leaders of the two principal parties that the election will be "thrown into Congress," considering the fact that the present Congress was decidedly unmanageable, leaders profess to see a dangerous situation coming out of the possibility of having the House decide the election. A provision of the Twelfth amendment to the Constitution limits the House of Representatives in its choice to the three highest names on the list. It is said that the framers of the Constitution intended the electoral system as a potent defense against fraud. For more than a century there have been strong movements to abolish the electoral system. But it has withstood all assaults with the exception of some modifications during the latter part of the 19th century. It still retains the relative influence that the Constitution assigns to the States.

Unfortunately, the importance of the electoral plan is not commonly appreciated. It requires a great crisis and a disputed popular vote to bring it to the front every four years. The most disputed provision of the electoral system covers the question of count. According to arguments advanced by eminent statesmen, the fact that the vote in the House of Representatives for President is not per capita but by states, introduces an additional element of a most confusing and unsatisfactory nature, for it results in giving the power to elect to a majority of states representing a minority of the population of the country.

The Constitution is silent on many vital questions as to the prerogatives of the House, and the Senate. One of the foremost authorities on the electoral system has declared that "it is not inconceivable that in some future dispute over a single or a double return, one or the other of the two Houses may be tied so that no decision shall be possible, or that a deadlock between them may be prolonged, and the question would then be presented whether the House of Representatives should not itself elect the President."

The famous document also prescribes that lists of the voters properly authenticated by the state executive officer shall be transmitted in sealed packages to the President of the Senate and then opened by him in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives and the votes shall then be counted. There has been considerable controversy as to who shall count the votes as it is claimed that the Constitution failed to specifically designate the officers or officers.

Authorities on constitutional law seem to be in agreement that the question has never been definitely settled, although several attempts have been made to frame legislation for this purpose. At present the counting of electoral votes is more than a simple mathematical computation. It is pointed out that the only contingency in which by the Constitution the city of election falls to the House, is when no person has the majority of the whole number of electors appointed.

Though the people are accustomed to think that the candidate who receives the greatest number of popular votes will be chosen for the Presidency, there have been instances in American history where Congress has upset this theory. The history of the United States shows that three times has a candidate having a smaller popular vote than his leading rival been successful in attaining the Presidency. For instance, John Quincy Adams in 1824, Hayes in 1876, and Benjamin Harrison in 1888. The presence of LaFollette with a strong third party ticket is somewhat analogous to the situation in which is described by Seward as "guerilla warfare."

As the public realizes the influence of electors, the desirability of exercising care in their selection will become more apparent. Many regard electors as party puppets but they undoubtedly have great power, and responsibilities.

The numerical resemblances of the two major parties are well pronounced in the east and midwest than in any other sections as they draw heavily from the more popular states. Republican leaders say that Mr. Coolidge will attract electors from the northwestern and some of the western states, although political conditions are in such a turmoil that nobody ventures predictions as to the vote which a third party will poll in November.

As the political imbroglio becomes more distinct the importance of the fictitious college will be more apparent to the three principal contestants.

The term "college" is perhaps misleading as it is intended to apply to the meeting of electors but is no wise a constitutional designation. The law specifically requires that the electors shall meet in their respective states on a particular day for the purpose of balloting on the candidates for the Presidency, and when their votes are duly cast, listed, signed and certified, the Constitution requires that they be submitted under seal to the President of the Senate. This duty being ended, the college ceases to exist for another four years.

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS

So much comment has been heard in the Newton Corner section about the detour now required by the traffic ordinance in the city, whereby automobiles coming from Watertown going in the direction of Boston are compelled to go up Center street to Washington, over Hall street to Center, and back on to Washington street, that a member of that indefatigable band of statisticians has presented a few figures to prove that the inconvenience of the detour to motorists is compensated by the insurance of safety given to pedestrians. This man figured the distance of the detour as 175 yards, or one-tenth of a mile. On the present cost of gas and tires and the figures of the State Department of Finance, he figures it costs eight-tenths of a cent to make the detour. Assuming a 10-mile-an-hour rate of speed, he figures a half a minute is lost. "Isn't it worth one-half a minute of time and eight-tenths of a cent," he asks, "to make the square safe for pedestrians?" After considerable changing about the square, Chief Burke now has the detour so well posted with silent cops and other direction signs and markings that the confusion of making the detour is a thing of the past, and traffic is moving swiftly again with the assistance of the regular traffic officer in the square, Ray Taffe, and another officer, whose duty is warning motorists and affixing tags on cars parked in violation of the regulations. —Boston Globe.

MOTHERS' REST ENTERTAINMENT

Mrs. Frank L. Nagle of 83 Kirkstall road, Newtonville was the hostess to twenty mothers and their children at the Mothers' Rest in Needham Wednesday evening.

Mr. Fred E. Mann presided at the piano and was in charge of the entertainment. Mrs. Mann entertained the company with poems and selections in her usual happy style. The soloist of the evening was Miss Isabella M. Walker of Boston, who delighted the company with a number of well selected solos. A number of the guests entered into the spirit of the evening and participated in the entertainment. Community singing prevailed, ice cream and cake were served and a general good time was enjoyed by all and it was voted that everybody had a good time. This organization is doing a good work and is deserving of substantial support from our citizens.

CITY HALL NOTES

The Assessors believe they will have the tax rate ready to announce in about two weeks.

The city has been informed that it will have $301,787.12 as its share of the income tax for the present year. Last year the receipts from this source were $319,836.53.

Public Buildings Commissioner Chadwick has received the following bids for the removal of the following sheds rear of the Technical High School and the erection of an addition to the school for its motor repairing work: C. S. Cunningham, $8,775; John MacDonald, $9,421; W. H. Whitcomb, $12,890 and J. W. Duff, Inc., $14,239.

Miss Gertrude Bourne of the City Clerk's office is spending her vacation at Silver Lake, Madison, N. H.

Miss Ethel Tinker of the Board of Health office is leaving Saturday for a three weeks' vacation.

FOX CO. OUTING

The annual outing of the Fox Furniture Company employees was held Wednesday afternoon and evening at Nantasket Beach. About 50 employees of the store and warehouse left Newton Corner at 1.30 in automobiles. Dinner was served at the Atlantic House.

During the afternoon the baseball teams of the store and warehouse adjourned to a nearby field and settled an old score, but on their return to the sands where the majority of the gathering were enjoying the bathing, neither team would announce just what the score was. It is rumored that the ball was lost and the teams went riding on roller coasters.

In the evening Paragon Park was visited, and the start for home was made shortly after 10. Samuel Marshall and Miss Eleanor Gallagher were in charge of the day's program.

PLENTY OF WATER

Water Commissioner J. C. Whitney requests householders to reduce the use of water between the hours of 6 and 8 P. M. while the dry weather continues. This is due, not to a lack of water, but because the general use of water at that time, reduces the pressure of the water and, in high points in the city, may cause trouble in case of fire. Water can be used at other times of the day, as usual.

The city is now using over five million gallons a day of which some 700,000 gallons is taken from the Metropolitan system.

DEATH OF MR. SHANNON

While playing golf on the links of the Charles River Country Club, Dedham, Saturday noon, Arthur H. Shannon, department manager and member of the board of directors of R. H. White Company, Boston, and a resident of Newton Centre, dropped dead in a bunker on the seventh fairway. He had left his home early in the morning with his daughter, Gwendolyn, with whom he was to play, and to all appearances was in the best of health. Mr. Shannon had never known a sick day, nor had he ever complained of heart trouble.

Born in the northwestern part of Ireland, where he lived until his 20th year, he entered the dry goods business early in life, and on his arrival in this country he entered the employ of the department store of R. H. Macy in New York city. For a short time he was with this firm, and then for 10 years was connected with B. Altman & Co., in New York. In 1904 he came to Boston and became a buyer for R. H. White Company, in whose employ he had been until the time of his death, rising to the position of department manager and director of the firm four years ago. He was an able buyer, and well versed in all forms of merchandising.

He was a member of Dalhousie Lodge, A. F. & A. M., the Boston and Newton Chambers of Commerce, and of the Charles River Country Club. He had made his home in Newton Centre for several years, and was a deacon of the First Congregational Church.

He is survived by a widow and three children, Gwendolyn, Erville and Muriel Shannon, all of Newton Centre.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the First Church, Newton Centre, the edifice being thronged by a large number of friends and business associates.

Rev. Edward MacArthur Noyes, the pastor, conducted the services, after which the Masonic ritual was carried out by Worshipful Master G. E. Rushforth and the officers of Dalhousie Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Newtonville, while there were tenor solos by J. Garfield Stone, a member of the lodge. The body was placed in a tomb in the Newton Cemetery.

The bearers, all of whom represented the R. H. White Company, were: George B. Johnson, president; Maurice A. McBride, vice president; Herbert T. Russell, director; Gilbert H. Noyes, director; Francis W. Tully, director; A. H. Sargent, Jr., store superintendent; Samuel L. Carr, formerly treasurer; and David C. Theall.

Y. M. C. A.

Every week boys sent out by the City Missionary Society of Boston are entertained at the Y. M. C. A. The group this week were in charge of Miss Cornish and Miss Fay. Comment on these outings is as follows: "We cannot begin to tell you how our boys look forward to this trip. It is certainly a great outing for them."

The annual circus at Camp Frank A. Day will be put on by the leaders and campers on Saturday afternoon, August 2nd. Parents and friends of the campers are invited to attend. A little later the campers will repeat some of their stunts at Brookfield Day which is to be held in the town of Brookfield.

A new well has been driven at Camp Day. There is a large flow of water which has been examined by the State Board of Health and pronounced fit in every way for drinking water. This solves the water problem at the camp which has been bothersome during the hot dry weather.

fixing the cost of oil. If the owners of these other industries shall have a voice in arbitrarily fixing by law the price of petroleum and its products then it is equally consistent that petroleum shall have a voice in the arbitrary fixing by law of the price of lumber, of iron, of wheat, of coal, and of labor.

"The petroleum industry spent six hundred million dollars last year drilling for oil. Seventy per cent of that expenditure was for lumber steel and iron. There are twenty-two States producing lumber in appreciable quantities. Have the citizens of the twenty-six other States named to the citizen landowners of the lumber producing States what shall be the price of a stick of timber? There are twenty-six States that produce coal. Have the citizens of the other States, through their Senators and Congressmen, told the citizen landowners of those sovereign States producing coal what shall be the price of a ton of coal removed from under their coal lands? Twenty-five States are producing ore. Fifteen States are producing copper. Shall the prices of these products be fixed by law?

"The extent and quantity of that crude supply however is most uncertain. No man knows its scope or extent. The continuance of supply is absolutely dependent upon the finding from month to month and year to year of new pools, the location and size of which are now known to no man. Scientists have guessed there remains unmined within the United States a quantity equal to an eleven years' supply. Naturally it is an estimate not susceptible of exact computation, and that point is exactly where the danger lies and is partially responsible for the rapid fluctuations in price of gasoline which all of you have experienced. However, it is the best guess of a group of men best fitted to guess on this subject. The correct amount might be more. It might be less, but whether it is a five years' supply, or a twenty-five years' supply, matters little in the history of a Nation, and there is every reasonable expectation that it will fall between those two extremes. Coupled with the uncertainty of exactly when that shortage will begin to manifest itself, the estimated amount is dangerously small when considered in connection with the importance of this product to the American people.

"That eleven years' supply, or five, or twenty-five, whichever you may prefer, does not mean from wells already drilled or pools already found, but includes everything yet to be discovered. As a matter of fact, the known oil supply of the United States, subject to actual computation with some degree of certainty, is only a three years' supply. That consists: 1st—of the petroleum already above ground; 2nd—of the oil that will be produced from the wells already drilled; 3rd—oil to be produced from land tested out but not yet drilled. Of these three sources, it is said in exploration: There are five hundred million barrels of petroleum and its products in storage, or about an eight months' supply. The wells now drilled will produce, before exhaustion, an amount equal to one and one-half to two years' supply. The future production of an already drilled well can be calculated with reasonable accuracy. This leaves a margin of four to six months, which is probably excessive, for the small amount of land adjacent to each field proven up and known to be capable of producing oil but not yet drilled.

"The point I wish to make is that oil men do not know whether there is a five, an eleven, or a twenty-five years' supply of oil underground, but they do know that the supply is not ever it is a definite, fixed one, that at some uncertain time must become exhausted. They have seen Pennsylvania flood the world's markets and then decline to a negligible quantity. They have seen West Virginia repeat the experience, then Ohio, then Indiana, then Illinois. Every one of these States individually at some time in its history has produced such a flood of oil as to bring the petroleum industry to a similar state of demoralization as did 20-cent corn and 40-cent wheat to the farming industry of Kansas and Iowa. Expensive facilities were erected to care for these floods of oil, for the oil industry compels erection of facilities to care for the flood at all cost, then the flood receded and the facilities were inadequately supplied. These facilities were like a ship on a river gone dry except as they constantly reached out, at immense cost, into new districts hundreds of miles distant.

"In time the Ponca City Region will pass as did Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois—and these did not pass through any lack of intensive search for new pools, but because oil men and scientists after most diligent search were forced to the reluctant conclusion that the original oil content of the Eastern third of the United States had become depleted to the extent that it can no longer be an important factor in the Nation's supply.

"I am therefore brought to the following conclusions, namely, that the oil industry is not of a type that would readily lend itself to Governmental control and operation; that the industry is very necessary to the well-being of this United States; that the facts do not disclose unreasonable prices on the part of the oil industry but on the contrary do disclose that these products are being furnished to the American people at prices correspondingly lower than are being received for other necessities of life. We believe therefore, these charges against the petroleum industry are to a very large extent due to misunderstanding of the facts on the part of the consuming public. Without doubt the oil industry has been at fault in not acquainting the public with more of the details of its business. Perhaps it can also admit to some unwise methods of conducting its business, but certainly these unwise methods do not include unreasonable prices. Furthermore, the oil industry desires to secure and retain the confidence of the public and we bespeak for it your very greatest consideration to that end."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington July 30.—There is a clause in the Constitution of the United States which may ultimately upset the best laid plans of men thoroughly versed in political management. It is possible, but not altogether probable, that one of the three candidates for the Vice-Presidency may yet be President of the United States, despite the popular vote for the avowed candidates for the office. At first glance this statement presents an amazing state of affairs yet it is strikingly confirmed by the greatest of all American documents, the Constitution. Privately, political leaders make no secret of their deep concern. But, in their public utterances they pay little attention to the situation because they know that the ordinary voter does not comprehend the intricate machinery of presidential elections and is concerned primarily with his individual vote.

It is easy for the layman to scoff at the qualified prediction that Charles Bryan, Charles Dawes, or Burton Wheeler have a chance to become President in place of Messrs. Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette. The leaders, however, confronted by stern realities, cannot afford to affect indifference on these matters. There is a pronounced tendency on their part to cultivate the electors and to interest themselves in congressional campaigns. In fact, the LaFollette organization has openly announced its intention to pledge the present members of the House in order that LaFollette may have their support in the event the Presidential election reaches the House of Representatives. If LaFollette is in a position to hold the balance of power in such a contingency, the House may not be able to reach a decision. As a consequence, the choice of the President will fall upon the Senate.

Talks with those in charge of the various campaigns indicate that the influence of the Senate is not entirely theoretical. An intimate study of the Constitution has developed facts of great significance to political leaders. Whenever the electors have failed of a choice the duties of the House are perspicuously enumerated by the Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution "from the person having the highest number, not exceeding one, on the list voted for as President, the electors in the House shall choose immediately by ballot, a President."

The ballots are taken by state, each state, represented, having one vote. A majority of all the states elects and a two-thirds of all the states must be represented to constitute a quorum. If no person has a majority of votes for Vice-President the Constitution says: "The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President shall be Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person has a majority, then from the two highest on the list the Senate shall choose the Vice-President by a two-thirds vote."

The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President shall be Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person has a majority, then from the two highest on the list the Senate shall choose the Vice-President by a two-thirds vote. two states to cast a ballot would naturally prevent the leading candidate from obtaining a majority. It is pointed out that a state might in good faith be prevented from voting because of its representation being so divided as to have no majority for any candidate. Considering the political complexion of the present Congress which would have the decision, this condition is not impossible. It is conceivable that the states pledged to LaFollette could intentionally refrain from voting in order to prevent an election or obtain concessions from the other states.

Whose political star is in the ascendancy depends upon partisan views. Several observers hold the opinion that if LaFollette is to dominate in the Senate, assuming that the election reaches that body, his followers would likely accept Governor Bryan as against General Dawes, because Bryan's political views are said to be more in harmony with LaFollette's ideas, than the Republican Vice-Presidential candidate. However, predictions these days depend largely upon partisanship and must be accepted on such grounds.

A TRIBUTE

On Wednesday, July twenty-third, in the early morning, the earthly life of Mr. Edward S. Lichtenthaler quietly ended. At five o'clock that afternoon neighbors and friends gathered in the home, 37 Waldorf road, Newton Highlands. The service was conducted by Rev. Guy N. Miner of St. Mary's Episcopal church, Newton Lower Falls. Interment was in Charles Evans Cemetery, Reading, Pennsylvania.

him: the elder daughter, Mrs. Frank 1876 to Susan A. Ziegler, who, with one son and two daughters, survive him: the eldest daughter, Mrs. Frank Hankinson of Staten Island, contralto soloist in Sailor's Snug Harbor, New York City; the only son, Frank E. Lichtenthaler, a member of the Boston firm, the Walter E. Lummus Company; the younger daughter a physician, Dr. Marguerite E. Lichtenthaler, of Wellesley Hills. There are four grandchildren, the eldest a Wellesley College graduate, the second a Cornell student, the two younger ones at home.

Mr. Lichtenthaler was born, educated and lived in Pennsylvania sixty-four years. At fifty years of age, active in church and social circles, at the head of a large, successful business, his health was impaired, and the remaining twenty-four years were of singular pathos, shared by his family.

In 1913 Mr. Lichtenthaler came to Massachusetts, spent five years in Newton, and seven years in Newton Highlands. His new friends found him of a buoyant nature, with power of keen observation and appreciation of human nature, interested in music. Little children loved him, friends left his room strengthened to meet life's problems, realizing his was the greater task. His late pastor, Dr. H. Grant Person said, that when he left his presence he was inspired and lifted up to do greater work.

"They also serve, who only stand and wait."

WHAT IT COSTS YOU TO BE A NON-HOME OWNER

Some people think it's cheaper, to rent a house than to own a home.

Let us see if that is true. If shelter is all that you are thinking of and all you want, renting might be cheaper in one sense of the word.

But what about the money you pay for that shelter in a year's time? Is that money worth anything to you, wouldn't you like to have the interest on that YOURSELF and the total amount in your own name?

Remember that when you rent you are paying for a home that you never own. Ten years of average rent will pay the bill. Are you willing to literally hand the price of your home to someone else?

In other words, if you are paying $50.00 per month rent it is costing you just that much to be a non-home owner. Are you willing to continue paying that much for the privilege?

Come in and let us show you how easy it is to become a home-owner.

Bronze Statue Mystery to Pioneer of Oregon Trail

"It's a small world after all," said Ezra Meeker, oldest living pioneer of the Oregon trail, as he gazed the other day on a bronze statue of himself that was uncovered in a small art shop in Vienna and brought to this country by A. Well, an Englishman.

The romance and mystery surrounding the statue were heightened by Mr. Meeker's declaration that he had not posed for the piece, did not know it was in existence and could not offer an explanation for its presence so far away from the Old West in which he spent his early days.

"There are my oxen," said the pioneer as he examined the base of the miniature statue with a magnifying glass. "Look how that horn turns down; how well I remember that."

He found that even the improvised cloth feed bin, used in going over the pioneer trails, was depicted true to life. The statue itself is Mr. Meeker in miniature. The broad-brimmed hat, the beaded Indian vest, even the gauntlets, the pioneer recognized at a glance.

Mr. Well was unable to satisfy Mr. Meeker's curiosity regarding the original of the statue. The method of casting bronze in Austria is familiar to Mr. Well, he said, and could not be duplicated easily outside of the country. Mr. Well is sure it was produced in Vienna. The sculptor's name, inscribed on the base, is C. Curtz, but the name does not offer any clue to the origin of the piece.

Stock for Indian Arrow

Required to Be Perfect

Every plains teepee had hanging in it a bunch of slender sticks seasoning for arrows.

If particular in the materials for his bow the brave was even more so where arrow stock was concerned. Any available hardwood, if straight and free from knots, served. When seasoned, the shaft was meticulously scraped and smoothed and feathered with various pinions. The Arapahoes and Cheyenne usually used those of the wild turkey, softened in tepid water, split and glued with a glue made from a large muskrat at the back of the neck of the buffalo, writes Frank H. Huston in "Adventure."

The glue was less susceptible to climatic variations than any other used by the tribes. The final touch was given by placing an individual mark upon the shaft to identify the person who made the kill, whether of human or brute game.

Heads were made from flint, obsidian, odd bits of iron and even old barrel hoops, until, toward the last of the bow and arrow days, traders carried in iron ones made in eastern and English manufacturing towns, shipped in barrels.

Spain's Gift to Britain

Spain has recently made England a present of a model of the Santa Maria, the ship in which Columbus sailed to America, and the gift recalls others given at various times by one country to another.

Everybody has heard of the famous Liberty statue in New York. This was presented to America by France in 1884.

Some years ago the French government presented a Sevres vase to the British museum. It is a magnificent specimen and very valuable.

Ancient weapons, such as guns, swords and so on, are fairly common gifts from one country to another. That which is known as "Queen Elizabeth's pocket pistol" was a gift to Great Britain from the Netherlands. It was cast as long ago as 1544.—London Tit-Bits.

Detecting the Bogus

French chemists have perfected new methods of identifying pictures, according to the American Chemical society. They use groups of red, blue, green or white light to light the picture, and they examine the suspected canvas with the spectrometer. This puts in relief the retouchings, scrapings and changed signatures which constitute a false picture. By employing the ultra-violet ray they make the zinc white and certain varnishes stand out by fluorescence. By scraping off small amounts of paint they have made spectrographic analyses and have been able to determine, for example, in a false Renoir, the presence of a cadmium yellow, when Renoir only used chrome yellow.

Keyhole in Demand

Peter was no different from other boys. Sometimes when his sister's friend would call he would entertain him in the drawing-room until Dolly came downstairs.

One night the young man asked the youngest if he ever peeped through the keyhole while he and the boy's sister were in the drawing-room.

With a sudden burst of candor, Peter answered: "Sure, when mother isn't there first!"—Boston Post.

Improved Golf Shaft

After several years of experimenting a new golf shaft, made entirely of hickory and comprising nine sections, has been invented. It is claimed to be "differ proof"—in other words, as nearly unbreakable as a golf shaft of a light material can be made.

THE SOONER STATE

The National Editorial Association Enjoys the Unbounded Hospitality of the State of Oklahoma

While Ponca City had set the pace for unbounded hospitality, Tulsa, the oil capital of the world, as the Tulsaans view it—was not to be outdone, and our day in that city was most delightful.

Early in the morning we found ourselves on the private railroad track of the Coston Oil Co., in West Tulsa, and the first matter on the program was a most delicious breakfast, served in the Cafeteria of that company.

Following this was an inspection of the plant of that company, said to be the largest independent refinery in the world. It covers 900 acres of land, and has a capacity of over 30,000 crude oil per day. It employs one thousand men, and has a payroll of six million dollars per year.

I have no liking for manufacturing plants, and did not avail myself of the opportunity to learn how gasoline and the other products of petroleum are obtained. I only saw huge, awkward shaped machines and buildings, and let it go at that.

After the inspection of the plant, we filled a hundred automobiles and made a trip about the city. I was fortunate enough to be the guest of Mr. Newton R. Graham, who was chairman of the entertainment committee, and he and his wife were most hospitable.

We found Tulsa a most attractive city, with hundreds of beautiful homes, mostly of the bungalow style of architecture, and it seemed almost impossible that it was only an Indian trading post fifteen years ago. Now it is a city of over 100,000 inhabitants, with skyscrapers, and splendid business blocks, far more attractive than many cities of longer growth, and much more population.

Mr. Graham was an officer of the Exchange National Bank, and was justly proud of its fine building and banking offices, equal, if not exceeding those of the Shawmut or Merchants banks in Boston. Mr. Graham told us that the banks of Tulsa had deposits of about $70,000,000, and his own bank had deposits of over $25,000,000.

The city is justly proud of its new system of water works, which is about completed. The water is brought by gravity from the Ozark mountains, sixty miles away, and has cost about seven million dollars. We were shown part of the work in our ride about the city.

The most interesting and unusual feature of the day, however, was a visit to the home of Dr. Charles Page at Sand Springs, a suburb of the city. Dr. Page is one of the millionaires of the city, and has developed one of the most unusual methods of spending his money.

Dr. Page evidently loves children, for he has legally adopted more than a hundred of them, and keeps them in a fine, three story brick building with a large roof garden, spacious verandas, nicely furnished living rooms, numerous music rooms, and is about to start a million dollar agricultural and mechanical building for the education of the boys. The children are of all ages, from tiny babes to young men and women about to be married. The place is their home—not an orphan asylum—and every comfort is provided for them. Each one has a private room, and there is a matron on each floor. Dr. Page is most careful in his selection of these children, and they all call him "Daddy."

As a side line to the home, Dr. Page has erected a cotton mill of 65,000 spindles in which he employs the widowed mothers of children who are only half orphans. He has built a group of cottages in which these little families live, and the children are educated along with his own. With all the complaint here in the East over the removal of our cotton industry to the South, this venture of Dr. Page throws a new aspect on the situation.

We had lunch with Dr. Page to music furnished by a boys' orchestra of the Home—and a most pleasing luncheon it proved.

After luncheon we motored to Sand Springs Lake, where the enterprising merchants of the city put on a Bathing Beauty Pageant for our entertainment. Some beautiful costumes as well as most attractive girls paraded on the beach for our enthusiastic inspection.

The rest of the afternoon was spent in various ways; passes for a ball game, or for a swim or for admission to the theatre were at our disposal. We had the pleasure of visiting Mr. and Mrs. Graham in their home, and obtained some much needed rest.

That evening we were guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a banquet held in the Central High School building, a structure which cost $2,000,000, and is said to be the third largest school building in the country.

The principal address of the evening was by Mr. Harry H. Smith, secretary of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association. Mr. Smith said in part:

Mr. Marcossion, writing in the Saturday Evening Post, said that oil had endowed Tulsa. I would respectfully submit that oil has endowed a nation! For the American Petroleum Industry has indeed endowed this nation with Petroleum Supremacy—which means prestige in international relations—a powerful and efficient navy—cheap lubrication for the railroads, manufacturing plants and printing presses—the ownership of nearly 16 million or over 80% of the automotive vehicles of the world, and a motor fuel so cheap that 75% of the American population may utilize for open air recreation or for business purposes, motor transportation. When Mr. Ford again reduces the price of "Whoopees" we anticipate that every head of a family may own and operate one. At least the cost of gasoline and lubricating oil will not prevent. Petroleum is such an integral part of modern day commerce as to be indispensable. Without it, business could not be transacted in anything like its present volume. Observe for a moment the traffic on Fifth avenue, New York; Michigan avenue, Chicago, or on Main street in any sizable American city—yea, even upon the rural highways and by-ways and in the fields of the great

CHAMBER OUTING

The stage is all set and plans complete for the joint outing of the Newton Chamber of Commerce and Brookline Board of Trade at Norumbega Park next Wednesday afternoon and evening, August 13. Tickets are meeting with a ready sale and a large attendance seems assured. Those who have not yet secured tickets may do so at various places of business, the offices of the Newton Trust Company, garages, etc., throughout the city, or at the Chamber office at 277 Washington street, Newton. Tickets may be ordered by telephone by calling the Chamber office, Newton North 4077.

The automobile parade, preceding the outing, will form at Newton Corner. All ticket holders having cars and planning to participate in the parade are requested to report on Richardson street, preferably at the Washington street end, not later than one o'clock. Headed by the Newton Constabulary Band, the Newton division of the parade will swing down through Nonantum Square and proceed to Brookline where the Brookline delegation will fall into line. After a short tour of the business sections of Brookline Village and Coolidge Corner, the parade will return to Newton via Beacon street, to Newton Centre, and then down to Newton Corner, from which point the route will be direct to the park via Newtonville, West Newton, and Auburn-dale.

The sports will start immediately upon arrival, with a baseball game, tug of war, and various other events. This program will be continuous and keep the crowd busy until near six o'clock, when dinner will be served at the Norumbega Park Restaurant. The speaking program after the dinner will be short and there will be various entertainment features to occupy the time until eight o'clock, when the gathering will adjourn to the Norumbega Park Theatre for the evening performance.

The principal speaker will be Roger W. Babson, head of the Babson Statistical Organization, who will give a short twenty minute talk on "The Business Outlook." Mayor Edwin O. Childs will preside and introduce the speaker. Other entertainment will be provided and all advance indications point to a varied and interesting program, and an unusually successful outing.

DEATH OF OFFICER NEAGLE

Martin J. Neagle, a member of the police force of Newton for over thirty years, died suddenly last Monday at his home on River street, West Newton.

Mr. Neagle was born in Newton Aug. 26, 1856, and became a member of the police department on Nov. 24, 1890, retiring on a pension on Feb. 6, 1922. Mr. Neagle was one of the most popular men in the department, and had many friends in West Newton, which was his beat for many years.

He is survived by his widow, four sons, Frederick H. Neagle of Boston, Wm. Edwin Neagle of Baltimore, Dr. Walter M. Neagle and George C. Neagle of West Newton, and one daughter, Mrs. Bertha Dunne of Newton.

Funeral services were held from his late home Thursday morning at 9 o'clock with solemn high mass of requiem at 10 at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton. Rev. Walter Clark of Ohio was celebrant, Rev. John J. Allston of St. Bernard's Church, deacon, Rev. William J. Holland, formerly of St. Bernard's Church, now of Campbell, sub-deacon. The pall bearers were six policemen, Wm. H. Dolan, Wm. J. Kiley, John T. Roche, Francis M. Cain, Thomas H. Dolan and Charles Coady. A detail of about 50 policemen with Sgt. Richard L. Bannon in charge, accompanied the remains from the house to the church and from the church to the cemetery. The church was thronged with mourners, among whom were Mayor Childs, Chief Burke, and a delegation from St. Bernard's Court of M. C. O. F.

Prayers at the grave were read by Rev. Fr. Allston, assisted by Rev. John Connolly of St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury, formerly a West Newton boy. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

THE 75 CENT DOLLAR

The guest and speaker at the regular Monday luncheon this week of the Newton Rotary Club held at Norumbega Park restaurant, was Mr. S. K. Fannon of the Sherman Service Inc., production engineers. Mr. Fannon, who is a forceful and eloquent speaker, took for his subject, "The seventy-five cent dollar in business," and pointed out that there was that much loss in every pay envelope, due to lack of sympathy with the employee.

He challenged the wisdom of his auditors in spending far too much of their time and money in studying and analyzing plants and equipment, and far too little in trying to understand their employees and getting their viewpoint. He declared that, to maintain in any business the maximum efficiency in conjunction with minimum outlay, every force in industry must co-operate to the fullest, and that this cannot be accomplished until the attention that it merits is given to a firm's heaviest investment, the payroll. In the absence of this, he said, the 75-cent dollar, already a reality in many firms, will be general, and 100 cents on the dollar will be an unknown factor in business and industry.

The lack of good will and understanding between employer and employee, Mr. Fannon declared, is responsible each year in this country for a deficiency in business of approximately $3,500,000,000, and until this great drain is wiped out, production in this country will be about 25 per cent under what it should be. This, he pointed out, constitutes an increasingly vital danger in the present day, when industrial peace is fast dawning in Europe. American trade, hindered now because of industrial conditions in this country, will in addition be confronted soon by the driving power of European labor and industry running at full blast.

This same thing is just as true within a business, Mr. Fannon argued, and made a plea for confidence between employer and employee. He declared that it can be brought about, and that it was up to the employer to do it. It can be done, he insisted, if the employer takes the time and effort to get the viewpoint of the employee. He said:

"Find out what he thinks of you! Find out what he thinks of the place he works in! Find out what he thinks of the product! Find out what he thinks of his wages! He is your biggest investment! Whenever labor and capital fail to co-operate, labor meets with hindrance in the open market. They must realize that it is not a question of how many dollars they get, but of what they can buy for a dollar in the open market." He urged that, having gained the employee's viewpoint, then co-operation in full must be secured, and that, thirdly, a program of simple education must be undertaken, pointing out to the worker, the way to get the most for his dollar; education in the business and in economics; 100 per cent Americanism. There lay the road, he said, on which the "75-cent dollar" would die, and where industrial peace would reign.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Joseph Sakol, 9-year-old boy, who lives at 2 Highland terrace, Needham, just across the Newton line, sustained a fractured leg Saturday evening in a peculiar accident at the corner of Winchester and Boylston streets, Newton Highlands. With two other companions, all three riding bicycles, the boys coasted down the Boylston street hill above Winchester street at a fast rate of speed. One was unable to make the turn at Winchester street and ran into a field where he fell off his wheel, but was uninjured. James J. Webber of 41 Terrace street, Roxbury, who was driving a car along Boylston street, saw young Sakol wavering on his bike, and he stopped to allow the boy to get by safely. Sakol ran into the stopped car, fell off and fractured his leg. He was taken to the Newton Hospital by Webber.

A WILD TIME

Four youths, sons of prominent parents of Chestnut Hill and Brookline, were fined and severely censured by Judge Bacon in the Police Court Wednesday morning as the result of a wild party in the home of one of the boys, Henry Santosuosso, 122 College road, Chestnut Hill, across the street from Boston College, in which furniture was smashed, telephone wires cut and a Newton police officer, Patrolman Ed. Chadwick, was well bruised.

Henry Santosuosso, son of a well-known Boston doctor and lawyer, was fined $15 on charges of being drunk, $25 for disturbance and $50 for assault on an officer. Thomas Healey of Brookline was fined $15 on a drunkenness charge and $25 on a charge of disturbance. Joseph Ford of Brookline was fined $15 and $25 on the same charges, and John Richards of 51 Homer street, Newton Centre, was given a suspended sentence of 15 days in the House of Correction. Santosuosso appealed and was held in bonds of $500.

Patrolman Chadwick, while walking along Commonwealth avenue, Monday evening, was attracted by the noise at Santosuosso's home. He found seven young men there, all fighting he said, while an older brother of the youth arrested was attempting to eject them from the house. This young man had come home late, had found the party in full swing and when he threatened to call for help to put them out the

Washington, Aug. 6.—Though official Washington is particularly dull at this time of the year, those who hold political jobs or those who expect to receive political favors, are obviously concerned over the caprices of the market for farm products. It is said in many quarters that the yield of the soil and the demand for the products holds the key to the formation of a third party. The increasing complexity of political conditions continues to baffle even the most astute politicians who realize that public opinion is profoundly interested and divided on the chances of a third party getting a permanent foothold after the November elections.

The formal notifications to the prospective candidates of their nomination for the Presidency revives partisan interest in platforms and resolutions of intentions. Impartial observers are unanimous in their declaration that it would be folly to predict the outcome of the autumn elections at this early stage of the contest. Political leaders are cognizant of the necessity of stimulating party activity on the great questions of the day, and familiarizing the voter with the party commitments. Always sensible of the limitations of the people, these party leaders do not intend to wait for human nature to change, but revise their own institutions to fit human nature. As one thoughtful leader stated recently, "There is no hope in putting a square collar on a horse and then condemning the horse for failure to grow a square neck."

The claim was advanced in many quarters that economic factors more than political ideals may govern the rise of a third party. The political dopesters say that a third party must have its nucleus in a separation of the two major parties, and it now resolves itself into the question as to which campaigner will suffer the heaviest numerical losses in the popular vote. Republican leaders have argued lately that the upward revision of wheat, corn and hog prices in the Middle West will strengthen their position, and discount many of LaFollette's best arguments for a change. The Democratic and Progressive leaders insist that these eleventh hour changes in the economic structure are not at all convincing. However, there is always a perspective in politics.

In the discussions of the third party movement here and in other cities it has been brought out that LaFollette hopes to make a strong showing in the fall and then build up a permanent party on his theory of state. A third party movement sometimes implies that the followers discard the other groups on the ground that their platforms represent outworn and obsolete ideas of political thought, which is not exactly true in this case. It has been said that this new movement would be patterned after the British labor party in its legislative program, but conditions here and in England are vastly different, and such a plan would necessarily be modified to insure its acceptance by any large body of voters.

Those who have studied the political systems say that the independent voter has some difficulty in the registry of his intentions under the present balloting system. There are four types of Presidential ballots in use in 46 states which even results in widespread confusion as to the methods prescribed vary. LaFollette's managers have hopes of capitalizing on split tickets, but splitting a ballot involves risk of error and loss of votes. It is this lack of understanding which makes the straight ticket the easiest method of voting, and it is said, strengthens the two major parties.

While the campaign has not yet reached the stage where personalities are bandied about in political discussions, it is interesting to note that all parties are giving their attention to insuring a heavy vote at the fall elections. In every locality speakers endeavor to awaken the citizens' interest in the government and those who want the highest office in the gift of the people. Just now they are hard-pressed in devising methods for the enlightenment of potential voters. It has been said that just as the multitude needs leaders to inspire them and to think for them, so leaders need the great mass of sensible, well-intentioned followers to keep them in check.

James Brice, former Ambassador to Great Britain, and a recognized authority on American history, declared that "no leader, no party, no legislature, can ever run a State while the great body of Average Citizens, the better educated and the less educated, taken together continue to maintain a high level of public spirit and practical good sense."

Those who have analyzed the existing state of things have reported to the various Washington headquarters that the most retarding factor is indifference to civic duty and indifference to public affairs. The apathy of the citizen has aroused political leaders in various communities to such an extent that they have formed "get-out-the-vote" clubs in which party workers are asked to serve as missionaries.

The question of the tariff has cropped up again at a time when everybody believed that it was an issue well on its way outside of politics. It is apparent that the present Tariff Commission will be reorganized because of the difference of opinion existing in the Commission. Other Government departments are functioning as usual, being, for the time, outside the realm of politics. Perhaps an exception may be made in the case of the War Department which has become involved in a political discussion as to the necessity and ultimate effects of a National Defense day. The attitude of Governor Bryan in condemning the plan of mobilization has developed sharp conflicts in various parts of the country. It is quite natural that there should be some speculation as to the possible outcome of Governor Bryan's stand on the matter. The fact that John W. Davis, the Presidential candidate, has concurred with some of his running-mate's objections, brings the subject directly before the voters.

Official Washington is very much interested in the notification ceremonies which will be held next week. The views of Candidate Coolidge and Candidate Davis on current issues will then be definitely expressed, and they will present their case to the country for judgment. Meanwhile, it is necessary for everybody concerned to keep the public's attention focused on their men and methods.

Business English Is Growing Much Better

Business English is growing better. So says Mrs. Alta Gunn Saunders, director of business English work at the University of Illinois. She believes the English of sales letters has reached a standard as high as the general standard in advertising and in journalism.

To her way of thinking awkwardness and crudities of style are disappearing. She sees greater consideration for the artistic quality of the descriptive and narrative parts of letters. Slang, colloquialisms or starchy English she would not have—she likes her English "moral, social and artistic." Evolving is "a free, plain, tradesmanlike style becoming to the nature of its subject matter."

But where shall we tap the source of that style? Familiar is the sign "Tradesman's Entrance." Under that sign is a portal to give admittance to the crisp speeches of butchers, bakers and candlestick makers—men of importance with scant time to dress words in ceremonies of speech. From them come no "stereotyped and inflated diction," condemned by Mrs. Saunders. Their words get up and walk around in our ears. Their words carry the tang and savor of their business. Possibly it might be desirable to denature the raw material of their conversations before drawing upon them for letters, but if men's minds are to be spared for a crop of sales, success will be no nearer for calling the spade an "oblong instrument of manual husbandry."—Nation's Business.

New York Woman Acts as Surgeon for Birds

Acting as a surgeon for birds is the occupation of a New York woman who performs operations upon her feathered charges and cares for their various ills. Rheumatism, indigestion and fevers are some of the ailments she has treated. Surgical operations are performed in a completely equipped room on the third floor of the hospital she maintains. With several assistants, she is called upon to minister to the needs of more than 2,000 birds in the summer months when families leave for vacations and bring their pets to be "boarded" in the wards of the hospital while they are gone. The birds like to be amused and show interesting characteristics, their keeper declares. Balls, beads and ribbons hanging from the cages keep them from pulling out their plumage and music from a phonograph seems to cheer them when their own songs are silenced.—Popular Mechanics.

Albino Partridge Bagged

An albino partridge, mounted, is exhibited here by George Suggs and Albert Rountree. Shot some miles from this city, it was one of a covey, conventionally covered, but was the only white bird in the flock, says a Kingsford (N. C.) dispatch to the New York World. It is almost entirely white, a few feather tips only showing the familiar brown of the species.

The bird has aroused keen interest on the part of Eugene Wood, the coroner and noted sportsman, who last year claimed to have discovered a flock of white crows near Grifton.

Chickens Dig Gold

Using her chickens as gold diggers, Mrs. Robert Rankin of Yreka, Cal., has a collection of gold nuggets ranging in size from that of a pinhead to a buckshot which she has taken from the crows of the chickens. The Rankin home is northwest of Yreka, where placer gold is often found on the surface of the ground, and where ambitious boys and girls can sometimes pan out enough "dust" to supply them with pocket money.

Same Knife and Fork

In every meal but three in the last thirty-two years A. E. Flinn of Luray, Va., has used the same knife and fork. Both the knife and fork were found by Mr. Flinn, one in the east end of Luray and the other in the west end of the town. The knife and fork have almost been worn out of all semblance of themselves, but it would require a fabulous price for the owner to part with them.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

Instinctively Americans are a dry people. We do not make this assertion to contradict the propaganda in behalf of "light wines and beers." Nor do we make it with the hope that it may arouse the critics of prohibition enforcement and mark the beginning of an interesting controversy. If we were to engage in an exchange of views with the spokesmen for the "wets" we would unhesitatingly declare that in our opinion it is the surest kind of rainbow-chasing to think there will ever be legalized the sale of so-called "light wines and beers." However we are not disposed to become fluent over a matter that we believe is settled for all time as far as this country is concerned. When we observed that Americans are naturally dry we were not talking of alcohol at all. We were thinking of the sale of umbrellas and raincoats and the excellent purpose served by these articles. And we were made to think of such things by a heavy shower in which we had neither raincoat nor umbrella. That very day, yes, almost fifteen minutes before the first drops had fallen we scorned the suggestion that it might rain. We walked right past a perfectly good umbrella—our own—and said to ourselves, "Why take on such a burden as that when you've only one or two places to go?" We were not alone in paying the penalty for our overconfidence in our own ability as a forecaster. There were thousands of others in Boston that day. Well, we discovered ourselves marooned in the doorway of an office building, and there we waited—waited for the rain to stop. It was a long wait but we found it interesting after all. The people who, like ourselves, were "caught in the rain" had many things to say. We listened because we were proving our theory as to the inborn desire of Americans to keep dry.

A young woman stenographer was perhaps the most vexed at the shower. She couldn't see that it had cooled the air or brought relief to suffering humans and animals. All it meant to her was that she was going to miss her train for the beach. Her white kid shoes, her dainty gown and her pretty hat were not to be sacrificed, no, sir. She made that statement flatly to a young man who was, according to our deductions, employed in the same office. Couldn't he get some taxi? Wouldn't he ask some friends of his who owned a car? Why should the weather pick the hour when she was headed homeward as an opportune time to shift from dry to wet? We never heard so much spitting and snorting as a close second in the man who kept asking passersby to take him under their umbrella. He got no takers. A third member of this entertaining group was a young man who was acting as escort for a pair of lively flappers. The jokes he made about the weather and the jokes the young women made about him furnished an unceasing source of merriment—to them alone. It was something like this: "That hat of yours'll look swell, kid, when you get home." Followed by the retort, "Look at your hat, you big boob!" These sharp thrusts of wit would be the signal for great outbursts of laughter. Thus the minutes flew past, but nobody moved. No one cared how long the wait if only they kept from getting soaked. We doubt if a machine-gun would have driven them forth from the temporary shelter. It might have, but without an argument. Just at the time when we were wondering ourselves what we could do and whether we should make a break, along came a friend of ours with an office in the building. He was most willing to provide us with a resting place, but when he found we wanted to be about our business he insisted that we accept the loan of his car. The car was virtually roasted alive. It was not at all funny, strange as that may appear to some people, and no more amusing was our task of observing the medical examiner in his gruesome work of identification at the morgue of these same bodies. We will admit, however, that our sense of humor may be undeveloped.

The last call for mail-boxes has been issued by the Federal government. If one has no letter-box, no call, or a slide in the front door in which the letter-carrier may deposit the householder's mail then the householder loses. He doesn't get his mail, that's all. We are not aware of the plans of the postal authorities and whether a letter carrier is expected to bring the same letters back on the next trip of whether he is to allow the letters to accumulate and casually remark to the householder whenever he happens to meet him, "I'm saving a lot of letters for you down at the postoffice; guess you'd better step in, some of them may be important." We do not seek to criticize the government for insisting upon letter boxes and we believe that the plan will, as is no doubt intended, lighten the burdens of the letter carriers and facilitate the delivery of mail. We have noticed letter carriers kept waiting until the door was opened for him at a house that had no mail-box. We could imagine the mistress of the house was engaged in making herself presentable and since that is one of woman's many privileges there is nothing to be done about it. Of course there may be letters that are not particularly keen to read. These need never be delivered, most everybody will agree. Still there is always the "expected" too, often containing something that one is eager to read. We were going to say that without letters there would be no pleasure in the pursuit of romance. A friend whose judgment is usually sound insists that romance cannot be pursued. Granting that this is logic we insist that a letter carrier may be pursued for we have seen him pursued by the very friend whose convictions we here quote. And furthermore the artists who draw valentines and Christmas cards often depict Cupid as a letter carrier. So, we maintain that the Government may after all have a paternal interest in us and desire to motormen have any preference as to the manner in which a prospective passenger should indicate his wish to get aboard. We are of the opinion there cannot be or the road would have long ago respected the motormen's wishes and issued commands to all passengers that only those who obeyed would be allowed to ride.

In urging the suggestion that the city discontinue the use of bell fire alarms the point is made there is no reason for advising the general public of a fire since there are sufficient permanent firemen to handle the situation. It is also pointed out that many automobilists turn out with every alarm, block the streets in the vicinity of the fire and make bother for the firemen and police without contributing any assistance. Many instances may be cited to prove the truth of this line of argument. We have seen in Newton apparatus delayed—practically pocketed by automobiles when it should have been in service. However, we suppose that because a man owns an automobile there is no reason he should not be allowed to chase the fire apparatus if it pleases him to do so. We will allow others to discuss these two points and will take up a third that has occurred to us. It is the joy that many people find in the destruction by fire of a dwelling, a place of business or garage or stable. The more serious the blaze and the more extended the monetary loss the more some people enjoy the spectacle. Just what fun there is in seeing other people's money burned up, their goods and chattels consumed by flames and the householders driven into the street is an apparatus to us. But they seem to like a spectacular and destructive blaze and often are willing to hop out of bed on a bitter cold night for the thrill that comes with such a happening. We once heard a psychologist of prominence say, "When there is a runaway in a public street and a policeman rushes out to stop it the people would prefer to have the policeman trampled upon and injured rather than have nothing happen. This does not mean they dislike policemen but they want good cause for their excitement." That may seem a trifle severe but we once overheard a young woman telling her friends, "We drove to see what the blaze was because the sky was lighted for miles. And, O, it was so disappointing—just a barn full of hay, some cattle and horses!" We ourselves are not competent to pass upon the mind that views a fire as a form of entertainment. For some years we were obliged to go to fires because that was part of the job we held. We even covered the lodging house fire in the South End of Boston where 25 men of the "down and out" class were virtually roasted alive. It was not at all funny, strange as that may appear to some people, and no more amusing was our task of observing the medical examiner in his gruesome work of identification at the morgue of these same bodies. We will admit, however, that our sense of humor may be undeveloped.

make certain that we get all that is coming to us as early as possible, including tax bills.

If the meetings of the Board of Aldermen are to be so frequent throughout the year and so extended at each session would it not be fair and just to them to amend the by-laws and permit them to work day and night shifts?

And again! Why not vacations for aldermen as well as other classes of city laborers?

THE DRUNKEN MOTORIST

Editor Newton Graphic: I wish to commend, most heartily, your continued effort to arouse public sentiment in the matter of "The Slaughter of the Innocents" by barbarian, drinking drivers. There is surely blame somewhere for the leniency of our courts. The public should demand an explanation, an exposure, and a remedy. The record of one week, as published in this morning's Boston Herald raised the serious question, "Are we a civilized people?" Fatalities, adults 9, children 10." Not all of course, victims of drink, but note: "Sentences, liquor, 104; reckless driving (probably partly "liquor") 49; suspension of licenses, "liquor 122." One week's record: 10 children in one week, 520 children in a year in this state. Oh, the horror of it. "A voice was heard in Rama: lamentation and bitter weeping. Rachel weeping for her children refused to be comforted because they were not." Let every user of intoxicants, rich or poor, carefully consider how far he, or she, is even indirectly, responsible for this awful thing.

Labor Member Reported King Was "Unco Nice"

After supper we adjourned to the main parlor, in which a huge fire had been built, and Ramsay MacDonald, seated in a big armchair, with his long legs stretched to the grating and his head resting comfortably on the back of the chair, took out his old pipe—truth makes me confess it should be cleaned—and regaled us with funny stories for the next three hours, telling his experiences in the house of commons and with royalty. One of his jokes I must tell, writes William H. Crawford in Collier's.

One labor member had done some excellent work in foreign lands. The king, knowing of it, sent for him to congratulate him for his service. He came to Mr. MacDonald, saying: "Ramsay, I don't like to go to visit the king. I'll tell you what I did and let you tell him," but Mr. MacDonald insisted that it would be impolite for him to refuse to visit the king. With much perturbation the labor member went to Buckingham palace.

The following day, when MacDonald saw him, he was all smiles. "How did you come out, Sandy?"

"Fine. The king was unco nice."

"Tell me all about it."

"Weel, it was like this. I was scared; ma' teeth were shakin' when his majesty came in. He noticed my nervousness and said: 'You don't come to the palace often,' at which I admitted it was no' to my likin' to come at all. He looked at me, smiled, and said, 'Here, sit down here in the corner. Have a smoke, make yourself at home. You swear, don't you? Weel, swear awa'.' And in five minutes we were swearin' awa' thegither like any brithers."

Ergophobia Scared Him Until It Was Explained

A broad-shouldered man shuffled into the receiving ward of a city hospital in Philadelphia the other day and demanded a thorough examination for a mysterious disease that had "completely knocked him out."

He was so insistent that the resident physician committed him to a ward.

The next day the chief resident physician made the examination, while the patient groaned and wailed. With a laconic smile the doctor marked "ergophobia" on his card and passed on his rounds.

"Just think, isn't that terrible?" cried the patient. "Of all things, I am stricken with ergophobia. What will become of me?"

"You're discharged from the hospital, that's all," said the resident physician curtly.

"But I am dying from ergophobia. Say, doc, what does that mean?" the patient asked.

"Oh, it's a common disease. The word is derived from 'ergon,' meaning work, and 'phobia,' meaning fear. In plain words, my man, you're suffering from a fear of work—just plain laziness, that's it."

"White Coal" Development
New York state leads all the others in the amount of water power development, the extent of the utilization being 1,300,000 horse power. The largest single development is at Niagara Falls. The second state in the use of "white coal" is California, where something more than 1,100,000 horse power has been developed. There is a big gap between these figures and those for Washington which occupies third place, using 454,000 horse power. Maine is fourth with a few thousand less horse power, and Montana is fifth with 344,000 horse power development.

Clever Aunt Ethel
Ethel was sitting on the sofa with a friend. On her knee was her little niece. The door leading to the next room, which was full of people, was wide open. The people in the other room heard this:

"Kiss me, too, Aunt Ethel."
"Certainly, dear; but don't say 'two'; say 'twice'; 'two' is not grammar."

And That's True
At the barber shop they were discussing a customer who was ill.

"Too much John Barleycorn, I guess," said one. "Too much monkeying with old John."

The boss barber took exception to this.

"Plenty of people get sick," he declared, "who don't drink John."

Well Named
Jack—I say, Frank, do you know what I'm going to call my new bike?

Frank—No.

Jack—That's a queer name for a bike, isn't it?

Jack—Not at all. Haven't you ever heard of circumstances over which a fellow has no control?

He Needed Strong Ones
A woman went to buy some cigars for her husband, who was laid up.

"Do you want them mild or strong, madam?" asked the tobacconist.

"Give me the strongest you have," she said. "The last ones he had broke in his pocket."

May Drop the Kimono
Because the cumbersome kimono worn by the women of Japan prevented many from escaping at the time of the earthquake and fire, prominent Japanese women leaders are leading a movement to have school children dressed in foreign style clothes.

SAVE THE PARK

Our little Newtonville Park, all we have and only 560 feet long on Walnut street taken by the School Committee, with the consent of the mayor and board of aldermen, who have voted to give them all the money they will call for, to build a school.

This school will be on Walnut street, corner of Elm road. Plan calls for 160 feet wide, 288 feet deep, down to the Tech school which will put the Tech out of sight as it is on the Tech grounds. Notwithstanding the cast iron admonition prominently typewritten on the deed, as follows:

"And no building other than the said Tech. School Building shall be erected on the granted premises until its site has been approved. The plans and site are approved and endorsed by vote of the School Committee of said city on December 6, 1907."

Furthermore they plan to put this school on the brook and to change the course of the brook to come very close to Walnut street. Bringing the brook close to Walnut street looks like an insult, and is an insult.

It is evident enough that not one of the School Committee or Board of Aldermen are in any way familiar with the volume of dirty water, spring, winter and fall, that comes from way back and flows into Bulough's pond. The school and dirty brook condemns Clafin Park forever. This school will prevent entrance from Elm road to the high land on the south of Tech, where all the supposed public buildings are to go and will also prevent any building there as they would have no frontage and would have to face the roof of the new school, and backs of residences on Walnut street.

The mayor has called for $26,122 to change the course of the brook. It has been intimated that it may cost $25,000 more than that, all of which could be saved if they would build on the high land south of Tech, which is the ideal place for the school as all people admit, it is undoubtedly the finest building spot in Newton today, and any person going there will see it.

And connecting the two buildings would be a grand sight and they would have the park in the foreground. What could be better?

Building here would insure a good basement, whereas building on the brook, it will always be damp.

The Tech building will prevent the flow of air, so much needed in the summer, that comes from the southwest. Whereas on the high land on the south of Tech the air is beautiful.

SAVE THE PARK.

EDITORIAL

We are glad to give space this week to the letter from Mr. George M. Fiske, as it indicates that the community as a whole is interested in the question of adequate sentences for persons convicted of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor.

For fear of being misunderstood in this serious matter, we desire to state once more that so far as the Newton court is concerned we believe its record is far above the average. We are endeavoring in this campaign we are waging to create a public sentiment which will react on persons drawn for jury service in this city. When our jurors understand that their neighbors and friends demand jail sentences for crimes of this nature, our mission will be accomplished.

The numerous candidates for the Republican nomination for state treasurer clearly indicate need of a change from the present direct primary for offices in which the voters take but little interest. The editor was, at one time, an ardent advocate of the direct primary, but the passing years have shown so many glaring instances of its failure to work for the best interests of the Commonwealth, he has completely changed his mind on the matter. In the treasurership, we recommend the nomination of former Senator James W. Bean of Cambridge, who has for the past few years been deputy state auditor, and as such, is familiar with the work of the financial departments at the State House.

The contest for the three Republican nominations for member of the House of Representatives, will include Representative Bernard Early and Representative Leverett Saltonstall, who should be assured of two of the three places, with Mr. Clarence S. Luitwieler of Newton Highlands and Alderman Arthur W. Hollis of Newton seeking the third place on the ticket. In this contest the Graphic will support Representatives Early and Saltonstall, with Mr. Luitwieler for their colleague. Mr. Luitwieler is an able and successful business man, and one who will worthily represent the city.

With over 40,000 signatures to his nomination papers, Congressman Dallinger has a most substantial backing for his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Mr. Dallinger is the only one of the three candidates for the office who could give Senator Walsh a real fight for the election in November. Mr. Gillette is too old and too colorless and Mr. Coolidge cannot command the support of the church and temperance voters in the Commonwealth. Vote, therefore, for Dallinger.

We hear that 264 persons in this city have permits to carry revolvers or other dangerous weapons. Let us hope they have good reason for receiving such permits.

The continued drought is making heavy demands on our water system, and Newton is fortunate in having a connection with the Metropolitan system, from which extra water can be secured when needed.

There is every evidence that the tax rate this year will be somewhat larger than that of 1923, probably in the vicinity of $28 or $29 per $1000.

Newton is almost deserted with more people away than ever before.

agricultural districts—and then attempt to visualize what the consequences to the public would be if the American Petroleum Industry should cease to function for a month or a week! Imagine the status of commerce if we were suddenly required to return to whale-oil for lubrication! It is reported that when in 1859 Colonel Edward L. Drake opened in Pennsylvania the first oil well, the yield of which was about 20 barrels per day; he thought it would be sufficient to supply the petroleum needs of the country indefinitely. Since that time, according to my estimate, there has been approximately 700,000 wells drilled, of which about a third or 233,000 were failures, being absolutely dry or only producing for a short time a small amount of oil or gas, and not sufficient to return any part of the investment. About 290,000 are now producing oil, leaving 177,000 to cover the oil wells that have been abandoned as exhausted or unprofitable to operate, and a relatively small number of gas wells in operation.

Some months ago the staff of the Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association counted the wells reported drilled East of the Rocky Mountains during the three years, 1920 to 1922, inclusive, and classified them according to initial output. We found that there were 78,502 wells drilled, of which 19,784 or 25.2% were absolutely dry; 6,357 or 8.1% produced some gas, and 27,570 or 35.1% were small oil wells yielding 25 barrels or less per day. Thus we note that 68.42% of the total completions must be classified as unfavorable. The completions yielding from 26 barrels to not exceeding 100 barrels per day at the start constituted 15.36% of the total. These are classed as of problematical value, because under the conditions of deeper drilling and the low prices which have obtained during the last three years, they cannot be counted on to return the investment plus operating costs. We have now accounted for 83.78% of the holes drilled, leaving 16.22% as definitely profitable. The particular wells of which the public hears so much, to wit, the "gushers," producing 2000 barrels or more per day, equalled only 95/100 of one percent of the total. The scarcity of the gushers proves how little it is to invest money in the stock promotion schemes which are generally organized on a basis that would require repeated gushers to yield any return to the stockholders.

The function of producing wells is a declining one. The better class of Mid-Continent wells give up 63% of its total ultimate production the first year, 20% the second year, 8% the third year, and the remainder 9% during the remainder of its existence, which may be anywhere from 5 to 20 years. In a typical case, the well ceases to flow after the first month or two, and the production is thereafter obtained by an excessive process called pumping.

Income from the operation of an oil well is controlled by two factors—the daily rate of production and the sale price per barrel. The price offered for the whole volume of oil fluctuates according to the relation between supply and demand. Last year competitive drilling brought eight large pools to full fruition at about the same time, thus creating an overproduction which caused the price to fall below the cost of producing from the old and small wells which are in the majority. To illustrate: In the State of Oklahoma alone, out of 56,000 oil wells in operation, last year, 40,000 of them, with an average production of 1.93 barrels per well per day, were operated for the last nine months of the year at a loss. They were kept on the pump because unless operated the salt water would encroach and ruin them and their aggregate future production, which may be sorely needed, would be forever lost. Since the ultimately recoverable supply of petroleum is limited, and we cannot go on forever finding large pools, the old small wells constitute in the aggregate a valuable resource which should be conserved, but which can only be saved by a willingness on the part of the public to pay a price for petroleum commensurate with the cost of operating the 250,000 small wells of the country.

Complaint has been made that the price of gasoline does not always move up or down in the same percentage that the price of crude oil goes up or down. But such complaint overlooks the facts: First, that, however the price of crude moves, it requires the same plant investment, the same labor cost, and the same transportation and overhead charges to refine a barrel of crude, and that these do not fluctuate with the price of crude: Second, that gasoline is a co-product along with kerosene, gas, oil, fuel oil and a number of other derivatives. The refiner prospers or goes broke according to whether the combined proceeds of the products of his barrel of crude exceed the combined cost of the raw material and manufacture. So if the unavoidable products, such as kerosene, fuel oil and gas oil are selling below cost and the principal demand is for gasoline, which probably constitutes one-third of the barrel of crude, how could that commodity absorb the same percentage of reduction that occurs in the cost of crude, and still leave the refiner on the right side of the ledger?

The American Public must be brought to understand that the past three years have been a petroleum feast. That gasoline and other oil products have been sold at an abnormally low figure due to an unreasonable and adequate temporary supply on hand. That while we may continue for a quarter of a century or more to find and produce sufficient petroleum for our needs, it may not in future months or years be so easily found nor so cheaply produced.

Following the banquet, we witnessed a movie production in the auditorium of the building showing the "World Struggle for Oil."

POLICE COURT

Fred McGrath and George Harrington, two young men from Somerville, were accused by Officers Marden and Connolly of driving autos along Commonwealth avenue at an unreasonable speed on the night of July 15. According to the officers of two machines raced by the Chestnut Hill end of the avenue at a speed of from 45 to 50 miles an hour. A couple of hours later, at 3 A. M., the machines were seen in Newton Centre square, and the young men who were driving were arrested. McGrath was driving a machine with the muffler missing, and he claimed this gave the impression that he was going at a high speed. McGrath's machine apparently was not in the pink of condition for in addition to the missing muffler, one of the tires of this chariot went A. W. O. L. five times that night while he was driving it. He testified he was driving at 35 miles an hour, but Judge Bacon considered the speed to be unreasonable for an auto with a balky tire. He fined McGrath $20.

Harrington when called to the stand testified that he was asleep much of the time while in the auto on the night of July 15, and that he was not driving when the autos were speeding westward on Commonwealth avenue. He must have been asleep, as he testified several times while testifying. Asked by the judge who was driving he gave the name of a young man named Ramsay, and Judge Bacon ordered a warrant issued for this youth's appearance in court on Friday, continuing Harrington's case until that day.

The lawyer who appeared for these two young men argued that while 35 miles may be too great a speed during the day, it is not unreasonable at night when there is less traffic. He does not take cognizance that most fatal accidents occur at night, and that most drivers operate at a slower speed at night because of the fact they are driving in darkness rather than in daylight.

William Giggey and John Slattery were charged with unlawful appropriation of a motor-cycle belonging to one of the proprietors of a shoe-shine shop on Centre street. They told a plausible story of having asked the brother of the owner of the motor cycle for the loan of the machine, and the judge gave credence to their explanation as he wanted to repair some small damage which the machine suffered while in their possession. Miss Della Gravel of Pearl street, was fined $25 for driving an auto without a license. Miss Gravel was learning to drive without being accompanied by a licensed operator. She had the salt water used to clean the other machine at the corner of Varnum and Jewett streets, where a hedge obscures one's vision, and the other car toppled over slightly injuring one of its occupants.

Robert F. Slamin was also charged with the same offense. Robert had taken one examination and did not pass. He believed in cave-man methods, and made two mistakes—one in not being accompanied by a licensed driver, and a second in trying to navigate Nonantum square, which is a bad spot for green drivers. Robert knocked over one of the silent cops in the square and when questioned by Officer Taffe could not produce a license. Judge Bacon placed his case on file.

William Malloy and Lester Ludlow were each fined $10 for driving autos on the Metropolitan Park Reservation in Forest Grove, where autos are forbidden.

Enrico Cairo of West street has some ideas as to the status of a wife. He believes in cave-man methods. Sunday night at 11 Enrico's wife approached Officer Charles Feeley in Nonantum holding in her hand a considerable amount of hair which her husband had pulled from her scalp. In addition her neck and arms were covered with bruises which gave other proof that she had been treated roughly by Enrico. The officer went to the Cairo domicile and arrested Enrico who was drunk. Cairo was in court several months ago for non-support and was ordered to pay his wife $3.00 a week. After making a few payments, according to the testimony of Feeley and Mrs. Cairo, Enrico ceased giving the $3.00, but instead brought two more boards to his house in addition to two already there and informed Mrs. Cairo that the profits from the two extra boards would take the place of the $3.00 he was supposed to give her.

According to Mrs. Cairo, Enrico took the cash from the boards, doling out some change to her once in a while. She also testified that her husband had on various occasions beaten her. Officer Feeley told that Enrico worked when the notion seized him. Judge Bacon sentenced Enrico to the State Farm at Bridgewater. Sabatino Vallimpio who was arrested a week ago charged with keeping and selling liquor was on trial

Monday. Officer Charles Feeley testified that on July 26, at 8 P. M. he purchased a quart of wine from Vallimpio paying for it with a $1.00 bill which had been marked. When Vallimpio's premises were raided a few hours later Sergeant Leehan found this bill in his possession. The sergeant testified that he and his squad had seized 75 gallons of wine in Sabatino's cellar which tested 8 1/2% alcohol and that complaints had previously been received that Vallimpio was selling liquor.

Cross examined by Attorney George Mellen, Officer Feeley testified that when he purchased the wine he had been accompanied by a man of French extraction. They had entered the flat of Angelo DeMorte which is under the flat occupied by Vallimpio at 124 Sheridan street. The wife of DeMorte is of the same nationality as the man who accompanied Feeley.

Officer King testified that he had watched Vallimpio's house and had seen a number of men coming from it, who while not drunk were enough under the influence of liquor to stagger.

Vallimpio testified that he and DeMorte who are bosom friends have lived on Sheridan street for 6 years; that he never had sold any wine until DeMorte impromptu him to sell it to the Frenchman who had accompanied Officer Feeley. He said he did not want to take payment for the wine but finally consented to do so.

DeMorte testified that when the party had entered his home and beseeched Mrs. DeMorte in the French patois to ask her husband to obtain some wine for him, he had prevailed upon his friend Vallimpio after considerable urging to sell the wine and take a payment for it.

Mr. Mellen in his pleas said that the police found no bottles or glasses in the home of Vallimpio and that it was necessary for the officer to obtain a bottle from a neighboring store; that Vallimpio had but a few dollars in his wallet when arrested, which proved he had not been making money selling liquor who had never sold any wine before, but that the police had seduced him into committing a criminal act. He asked Judge Bacon to consider the circumstances of the case and to impose a light fine. He also asserted that the wine seized at Vallimpio's place was genuine grape wine and not raisin wine as insinuated by Inspector Goode, who was prosecuting the case. Mr. Mellen invited Judge Bacon to smell the wine to prove his contention, but the judge refused to qualify as a wine expert.

Inspector Goode told the court that the police had received prior information that Vallimpio had been selling liquor and for this reason had kept watch on his house. Judge Bacon fined him $100 and also gave him a suspended sentence of three months.

THE RIVER

The Sunday band concert at the Riverside Recreation Grounds attracted a large audience of autoists and canoeists. The concert was given by McKenrie's Band of Cambridge, Fred Noble, director. Very few tin-overs were reported on the river in the vicinity of Riverside and Norumbega. Three young fellows capsized near Weston Bridge during the early evening and were brought safely to shore by Patrolman Arthur Cadigan of the Metropolitan police, who was stationed at the lookout post near the bridge.

POLICE COURT

"Don't use cut-outs on your cars or motorcycles," is good advice to motorists traveling through the Garden City. A fine of $25 was imposed on George Haskell of 241 Walnut street, Newtonville, for causing his motorcycle to backfire in such a way as to frighten people on the sidewalks and crossing streets Saturday morning in the Newton Court by Judge Bacon. Haskell was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Dowling, who also charged him with speeding and a fine of $10 was imposed on the charge. The officer testified that motorcyclists seem to make a practice of backfiring their bikes so that they sound like machine guns by way of signal to pedestrians. Numerous complaints have been received by the Police Department and the law against using cutouts is to be rigidly enforced.

A group of eight people, arrested by railroad policemen, were in court the same day charged with walking on the B. & A. tracks in West Newton without authority. One case was filed and the others were fined from $10 to $15. For some time there has been agitation in this village for a foot bridge of some sort across the tracks near Crescent street, as many people have been arrested at this point. With the erection of a new parochial school on Washington street and a new junior High School and the subsequent necessity of a great many children walking an extra mile, the lack of this bridge is keenly felt, and it is planned by residents of this section to bring the matter before the Board of Aldermen this Fall for some action.

A race between an automobile driver and a motorcycle officer, which nearly cost the lives of both men, resulted in jail sentences being imposed on Edmund Avallone of 477 Hanover street, Boston, by Judge Bacon in court Wednesday morning.

Avallone was arrested by Officer James Goddard after a chase which carried him from Dartmouth street, on Commonwealth avenue, two miles along the avenue, over Valentine street and West Newton Hill, down Highland to Marginal where Avallone lost a front wheel and was placed under arrest.

During the chase Goddard ran up alongside Avallone on Valentine street and ordered him to pull over to the side of the road. Avallone responded by stepping on the gas.

The automobile and motorcycle raced down Valentine street to the junction of Highland and Chestnut streets, the officer not daring to get in front of the automobile, which was careening from side to side. At the corner of Highland and Chestnut Avallone pulled his car sharply to the side of the road, driving Goddard on his motorcycle up on to the sidewalk over a curbstone, and through a hedge and clump of bushes, 20 feet deep, across a lawn and back onto the road again.

Goddard kept his balance, and as soon as he got clear of the bushes shot after the automobile again. The car turned on to Marginal street, alongside the railroad tracks, where a wheel came off and the machine crashed against the railroad bridge.

Avallone was fined $10 for being drunk, given one month in the House of Correction for operating an automobile under the influence of liquor, and two months in the House of Correction for Driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public. He appealed and was held in bonds of $300.

Many Men Employed in Mapping British Coasts

Few people realize the hardships and dangers undergone by a comparatively handful of officers and men belonging to the royal navy who work year in and year out surveying coast lines and mapping the little-known depths of the ocean.

The hydrographic department of the admiralty has eight sloops constantly employed in the task of keeping the seas charted, and 40 officers and 700 men are under the control of a rear admiral, says London Tit-Bits.

The bed of the ocean and the outlines of rocky coasts are constantly changing, so that for the safety of shipping charts and maps have to be revised and brought up to date at frequent intervals.

Cases have been known where whole islands have either appeared or disappeared in the course of a few hours. Falcon Island, near the Tongas, for instance, was first discovered and charted in 1855, yet, although the mass of rock included cliffs rising fully 150 feet above the ocean level, it completely disappeared shortly afterward. In 1898 a volcanic disturbance once more brought the island to the notice of the surveyors, but before the end of the year it had disappeared again.

Small parties landing on wild stretches of coast are frequently met with showers of stones or even bullets from suspicious inhabitants. Again, much of the work has to be carried out from small boats, which may be away from the parent ship for a week or more at a time.

An officer and half a dozen men, detailed to work along a portion of the Chinese coast, encamped on a rock one night. Soon after daybreak a cruiser came along and began using this temporary refuge as a target for gunnery practice. Several shells found their mark before the men were able to make it known that the rock was inhabited.

Lamb Threw Gift Books Over His Garden Wall

In none of the letters or lives of Lamb have I found evidence that he ever bought a new book. His literary interests were of no profit to publishers. The battered veterans on his shelves welcomed no dapper young recruits; but he received numerous presentation copies from authors, and such volumes, too modern to please his fancy, he was wont to throw over the wall into Westwood's garden, writes Harry B. Smith in Scribner's.

In this manner was formed the library of the younger Thomas Westwood, then a boy of thirteen.

"A Leigh Hunt," he wrote 40 years afterward, "would come skimming to my feet through the branches of the apple trees; or a Bernard Barton would be rolled downstairs after me from the library door, 'Marston Colons' I remember finding on my window sill, damp from the night's fog; and 'The Plea of the Mid-Summer Fairies' I picked out of the strawberry bed."

The writer possesses one of these outcast volumes, absolutely identified by Westwood's bookplate and Hunt's inscription to Lamb. The covers are damp stained; like the lost heiress of old drama, it is identified by a strawberry mark.

When the Ark Sailed

Long ago March 17 was known as the anniversary of the date on which Noah and his family entered the ark.

Many hundreds of years ago, before there were theaters in England plays used to be given in front of the churches by the priests who acted out Bible stories. When March 17 came around a very funny play about Noah and his wife was performed. Mrs. Noah was a woman of a hot temper who thought her husband was quite losing his mind by building an ark. She refused flatly to live in it, even when the rain began to fall in torrents. The quarrel between Noah and his wife lasted until the water got so high that the shrieking woman had to jump in the ark at the end to save herself from drowning.

Fell for Three Stories

"Now it's just like I was a-tellin' ye," said a grizzled old Irishman to a group of workmen. "Once when my gang was helpin' put up a skyscraper I fell for three stories an' it didn't hurt me nary a bit."

Here the stranger who had paused to listen, remonstrated.

"But how could a person fall for three stories and not be hurt?" he sternly inquired.

"Well," replied the veteran, a twinkle creeping into his eye, "you've already fallen for one, an' I guess fallin' fer two more won't hurt ye."—Everybody's Magazine.

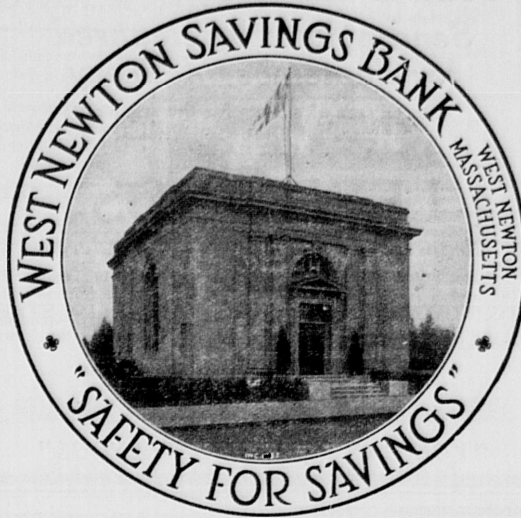

Compromise

There was a rich uncle who wanted the baby named Violet. Aunt Pansy had money, too, and intimated that she would not be displeased to have a namesake. Mother wanted to name the child Lily.

It looked a deadlock. But wise old grandpa came forward with a suggestion that practically accommodated everybody. They named the baby Blossom.

Instrument Measures Crops

A measuring instrument for attaching to an automobile by which the linear measurement of fields in various crops bordering on highways can be easily and quickly made has been devised by the United States Department of Agriculture. Successful experiments have been made with the instrument, which will be used in a number of states during the current year.

Civil Improvement Is Object of "Rotarians"

The Rotarians are members of the Rotary club, which was formed in Chicago in 1906 by four men—a coal dealer, mining operator, merchant tailor and lawyer. "Rotary" was chosen for the name of the club because the members met in "rotation" at their places of business. Civil improvement was the object of the club and the motto adopted is: "Service above self—He profits most who serves best." Other clubs were soon organized in other cities and in 1910 a convention was held in Chicago at which a national association of Rotary clubs was formed. Two years later in order to include clubs from foreign countries the association was made international. At the beginning of 1923 the membership of the association totaled over $3,000. Membership in a local club is restricted to one man from each business or profession. A new club must start with not less than 15 or more than 25 members. The clubs are grouped in districts, each district electing a governor to represent it on the international board, which meets in Chicago every 60 days. The Rotarian, a monthly published at Chicago, is the official publication of the organization.

Keeps Absolute Check on Time Taken for Operation

Modern efficiency methods as applied in factories and shops often make it necessary to study the time required for different operations in the manufacture of certain products. For this work it is absolutely necessary to have a stop watch. The conventional stop watch, however, leaves much to be desired, for the reason that, while it gives the time elapsed for a certain operation, it is necessary to indulge in a considerable calculation for determining the output per hour or day. Now a time-study watch has been evolved for the purpose of eliminating all computation and making it possible for an observer to read from the dial the quantity desired. The circumference of the dial of the watch is divided into 100 parts, as in the well-known decimal dial, but instead of these divisions being numbered in the ordinary manner they are marked with figures which indicate the number of operations per hour, when the time of a single operation is represented by the elapsed time. In the instance of very short operations ten operations instead of one can be timed.

Soundproof Booths

Soundproof telephone booths are constructed by various firms, and owing to the principle involved in their makeup it is said that not the least sound can escape from them while the telephone is being used.

The walls of the booth are built of five layers of thin wood, with the grain crossed each time, and the layers are glued together, the whole then being covered with a special soundproof compound.

Inasmuch as the whole is made in six dismountable panels a booth can be set up in a short time and panels are not too large to be taken in through an ordinary door. Insulated openings are left in the partitions beforehand, so that there is no need of boring holes to install telephone or electric light wires.

Fire Done Away With

The four new ocean-going dredges designed by the United States Engineering corps to clean American harbors of sand and silt are said to be the only human habitations since the dawn of civilization in which fire in some form is not used or needed. Everything is done by electricity.

Each vessel is 288 feet long and is propelled by electricity from generators driven by oil engines. All control is direct from the bridge, without reference to the engine-room.

Fifty-six electric motors operate the dredging machinery and do all the work of the ship—from weighing the anchor to driving the electric fans that ventilate the crew's quarters.

Lightning Bores Iron

During an electrical storm in Ohio an official of a lumber company sitting in his office was startled by a loud report like the discharge of a gun, and, looking up at the ceiling, noticed a blaze. On examination he found that there was a hole large enough to insert his little finger in the iron gas pipe. The lightning had come in over the electric wires, jumped off on to the gas pipe, which they crossed at right angles, bored through the iron and ignited the escaping gas.

The Last Straw

Mr. Busman was exasperated with the telephone. Ten times that morning he had tried to get a number and each time something had prevented him from speaking. At last he got through.

"Hello," he said. "Is Mr. X. there?"

"Yes," replied a voice, "Do you want to speak to him?"

"That was the last straw. Back went the reply in icy tones: 'Oh, no! I merely rang him up to hand him a cigarette.'"

Home of the Brave

"The rapidly increasing divorce rate," remarked the newsmonger, "proves that America is fast becoming the land of the free."

"Yes," said his friend, "and the continuance of the marriage rates shows that it is still the home of the brave."

Tagged Wild Goose Is Occasion for Revival

Jack Miner, of Kingsville, Ont., who has become noted for his ability to tame wild geese, made the experiment of fastening metal tags to a large number of them before turning them loose to resume their migrations. Thereby hangs an amusing tale.

A gray goose bearing one of his tags had been shot by some negroes in Mississippi. The negro who acquired this particular bird, it appears, was an illiterate preacher, possessed of great powers of speech. He insisted that the message came from heaven and made its receipt the occasion for a revival declaring to his credulous flock: "This am the message of the Lord, and now am the judgment coming." Some of the Indian hunters who have shot the tagged geese in the Far North have had a strange superstition about them, insisting that they belonged to the evil one, who had marked them as his own.

The result of Miner's experiments and observations may be summarized thus: He has definitely proved that birds do return to the same haunt year after year; that kindness will overcome fear even in the warlike of feathered folk; that geese travel over the same route in migration at a speed of about sixty miles an hour.—Albert F. Gilmore in the Christian Science Monitor.

Tibet Women Rule and Have Several Husbands

"In some of the principalities in eastern Tibet," said Dr. William Montgomery McGovern, the latest and best authority upon the only real hermit kingdom remaining on the face of the earth, "the rulers are women, and polyandry, which is practiced throughout the country, reaches its greatest heights, for some of them have their harems, as it were, but with a reverse English, because the inmates are men, who are never permitted to leave the place."

The doctor visited Detroit recently to lecture on his experiences in reaching the forbidden city of Lhasa, the capital of Tibet, the forbidden country.

"Polyandry is the practice, and wives have as many husbands as they apparently want. The country, curiously, is run by these married women, and the unmarried monks, for most of the worth while men join the religious order. The dominance of women has apparently not caused any perceptible lowering of the moral or social standards, but naturally there is little, if any, of the home life spirit found in occidental countries."—Jackson D. Haag in the Detroit News.

Horseshoes Sold for Gaming

Hardware dealers throughout the country are finding a ready sale for new horseshoes owing to the revival of the good old game of pitching horseshoes. Since the automobile came into such popular use fewer old horseshoes were available for this popular pastime, and the result has been that the demand for shoes caused hardware and sporting goods dealers to stock new ones. A new magazine, the Horseshoes World, has nothing whatever to do with shoeing horses, and is devoted exclusively to the game.

Floor of Pacific Still Rocks

Disturbances at the bottom of the northern end of the Pacific ocean have not come to an end, according to Captain John Newland, master of the steamer Latouche. These agitations have been evidenced in the past by the appearance and disappearance of islands. At a point 26 miles south-east of Cape St. Elias, where the chart said there should be a depth of 1,100 fathoms, Captain Newland recently found only 15 fathoms. Cape St. Elias is the southern end of Kayak Island, 150 miles east of Seward.

Birthmarks Yield Radium

Birthmarks, even the dark-red "strawberry" blotches which disfigure so many countenances, may be eradicated by radium, according to Dr. Lawrence R. Tausig of the University of California. The eradication requires no great time and is not painful, Doctor Tausig asserts.—Popular Science Monthly.

Biggest Electric Light Bulb

The largest electric light bulb in the world was recently exhibited in East Orange, N. J., at the plant of the General Electric company. It is 22 inches high with a diameter of 15 inches at the top. Thirty thousand watts were required to heat it.

Might Go Either Way

Anxious Old Lady (on river steamer)—I say, my good man, is this boat going up or down?

Surly Deckhand—Well, she's a leaky old tub, ma'am, so I shouldn't wonder if she was going down. Then, again, her bilges ain't none too good, so she might go up.

Literary Conflagration

Two tourists, on passing a farm, saw a hay shed on fire, and the first man said, "John, of what three writers does that remind you?"

"I don't know."

"Dickens. Howitt. Burns."

His Real Trouble

Robson—Now that you are living in the country I should think you would find it aggravating to hurry to catch your morning train.

Dobson—Oh, no. It's hurrying to see it that I find aggravating.

The new water sterilizer, recently purchased, has been installed in the operating department.

The patients of Eldridge ward were pleasantly entertained on Tuesday afternoon by a group of children, who sang and danced beautifully. These little folk were Marguerite, Mary and Paul Shannon of Newton Center, who came as the guests of one of the patients.

Miss Anna Haffermehl, who for over five years has been assistant book-keeper at the hospital, has left, and after a vacation will accept a position in Boston. Miss Haffermehl has been a very faithful worker, and will be missed by all, not only for her service but for her gracious spirit.

Sycamore Is Stately

One of the best of native trees is the sycamore or buttonball, says the American Tree association. This tree is tall and stately, with broad, open top, growing to large size, and adapted to wide streets.

Astronomer of Vermont Has Telescope in Cave

Going underground to look at the heavens may seem like a strange anomaly; yet that is the method used by James Hartness, former governor of Vermont, noted inventor and manufacturer and amateur astronomer.

On his hillside estate at Springfield, Vt., Mr. Hartness has constructed the strangest astronomical observatory in the world—a subterranean cave of concrete, containing rooms fitted up as a laboratory, office, study and retiring and storage rooms, says the Kansas City Times. Connecting with his home by a 200-foot tunnel, the cave ends with the observation chamber, a concrete structure from which juts a cast-iron revolving turret that holds the telescope.

This observatory, says Popular Science Monthly, is little short of revolutionary from the standpoint of the orthodox astronomer. In fact, astronomers and makers of astronomical instruments, when they saw Mr. Hartness' plans, assured him that his observatory would be a failure, that air currents rising from his heated turret would obscure the skies from the eye of the telescope. But Mr. Hartness, father of more than one hundred important inventions, built the observatory as he planned and it has proved successful.

"When I first took up astronomy," says Mr. Hartness, "I found there were certain inconveniences connected with looking through the telescope I had mounted on my lawn. In the warm weather there were mosquitoes. In the fall and winter the cold winds chilled me to the bones. So I built my underground laboratory for self-protection, and I found I was helped rather than hampered by my lack of technical knowledge of approved methods."

Mah Jong Dermatitis Is the Newest Disease

Mah jong dermatitis is the latest thing in diseases. Devotees of the oriental game are given some facts concerning the disease—an irritation of the skin, according to Hygeia.

Mah jong cases are vanishing freely with Japanese lacquer, says the health journal, and in some instances the lacquer is soft and sticky. It has been scientifically proved that this improperly dried lacquer causes the skin disease which has been afflicting some of the players of the game.

Hundreds of thousands of mah jong sets are now in use in the United States, and only a few cases of the disease have been reported, but now that physicians are on the lookout for the disease others will probably be brought to light.

To prevent any possibility of the disease it will be necessary to see that the lacquer has been well applied and thoroughly dried before the boxes are shipped.

Not all, of course, are sensitive to the disease in an equal degree. Treatment for it is not difficult.

Those who are especially sensitive to the lacquer will have to be content with dominoes, rummy or auction bridge, says the article.

Making Largest Carillon

What will be the world's largest carillon is being made in England for New York, where it will be installed in the tower of Park Avenue church by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in memory of his mother. It is a tribute to British skill and workmanship that, in spite of keen international competition, the contract for this carillon was secured by a well-known firm of Croydon bellmakers. The carillon will number fifty-three bells whose total weight, without the framework, will be over fifty tons. The largest carillon up to now has been that at Malines, in Belgium.

Shaker Village for Sale

The Shaker village on Lake Macomay at Enfield, N. H., is for sale. Seven white-haired survivors of the original colony have moved to Canterbury and settled under the leadership of another dwindling community of Shaker folk. The correct name of the Shakers is "The United Society of True Believers in Christ's Second Appearance." The name "Shaker" was derived from a peculiar ceremonial dance in which the dancers shake their shoulders.

Scarcely Flattering

They had just renewed their acquaintance after he had been abroad for some years. "Upon my word, Miss Hawkins," he said, "I should hardly have known you, you have altered so much." "For better or worse?" she asked. "Ah, my dear girl," he replied, gallantly, "you could only change for the better."

No Picnic for Her

A woman with five children entered a car. She busied herself seating them. A benevolent old gentleman rose and gave her his seat. "Are those all your children, madam?" he asked, "or is it a picnic?" "They're all mine," snapped the woman, "and it's no picnic."

That Ended It

Two women were quarrelling about ages. At last, as if to end the dispute, one of them turned away and said in a very conciliatory tone: "Let us not quarrel any more. I, at least, have not the heart to do it. I never knew who my mother was! She deserted me when I was a baby, and who knows but that you may have been that heartless parent?"

France Should Restore Her Mulberry Trees

Some years before the war, if you wandered through the vineyards and fields of Indian corn in the lower Rhone valley, you could see that between the vines and between the corn there were mulberry trees. These trees were never allowed to bear fruit and they were grown exclusively for their young leaves, which served to nourish millions of silkworms for the looms of Lyons.

Today almost all these mulberry trees have disappeared. They had begun to go before 1914, for it was found that cocoons could be imported cheaper from abroad than the worms could make them in France, and the trade gradually disappeared. The cost of transport and the fall of the franc have now combined to make it a very profitable business to breed silkworms once more, but the mulberry trees have been cut down and it will be a year or two before they will bear enough leaves to enable the country to reduce its importations of silk.

They certainly added a charming note of green to the rather arid provincial landscape, and on esthetic grounds the decision of the government to encourage their replanting by a subsidy would be welcomed. Mistral, it will be remembered, has some charming pages in "Mireille" where he described the silkworm culture.—London Observer.

Tests Show How Much Good Horses Can Pull

That a horse may develop as much as 21-horse power in an emergency has been demonstrated in a series of experiments conducted by the Horse Association of America. The object was to find out just how much a horse or mule could pull.

The tests showed that a team of good horses can exert a tractive pull of 2,000 pounds, or enough to lift a ton vertically. Such pulls as these are not needed on ordinary roads. It was shown that on a concrete road surface the amount of pull required to start a farm wagon, weighing with its load more than 7,000 pounds, was only 125 pounds, says London Tit-Bits.

The influence of the road surface was demonstrated by additional experiments, which showed that to start the same load on a good brick road required a pull of 200 pounds, while 300 pounds were required on an asphalt surface and 520 pounds on a good dirt and cinder surface. In other words, the same team can pull four times as much on a concrete road as it can on the best-surfaced dirt road.

The new tests emphasized the value of breeding and of training in horses. While the value of weight in draft animals was demonstrated, a result of the tests was that gameness counted almost as much.

In Wrong Both Times

Before the dinner began a young man with an eyeglass and a drawl said to somebody standing near him: "Beastly nuisance, isn't it? Spoke to that fellow over there—took him for a gentleman, and found he had a ribbon on his coat. The confounded head waiter, I suppose?" "Oh, no," replied the other, "that is the guest of the evening."

"Hang it all, is it?" said the other. "Look here, old chap, would you mind sitting next to me at dinner and telling me who's who?"

"Sorry I can't, sir," was the reply.

"You see, I'm the confounded head waiter."

Light Bread

"Good morning," said an old lady, entering a baker's shop. "Permit me to compliment you on the lightness of your bread."

The baker rubbed his hands and smiled benignly.

"Thank you, madam," he said. "It is my aim to bake the lightest bread in this town."

"And you do it," said the old lady. "If it gets much lighter it will take two of your pound loaves to weigh sixteen ounces!"

Whistler Slighted

American artists are incensed at what appears to be discrimination on the part of the French who have relegated to a small Paris museum Whistler's famous painting, "Arrangement in Gray and Black," a portrait of his mother. According to established custom, a decade after the death of the artist his best paintings are removed to the Louvre. Whistler has been dead two decades.

Los Angeles' Battering Ram

A torpedo-shaped piece of cast steel, weighing 150 pounds with two handles welded to its sides, is used by the Los Angeles police department to break into lottery dens and gambling clubs. Four men swing the heavy metal bar against the door and whether wood or metal it soon gives way.

Lucky Samoan Natives

The possession of American Samoa is guaranteed to the natives forever by the government of the United States. Opium, alcohol, patent medicines and commercialized drugs are prohibited and medical service is supplied free.

Not a Competency

A beggar asked for a few coppers with which to get some breakfast. "But aren't you the man to whom I gave a penny yesterday?" "I wouldn't be surprised, sir," replied the beggar, "but I hope you didn't think that penny would make me independent for life."

NEWTON MAN INSTRUCTOR

Lieutenant Alexander O. Haff of Newton Highlands is the first graduate of the Citizens' Military Training camp to return as an instructor in that course under the war department's plan of having civilian soldiers train the New England young men, who spend a month each summer at this cantonment, assimilating the rules of manhood and citizenship.

Lieutenant Haff, who will be a senior at Tufts college next fall, attended the first C. M. T. C. camp in 1921. He returned two subsequent years and in May of this year was commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry. Officers' reserve corps, attached to the 94th division, which has just concluded two weeks of active duty. When he reported here within the past few days, he was assigned first to be an athletic officer in the 94th, but subsequently orders came through for him to join the Fifth infantry of regulars, to aid in the training of the C. M. T. C. men, and he has begun his new duties. Although Lieutenant Haff was not necessarily the first man to be commissioned from the C. M. T. C., he is the first of the reserve officers whose commissions result from that course to return as an instructor of those who follow him in it.

A SUGGESTION TO YOUNG MARRIED COUPLES

You have great financial hopes for the future. You intend to make money and save it.

You perhaps hope to be wealthy some day and own a wonderful home.

One of the surest ways to do this is to START RIGHT and the real fundamental right start is to build a modest home right away.

Renting until you have enough to build the home is a very expensive way of going at it. Put the rent money into a home and you can save much faster and enjoy the real home at the same time.

If you want complete information on how to go about this we will GLADLY give it to you without obligating you in any way.

Give us a call whether you have just been married or are soon to be—it will be one of the most valuable business visits you can make.

Jane Seymour's Ghost Haunts Hampton Court

In a recent article by Alberic Cahuet on "The Ghosts of Fontainebleau," published in L'Illustration (Paris), according to a translation in the Kansas City Star, the writer said:

"In England, at Hampton Court, it is admitted that Jane Seymour, third wife of Henry VIII, comes back in the dead of night to wander through the corridors. Her ghost—a wraith with disheveled hair outlined in white light—has been seen. It is declared, on the little stairway which leads to the private apartment once occupied by the young queen. It is even claimed that the apparition has been photographed—witness the souvenir postcards sold by the caretaker at the castle."

It is frankly admitted that the postcard is intended simply to show what Jane's wraith looks like when it is photographed.

It will be remembered that Jane Seymour, Henry VIII's third wife, was married by this Bluebeard monarch the day after the execution of his second wife, Anne Boleyn, in May, 1536. Jane Seymour was then barely twenty years old. Hampton Court is one of the largest of the royal palaces of England, is of brick with crenellated walls, and was built by Cardinal Wolsey in 1515 as a gift to Henry VIII. More than eight hundred of the thousand-odd rooms are today occupied by members of the British aristocracy who are lodged there gratuitously by the crown. It would appear from this that if the ghost of poor Jane Seymour still haunts the corridors of Hampton Court it runs the risk of encountering plenty of living persons.

Chewing Gum Industry Demands Lots of Mint

Gum-chewers have so increased in numbers that the demand for flavoring extract for the gum results in a constantly increasing price therefor. The acreage in the production of the plant in two Michigan counties exceeds 4,000 acres.

Peppermint as a flavor is today in great demand everywhere. The peppermint men say this is largely owing to its use in the manufacture of chewing gum. Oil of peppermint is now also employed to test steam boilers. If the odor of the oil escapes it indicates that the boiler is unsafe. A boiler that will hold the smell of the oil is said to be capable of holding any pressure to which it is ordinarily subjected.

Peppermint is raised on marsh land formerly given over entirely to the production of hay. This land, formerly worth from $1 to $10 an acre, now brings $100 to $200 an acre. The land is used over and over again for the same kind of a crop without rotation, though marinated potash is employed to maintain the soil in the desired state of fertility. In September the crop is cut with a mowing machine.

His Mistake

A magnificently attired washerwoman drove up in her limousine and delivered to a young professional man his weekly wash. He examined it, and then said, timidly:

"Excuse me, madam, but I'm afraid you've made a mistake. I gave you my shirt and, instead, you've brought me these very dilapidated old handkerchiefs."

The washerwoman looked into the parcel angrily.

Rescuing the Oldest Bible

The modern art of the camera has come to rescue the oldest known Bible from the inevitable deterioration of the years. Portions of this Bible belonging to the University of Michigan are being photographed, partly to preserve the disintegrating fragments and partly to put the fading papyrus in a substantial form available for study. Only two professors have access to the fragments. One of them, Doctor Sanders, spent eighteen days piecing together one of the pages photographed.

Feeds Chickens Before Self

At the recent Country Life conference held in St. Louis a moving picture film was shown of a farm boy and his prize flock of chickens. The birds were fine because the boy had a scientific knowledge of chicken culture and had applied his knowledge to the care of his flock. But the boy was a mouth breather and showed further effects of malnutrition. The chickens were better cared for than the boy.

The Merite Agricole is to be conferred on French families that have tilled the same soil for three centuries. There are 750 such families in France. One family has held the same land since the reign of Charlemagne. Another family at Colombes, near Gap, has worked its farm for 1,000 years.

AUTO ACCIDENT

A crash, in which an automobile banged into a telegraph pole at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Prince street, West Newton, "Dead Mans Curve," at 4.55 Sunday morning, so loud that Police Headquarters received calls from people living a quarter of a mile away, resulted in the arrest of four men. Charles Gorman of 35 Cottage road, Medford, was charged with being drunk and with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Warren G. Grace of 25 Spring street, Nicholas Luongo of 273 Riverside avenue, and Edward Sherman of 232 Riverside avenue, Medford, were all charged with being drunk. The last three named were taken to the Newton Hospital before being locked up, where they were treated for cuts and bruises. The car was wrecked, parts of the front, head lights, bumper etc., being still wedged into the post on the car tracks reservation where the automobile went off the road.

BOY DROWNED

Interesting Exercises Held at Lower Falls Playground Recently Purchased by City

ed through all these years. Mr. Early thanked Alderman Heathcote in behalf of all the people of the community for his good work in bringing about this purchase and also for his help in securing a branch library for the place and assured him that his efforts and their results were deeply appreciated. Mayor Childs, in his usual happy manner, informed the citizens that one of his chief objects in being Mayor of Newton had been accomplished with the acquisition by the city of this, the most beautiful playground in this or any other city. He told the many benefits and blessings of such a playground and asserted that it was a valuable and desirable asset, not only to the community, but to the city as a whole. One need but to see the happy faces and hear the joyous laughter and witness the zest with which the various games and sports were being carried on to realize what a source of joy and health and happiness this playground is and ever will be.

On Saturday, Aug. 9th the formal dedication of the Lower Falls Playground was held. Exercises consisting of addresses by Mayor Childs and Representative Early with introductions by Alderman Heathcote and appropriate music by a Y D Band, formed the major feature of a field day, held by the Foresters of America on this spacious and beautiful playground.

Alderman Heathcote, through whose persistent efforts funds were collected and the favor of the city officials for the purchase of the playground secured, acted as chairman, in the absence of Mr. Alfred Murray. He spoke of Mr. Murray's active and efficient service as chairman of the committee for collecting funds. Representative Early told a most interesting story of the various uses to which this field has been devoted since its acquisition by the Crechore family in 1848. Few, if any, of the audience had ever realized its history of usefulness in addition to the comfort and pleasure it has afforded.

OUTING A GREAT SUCCESS

Newton and Brookline Join For a Good Time at Norumbega Park

The joint outing of the Newton Chamber of Commerce and Brookline Board of Trade, held at Norumbega Park on Wednesday afternoon and evening, proved a big success and was thoroughly enjoyed by a party of two hundred or more business men, the representation being about equal from the two cities. Beginning with an automobile parade which toured the business sections of Brookline and several of the Newtons, the party reached the park shortly before three o'clock, proceeding to the athletic field where a baseball game between teams representing Newton and Brookline was won by the former, 8 to 7, after which there was a miscellaneous program of sports until nearly six o'clock. Dinner was served at that time, Mayor Edwin O. Childs presiding at the subsequent exercises and introducing Roger W. Babson as the principal speaker. The outing concluded with an evening theatre party, at the Norumbega Theatre.

The automobile parade was not only the opening event but also one of the big features of the afternoon program. Forming on Richardson street, at Newton Corner, shortly after one o'clock, the parade was headed by a handsome Cadillac Sedan from the Newton Centre Garage and carrying as passengers Mayor Childs, Alderman William S. Ball, and Police Sergeant Joseph H. Seaver, who was in charge of the police arrangements for the parade.

Immediately behind was a truck bearing the Newton Constabulary Band, which furnished excellent music for the parade and during the afternoon and early part of the evening program. Following the band truck were twenty-five or more handsomely decorated cars bearing those of the Newton contingent which were able to get away from their business in time to participate in this feature.

The parade route led through Nonantum Square to Park and Tremont streets, and through Brighton to Brookline, where the Brookline division pulled into line, making an entire parade that was imposing in appearance and numbered fifty-nine cars when the park was reached, several late comers having joined the column on route. The return to Newton was via Beacon street to Newton Centre, and thence down Centre street to Newton Corner, where the entire column swung around Vernon and Park streets to Washington street, and then up that thoroughfare through Nonantum Square to Newtonville, West Newton, Auburndale, and the park. Much of the success of the parade was due to the excellent cooperation and assistance of the police departments, motor cycle officers from the Newton, Brighton and Brookline police stations accompanying the parade through the various municipalities.

At the park, the baseball game was the first feature and developed some good playing as well as various humorous features. Ralph Somers, who officiated in the pitchers box for the Newton team, dominated the game to a material extent, letting up after the initial innings. The game was called by agreement at the end of the sixth inning when the score was 8 to 7 in favor of Newton. Walter Gregg was the receiving end of the Newton battery, being relieved in the later innings by "Dick" Dwyer, while the Brookline battery was McEtrick and Rogers. The features of the game were several good plays by Captain "Bill" Halliday of the Newton team, a one handed stop by shortstop "Tom" Cox, the acrobatics of Alderman John H. Gordon in left field and the batting of General John H. Sherburn of Brookline. "Guardy" Sherman of Newton Highlands officiated as umpire in a manner that was satisfactory to all.

Norman M. Appleyard, chairman of the Newton sports committee, was in charge of the sports following the ball game, these being varied and providing all kinds of fun for both participants and spectators. The various events developed so much enthusiasm that there were two or three heats in each, with the prize winners determined in the final heats. The pipe race was won by George Schade of Newton, with Freeman of Brookline in second place. All of the prizes in the paper bag race—one of the funniest of the afternoon—went to Brookline, with Mortensen first, and

TAX RATE FIXED AT $27.40

Assessors Find Large Increase in Valuations and Rate is but Eighty Cents Over 1923

The announcement yesterday morning by the assessors that the tax rate for 1924 would be but $27.40, an increase of but 80 cents over the $26.60 rate for 1923 was a great surprise to those interested as preliminary figures had indicated a much higher figure. The increase this year is due as it was last year, to the greatly increased city expenditures, the city budget this year totaling $3,354,180, as against $3,138,000 last year, an increase of some $216,000. The state, county and metropolitan taxes show a gratifying decrease of over $17,000. The estimated receipts are $70,000 less than last year, the income tax is $18,000 less and the total deductions this year are but $828,000 as against $915,000 last year.

The gain in real estate valuations is most pleasing, it being $6,600,000 as against $5,500,000 last year, and the total increase in valuations of both real and personal amounts to over $7,500,000. Last year the increase was but $6,400,000. The total valuation of the city is now $109,632,800. Next week we shall show the valuations by wards and precincts.

WEST NEWTON ATHLETICS 1 HIGH SCHOOL SCRUBS 0

At the West Newton Common last Monday night the West Newton Athletics defeated the High School Scrubs captained by Carroll Leary. The game was most interesting throughout the entire seven innings.

West Newton scored in the last of the sixth, after two were out, on a single and stolen base, followed by a single by Lomax which sent in the winning run.

J. Pass pitching for the high school, and Wheeler for the Athletics did excellent work on the mound.

Another game between the same teams has been scheduled for next Monday evening at West Newton Common, commencing at 6 o'clock sharp.

NEW COACH

Allen Chalmers School of West Newton has signed Rufus Bond, at present an instructor at Northeastern University, to coach its football team next fall. Bond replaces Louis Harris, former Newton High and Colgate athlete, who has coached Allen on the gridiron during the past two seasons and is now in charge of athletics at Belmont High School.

The stroke that brings Bond to Allen Chalmers is a fortunate one for that institution, for Bond has achieved marked success in schoolboy football since graduating from Harvard, where he played baseball and football. He first coached at Country Day School, going later to Winchester High of the Mystic Valley Interscholastic League, where his teams won several championships. Bond spent last year at Northeastern University, where he had charge of baseball and basketball. He will continue to teach at Northeastern and to coach there during the winter and spring.

With the coming of Bond, the Allen Chalmers athletic staff is complete. D. F. Thomas, former University of Maine athlete, has joined the faculty and will have general supervision of the school's sports. G. M. Lathrop, one time University of Oregon player, will also join the faculty in the fall and take charge of basketball activities.

Many Honest Citizens Have Criminal Faces

Have you a criminal face? Of course you haven't, you exclaim indignantly. Yet thousands of absolutely respectable, law-abiding citizens have developed, or are developing criminal faces, remarks London Answers.

How? Because, with defective eyesight, they shirk wearing glasses. Minus glasses, anyone with impaired vision screws his or her eyes up and peers. That's to get a focus; but the effect is to create an appearance of furtiveness, and it depends on the build of a face whether the furtiveness increases to an appearance of craftiness and cunning.

Again, there are thousands of quite sweet-tempered folk who look ill-tempered. Vertical lines run up their forehead as the result of "screwing" their eyes. Thus is a "cross" face made.

It may be argued that what a man is in character, and not what he seems to be facially, is what counts. But that applies only to those who know him. When we meet a stranger our first judgment of him, our decision whether we shall like him or not, depends to a very great extent on his facial appearance.

That is not to say that plainness, or even ugliness, if not of the repellent type, will make us give an adverse verdict, for charm of manner or speech may frequently cancel these things.

But if the stranger looks at us furtively, just because he ought to be wearing glasses, and isn't, or because of the same omission, looks ill-tempered, what then? We don't take to him. Our judgment is wrong, of course; but he has asked for it.

The very obvious moral is—if you need glasses, get them and wear them. In these days we cannot afford to handicap ourselves by letting our faces be our misfortune. What we look like does really count.

Denizens of the Deep Have Some Human Ways

Fish stories are important items of human experience, and the teeming life of the sea has ups and downs to match any fortune of the land. Young oysters, we are told, settle down to work after forty-eight hours of making a splash in their world.

Some become pearl manufacturers, and others just hang around the bars—plain old oaks. Starfish sometimes visit oyster communities and work the old shell game. Well, the oysters have made their beds—let them lie in them. And there are the limpets. They prowl around at night, but always in the morning they manage to find their own flats on the old home rock, and so save their faces in the eyes of the community. Ah, those sly, frolicking limpets.

And what armories of teeth—whelks have from 220 to 250 each, winkles 3,500, and the umbrella shell about 750,000 to the set. What a time there must be when the little umbrella shells are teething. Whelks, mon!

Life at the bottom of the sea is a pretty serious business.—Nation's Business.

One on the Pawnbroker

He stood, apparently deep in thought, under the three golden balls which hung above the doorway of the shop.

Presently resolution came to him; he crossed the threshold and inquired of the proprietor: "How much will you give me for this coat?"

"A shilling," retorted the pawnbroker, eyeing the shabby garment with undisguised contempt.

"Oh, make it 2 shillings," exclaimed the seedy one. "Hang it all, this coat's worth 5 bob if it's worth a penny!"

"My friend," said the pawnbroker, "I wouldn't give five shillings for two overcoats like that—no, certainly I couldn't."

"Come, come!" replied the seedy one, persuasively. "Would you take a shilling for it if the coat were yours?"

"Yes, and think I'd done well!"

"Ah, then, that's all right. Here's your bob. I found the coat outside and brought it in to see how much it was really worth."—Toronto Globe.

There Only Six Nieces

There being a Shakespearean repertoire company in town, a Liverpool magnate told his secretary to book a couple of seats.

"I'll telephone my wife," said the merchant, "and leave a memorandum on my desk as to what she wants to see."

A little later the secretary found the memorandum. It read: "Two tickets for Twelfth Night."

The next morning the secretary reported: "I couldn't get the tickets you specified, sir. The company will only be in town six nights."

Fixing the Blame

Gentle hands were lifting Pat from the wreckage of his automobile, which had just been struck at a grade crossing by a fast passenger train.

"How did it happen?" asked a friend, who was with the rescue party.

"Begorra," fumed Pat, "tis more than I can understand. Ye'd have thought that the engineer of the train could have seen me comin' in broad daylight!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Needed Scraping

It was one of London's gray days when one American greeted another American in Piccadilly.

"Lil' ol' London's got no skyscrapers yet," remarked one.

"Tity, too," answered the other, gazing heavenward. "I never saw a sky that needed scraping more."

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

The Height of Ambition

I know a cop with flashing eye. Who blinks at all the passers-by. You'd think sometimes he'd want to stop. This winking, blinking traffic cop.

He doesn't care whose girl it is. But keeps a steady, saucy quizz. Though bold, he never takes a drop. This winking, blinking traffic cop.

'Twould seem some men would want to fight. When told they must "Keep to the Right." He squelches every "yip" and "yop." This winking, blinking traffic cop.

I only wish I had a nerve. Like his, to stand on some sharp curve. I'd keep all drivers on the hop. Were I this green-eyed traffic cop.

We have been reminded that there are things other than bicycles that do not belong on sidewalks. The suggestion has been made to us that we need not necessarily drop our protest against bicycle-riding on sidewalks, but that we add that there are some store-keepers in Nonantum Square who are going a bit strong on the use of sidewalks as a form of open-air markets.

It is pointed out to us these few stores violate, whether intentionally or not, the ordinance which prohibits the use of more than a certain amount of sidewalk room for store purposes. Some dealers, whose stock consists principally of perishable articles, appear to have a notion that there is no limit. We ourselves have seen a condition that made us wonder.

We knew that under our laws no dealer is allowed to monopolize half or even quarter of the sidewalk in front of his store, or anywhere near that. But there are some that do. With Nonantum Square the great problem of traffic experts, it is a source of surprise that the police have not looked into the matter. But perhaps the thoroughfares are receiving their due attention and they may get around to the sidewalks later on. We agree with those who have called the matter to our attention that it is unfair to the large majority of store-keepers who strive to obey the law and do not make a display of their goods on the sidewalk. They contend that the violator of the ordinance has a business advantage over the law-abiding merchant and that such a state of affairs should not be permitted to continue. We agree fully with that and pass along the suggestion that somebody do something about it.

Discretion leads us to announce that the circumstance we shall attempt to relate in this paragraph does not constitute a midsummer dream. To those who might be disposed to say that hot weather is apt to upset one's mental equilibrium we hereby announce that we can offer supporting testimony from the most reliable source. A friend of ours, a staid, married man will gladly corroborate. His name will be supplied on written request, providing his wife is willing. This citizen of Newton was our companion on an in-bound trolley the other morning when an unusual sight greeted our vision.

A young woman passenger, daintily gowned in a most becoming Summer dress, occupied a place not six feet away. She was a genuine Summer girl, so Summer, we might say, that her dress was sleeveless. It was not that, however, which caused our astonishment, for dresses without sleeves are not a rarity these days. What did startle us was the fact she had strapped on her left arm, midway between the elbow and shoulder, a gold watch wrist watch. Not that her arm was as slender as her wrist! Indeed no, her arm was plump, we believe that to be the most fitting and least offensive word to use in describing a lady's arm. It (the watch) rested secure, a tiny gold buckle and a narrow black silk ribbon furnishing the necessary fixings. Now please don't ask us if we tried to steal the watch. We doubt that had we done so we could have ascertained with any degree of accuracy. The procedure would have been so novel, not to say embarrassing. Several things occurred to us. We wondered first how one could consult one's watch with convenience under such circumstances. As soon as we got our own wits about us we concluded we were trying lifting our left arm before our eyes to see just how the scheme would work in our own case. It didn't seem so bad an idea, but we are not prepared to adopt the plan as we have no wrist watch, and also no sleeveless outfit shirts. Another thought was that if the young woman had occasion to exercise her muscles the strap would surely break. We concluded that she was not one who would perform hard tasks of domestic employment or even wholesome outdoor exercise. Still, we wondered if it interfered with the use of her left arm under circumstances that are sometimes part of a stroll by moonlight. We gave considerable thought to the matter in all its angles but reached no satisfactory explanation. The next plausible theory we did arrive at was that the young lady might have invented this very original scheme for covering her vaccination marks. But, again, we didn't get a close-up so the whole thing is still a mystery.

About the sharpest tugging at the heart strings we have experienced in one of our largest State buildings and there saw three boys, each about 10 years of age. They were bareheaded, which told us, we thought, they either lived not far away or were visiting some office in the building. It appeared that both our guesses were wrong. The youngsters, cheerful and full of life, were the most luckless little chaps in that part of Massachusetts. They were State wards and about to be sent out, each to a different home, there to grow up with a family that was not their own, but of which they were to become a member. They were orphans, these boys, and were about to be "boarded out" at the expense of the great Commonwealth. Their presence on the elevator was due to the good-nature of the elevator man who, possessing a sympathetic heart, was willing they should have what little fun they could obtain from a ride up and down on the "lift." It seemed a lesson to us and one which we would like to convey to some boys and girls of our acquaintance. It happens that we know, just as everybody else knows, selfish children whose indulgent parents apparently cannot do enough for them. These same little folks assume that too much cannot be done for them. Thus children and parents alike are to blame, according to our viewpoint. What would they think of three orphan boys making merry in spite of the fact that they were about to be separated and cared for by public charity? Would these much-petted boys and girls show the same philosophical spirit? We doubt it, and we hope they may never be called upon to try. Still had they seen the boys we saw they would, we feel sure, have paused for a moment to reflect.

Next to some of our readers allow themselves to become distressed over the three boys in question, we hasten to assure them that thoughtful State officials have, in these enlightened days worked many changes in the caring for State wards. Conditions are not as they were in the days of Charles Dickens or even a generation ago in Massachusetts. The State's wards are not merely "bound out" to be worked and beaten and starved. Nothing of the kind. Civilization has advanced considerably in the handling of this problem. No longer does the State hand over an orphan to the first person who expresses a willingness to take the child in his or her home. Instead the family in which the child is to be boarded must have a certificate of character that is satisfactory to the exacting officials. And, let it be said to the credit of humanity, there are many people with big hearts who are glad to take these youngsters into their homes. It may be they have lost children of their own or have wished for them without avail. The system that obtains nowadays is beneficial in many ways to the State wards. When a child is placed in a family the State doesn't lose track of him or her. A "visitor" from the State House has the child on a list and regularly calls at the new home to see how things are getting along. Until the boy or girl is of age and prepared to make his or her own way in the world the Commonwealth of Massachusetts knows how it is being treated and assures itself that the treatment is of the best. The "visitors" are not over-paid by the State, but they are, in our humble opinion, overworked, and yet they seem to enjoy their duties. An example that one may still have faith in human nature, if we may say so. The plan now is to have the State ward dressed the same as the other children of the family, sent to school in quite the same way and not called upon to serve as family drudge. Gradually the odium that attaches to the designation "State ward" wears away and the boy or girl gets what a sportsman would call "an even break." And such is much better than a "heartbreak."

Next to a jumping toothache we know of nothing more nerve-racking than a jumping taxrate.

For cold weather—community sings; for hot weather—community swims.

CAMP FRANK A. DAY

Camp Frank A. Day is nearly at the end of another successful season with only one more week to go. Since the opening, June 27th, 127 different boys have enjoyed the fine out-of-doors life under the best of leadership and care.

On Saturday, August 16th, there will be a minstrel show and field day at the camp. On Tuesday, August 19th, the boys will enjoy the annual banquet when the prizes and awards for the year will be presented. Wednesday is Brookfield Day, at which the camp has been asked to repeat its circus put on two weeks ago for parents and friends, and on Friday, August 22nd, the camp will close its 9th season.

There is a lot of fine equipment at Camp Day including the new boat-house and library completed and dedicated this year. The food prepared by Chef Conroy, is wholesome, plentiful, and appetizing. A new well has been driven this summer to take the place of another which gave out. There is a large flow of water which was examined by the Board of Health and pronounced fit in every way.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. Camp Committee has put a lot of time and thought into making Camp Day an ideal place for the boys of Newton.

GREAT EXCITEMENT

Probably no section of Greater Boston was caused more confusion and saw more excitement during the miniature hurricane and rainstorm Sunday evening than the stretch of the Charles river between the Newton Lower Falls Bridge and Moody street, Waltham. The storm swept over Riverside without warning, catching hundreds of canoeists in mid-stream miles from shelter. Inexperienced canoeists combined with fast paddling, the high wind and the rough rain-swept water, resulted in the overturning of 21 canoes. Metropolitan police officers were on the go for two hours, bringing in the dripping canoeists, and the number of canoeists who dried out at the station was close to 100. Patrolman Ed Roche rescued a couple off the station float and other officers lost count of those they assisted to shore. Every boathouse and club was thrown open to the crowd and it was midnight before all had reported back to the lively houses. A peculiar condition arose at Weston Bridge when those nearest the bridge pulled up under the arches for shelter and blocked the path of many paddling furiously down the river.

THE SOONER STATE

The National Editorial Association Enjoys the Unbounded Hospitality of the State of Oklahoma

Our next stopping place was the little city of Bristow, called "The Biggest Little City in Oklahoma"—A Bright spot on the Map," to all of which every member of our party will cheerfully and enthusiastically subscribe.

In most of our travels, we have had a fixed schedule to follow in the various cities and towns visited. Bristow met us at the train with a band and at the first opportunity told us that we could do as we liked while in that municipality,—and it is needless to say that the invitation was most acceptable.

The streets thru which we marched from the railroad station were lined with the national colors,—the effect being produced by flags placed in holes in the curb about every 25 feet,—a rather unusual method of decoration.

We had breakfast at the Chamber of Commerce and this, too, was an innovation from the regular program. Files on the rolls proved to be little stick pins. Matches on the table exploded with a bang when used. The unexpected was bound to happen which ever way one turned. The meal was enlivened by some excellent entertainers in monologue and imitations, keeping every one on the quiver.

What was said to be the serious part of the program was a little lecture given by a so called expert in explosives, who showed us a small vial of liquid which he carefully explained was the deadly TNT and which he declared would blow us to atoms if it ever got agoing. While expatiating on its power, some one nudged his arm so that the bottle fell to the floor, while another party to the conspiracy, shot off a revolver in the back part of the room. It took part of the forenoon for some of the ladies to recover their equanimity.

With such a start, it was no wonder we had an enjoyable day. Some of us took a long dusty ride thru the oil fields, while others went to the Country club for golf or rest.

At noon we had another barbeque at one of the city parks,—and which as I don't like barbeques, I will pass over by merely saying that it was intended as a burlesque on the noted barbeque served by former Governor Jack Walton when he took office.

In the afternoon there was more golf, tea was served at the Country Club, and an organ recital was given at one of the leading churches.

The dinner was another invitation. Our party was divided into groups of thirty or forty, each group being assigned to the home of different residents. We were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Davis, who were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks and Mr. and Mrs. Marcy. The meal was served cafeteria fashion, members of the party marching thru the dining room, receiving the food and then sitting down at small tables in the living room of the house, husbands and wives being expressly prohibited from sitting at the same table. An orchestra furnished music and it proved a most enjoyable occasion.

After supper, a dance was held in the park coliseum. The decorations here were most attractive and multi-colored caps, balloons, etc., added gaiety and beauty to the affair.

Bristow certainly proved to be one of the "Biggest Little" cities we have ever seen.

J. C. BRIMBLECOM.

SAVE THE PARK

To the Editor of the Newton Graphic:

Your issue of August 8, 1924, contained a letter under the caption of "Save the Park," and I heartily agree with him that the present park in front of the Tech School should not be encroached upon.

If, as he states, the deed conveying a large tract of land to the City, on which was to be erected the Technical School Building, contained a restriction that no building other than the said Tech School Building shall be erected on the granted premises until its site and plans have been approved. The School Committee approved the same December 6th, 1907.

If there is any minor technicality in the deed whereby the Board of Aldermen, the School Committee, or the Library Committee claim a new school building can be placed in the present park, it is against the wish of many well-known citizens, and tax-payers of Newton, who assisted and liberally contributed more than $70,000, towards the payment for this property, which was deeded to the City of Newton by the late Governor Claflin. It was the expectation of these donors that the land in front of the present Tech School be reserved for a park.

Why spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for a new High School Building to be erected in the park in front of the Tech School when there is ample room in the rear of the present High School Building to build an addition for ten to twelve more classrooms?

In less than two years it will probably be necessary to build a new High School building to accommodate the pupils on the south side of the city in Newton Centre and Newton Highlands, and other localities.

It would seem that now is the time to begin to agitate a new High School Building on the south side of the City, as a new High School building in front of the Technical school in Newtonville is anticipated. Now is the opportunity for the several Improvement Associations, Parents, and Tax-payers, either to write or consult the Mayor and members of the Board of Aldermen and impress upon them the needs of a High School for the southern part of Newton.

It costs the City a large sum of money for transportation each year for pupils attending the higher grades in Newtonville.

I understand there is some agitation about constructing an elaborate building for a gymnasium, with up-to-date fixtures, such as a tank and shower baths, which means an outlay of several hundred thousand dollars more. Probably none of the Board of Aldermen, School Committee or Library Committee had these luxuries but got their High School education by plugging at their books and ample time given to their studies, and strategy of the subject. There is ample room on the land owned by the City south of the Tech building, when this condition seems absolutely necessary.

I am a great believer in education, but it would seem advisable to use some discretion in the use of tax-payers' money for school purposes, particularly in the face and eyes of the exception high cost per pupil. Any tax-payer after consulting with the State Board of Education, will no doubt learn that the cost per capita for education in Newton, including buildings, will exceed the cost per capita of any other city in Massachusetts of the same population.

The tax-payers are looking to the Finance Committee of the City Government to guard well the Treasury and prevent as far as possible the use of funds for unnecessary school buildings.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Aug. 14.—Now that the candidates have formally accepted the nominations for the Presidency and other major offices, and all doubts as to an eleventh-hour declaration of these honors have been completely dispelled, the contenders politely invite the attention of the people to themselves and the platforms of their parties. Comment is to the effect that custom must be served even with a notification rite which is nothing more than an exchange of felicitations.

Though the campaign is manifestly in its early stages, it is significant to note the change in tactics. No longer do the leading contestants for this great office revile each other. Mud-slinging has had its day and happily a new program, based on the fact that it is possible to be a gentleman and a politician at the same time, is under advisement. It is true, of course, that occasionally exceptions may be noted in some localities. In these instances, it has been stated, that the local issues and the men involved are responsible for discord rather than the men and matters connected with the national ticket.

Nobody has ever disputed the time-worn proverb that "Politics is the science of exigencies." Unlike the movement of the sea, it is almost impossible to determine with the slightest degree of accuracy, the tide of the elections. Travelers returning to Washington report that it is a difficult matter to keep a finger on the public's pulse. Few can tell just what the symptoms mean. They say that the "voice of the people" as heard in smoking compartments of railroad trains and the other popular summer forum, resort hotel verandas, confines itself more to a discussion of a notorious murder case now pending in Chicago than to the great economic and political issues upon which three great parties ask the voters to render a decision in November. It may be a sad commentary upon the people, but a comparison of the space allotted to the morbid and sensational features of the Chicago affair will show that political news is running a bad second in the daily race for public attention. Leaders are frankly worried about this indifference.

There are some who profess to see in the forthcoming investigation of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Prohibition Unit of the Treasury Department, a scandal which will re-establish political matters as the leading front page attraction for the reading, and presumably a voting public. According to well-informed observers, the inquiry will be staged with all the trappings and a sense of dramatic values which made the Teapot Dome probe a nine-days wonder. The curtain will be raised late in September by Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan. He made a gesture last spring, but timidity, and strategy of those opposing the inquiry prevented the Senatorial inquiry. The Senator, once a partner of Henry Ford, is a candidate to succeed himself, and obviously without the stamp of party "regularity." He claims that these government bureaus, in particular, have been mismanaged at the expense of the taxpayers as a whole. Those opposed to the wholesale grilling, claim that the Senator is inspired by personal animus resulting from a public correspondence with the present Secretary of the Treasury. It has been agreed that the investigation will be undertaken prior to the elections. The determination to hold another quiz concerning morals of those in public office may have been a coincidence, but, it is said, suspicion of making political capital out of the disclosures, if any, may be reasonably drawn. The ultimate effect of the Couzens inquiry on the fortunes of the Republican and Democratic parties, leaders say, is merely a conjecture at this time.

The report of the Department of Agriculture, after a survey of farm regions, shows that the American farmer has increased his purchasing power and materially improved his condition in the economic fabric of the country. According to current stories here, the continued prosperity of the farmer will insure the re-election of those congressmen from rural districts who tinkered with farm legislation at the last session but produced nothing in actual relief for hard-pressed constituents. plenty it is easy to forgive and many harassed candidates for the Washington representative of farming districts will appreciate this fact.

If the agriculturalist voted as a class, the crops would be a political mine pointing the way in which the wind was blowing. With evidences of growing industrial depression, speculation today deals with the so-called "labor vote." Though LaFollette and Wheeler were highly gratified at the endorsement of the American Federation of Labor, there are no assurances that the vote, as a class, can be delivered. It is characteristic of the average American to recall his liberty of choice at the polls. Altogether, there is no ground for complacency anywhere.

The Congressionalist had a fine editorial last week entitled "A Christian Statesman" and referring to the candidacy of Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger for the Republican nomination for United States senator. The following sentence ought to appeal to the voters in this city:

"Mr. Dallinger is a fine type of the Christian citizen in public life. He is an active member of a little Episcopal church near his home, and is active in Y. M. C. A. and other interdenominational Christian work. It is refreshing to find such a brainy, clear-headed, straight-forward, vigorous Christian gentleman in public life. The need of the hour is for such men in the United States Senate."

The tax payers of Newton are to be heartily congratulated on the tax rate which has just been announced by the assessors. The rate of $27.40 is but 80 cents higher than that of 1923. With the greatly increased budget, the unusual demands for school purposes, and a loss in revenue, it was fully expected that $29 would be nearer the figure. The result is largely due to the unusual increase in valuations, over seven and a half millions being found than last year, giving us a valuation of well over a hundred millions. We invite consideration of the figures which are printed in another column.

The Graphic will support the candidacy of Dr. Edward Mellus for the Republican nomination for the state senate. Years of intimate association with Dr. Mellus have given us personal knowledge of his fine character, his ability and his splendid public spirit. Notwithstanding his lack of political experience, he has shown real qualities of leadership in church affairs, medical societies and college fraternities and we predict that as a member of the state senate he will render unselfish, conscientious and able service to the Commonwealth.

The characteristic procrastination of the American people had a typical illustration last Sunday evening, when, in spite of the gathering of a storm, thousands of canoeists persisted in remaining on the bosom of the Charles river. That there were none drowned is a cause of congratulation as well as a tribute to the good work of the Metropolitan police. But the folly of it all ought not to be overlooked.

Wednesday will be the last and only opportunity to register for the coming state primary. Do not neglect your plain duty.

DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Edwina R. Ripley of Chester, Vt., widow of Joseph H. Ripley, died of heart trouble at 4:15 Wednesday morning of last week at the home of Mrs. Ada Howe, of 10 Brook street, Brattleboro, Vt., where she was visiting. She had been in her usual health, but was taken ill during the night.

Mrs. Ripley was born in Weston, May 17, 1856, and was the daughter of Calvin and Rebecca Ball.

After her husband's death she lived in Malden, Mass., for about twenty years, going from there to Auburndale, where she made her home with her son until he moved to Chicago, and she came to Vermont to be near her daughter.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Lawton of Chester, Vt., a son, Edwin F. Ripley, and two granddaughters, Phyllis K. and Barbara B. Ripley of East Orange, N. J.

The funeral services were held at her daughter's home at Chester, Vt., the Rev. Henry L. Ballou officiating. The burial was beside her husband at the Wyoming Cemetery, Melrose, Mass.

DEATH OF MR. DAVIS

Mr. Charles P. Davis, a resident of Newtonville, died suddenly last Saturday while on a visit at Tim Pond Camp, Maine.

Mr. Davis was one of the best-known traveling salesmen in the country. For 26 years he traveled in the Middle West for the firm of Simons, Hatch and Whitten of Boston, and during that time was awarded a prize by a Western trade magazine as the most popular traveling salesman in his line. The award was made after a vote had been taken among the clerks of the stores visited in the Middle West. In recent years he had confined his traveling to Massachusetts, working for the firm of Hughes & Potter of Boston. He leaves two nephews, both of Boston, Samuel and Charles Davis. His wife died about five years ago.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at his late home, 114 Lowell avenue, Newtonville and the burial was at Ossipee, N. H.

ROTARY DOINGS

The regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club was held Monday at the restaurant of Norumbega Park. Mr. William Halliday, president, presiding. The after-luncheon program was in charge of Mr. Harvell, chairman of the Entertainment Committee. In a short introductory speech, Mr. Roy V. Collins, of Newtonville, was introduced as the principal speaker of the day. His remarks were based on his experiences in the use of used automobiles, or suggestions on how he has been treated and what he would do if he conducted an Auto Sales & Service Station. Mr. Collins' remarks were full of witticisms, which kept the audience in a gale of laughter the greater part of the time.

A golf tournament for Rotary members to be staged at the Woodland Golf Club was announced by Mr. Ira Rowe for next Monday. About thirty members anticipate competing.

POLICE COURT

Richard H. Beard of 751 17th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., a former local resident, was arrested Wednesday night by Patrolman Thomas, for being drunk and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, after a machine he is alleged to have been operating was in collision with a car in Newtonville. The case was continued until August 15.

In court yesterday Judge Bacon imposed a jail sentence on Nicholas Battastia of 36 Lincoln street, Brighton, for operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, and going away from the scene of an accident after causing injury to a boy. He was given one month in the House of Correction on one charge and sentenced to two months for operating so as to endanger the lives of the public. He appealed and was held in bonds of $500.

Rural Education in China Is Improving

There has been astonishing improvement along the line of public education since the dawning of the Republic of China in 1911, says the Southern Workman. Needless to say, there is only a small fraction of her population of 400,000,000 having so far the privilege of being educated; but there is a decisive activity leading to further expansion and advancement.

In China elementary education is given in both the lower and higher primary schools. A child is in his school age from six to fourteen and compulsory school attendance during the period is secured by law. But in the rural districts where child labor still prevails and the compulsory attendance law is not seriously enforced not all the farmers' children attend regularly these fundamental schools.

Usually a large village has a lower primary school for itself. Two or three small villages combine to maintain one. The higher primary school is found only in the city or town. A rural primary school usually makes use of an old temple as school building.

The teacher, either a graduate from a lower normal school or from a higher primary school, lives in the school. His annual salary is from $100 to $150 including everything except house rent.

These village schools are under the direct control of the county superintendent. He is the chief administrative authority, but he seldom visits the schools himself. The supervision is done by a county inspector who is by no means helping the teachers during his visit, but is engaged in marking down what he sees in the school for a general report to the superintendent.

Giant From the Jura Mountains Is Strong

One of the tallest men alive today, possibly the tallest, is Armand Bronner, who hails from the Jura mountains, says London Tit-Bits. He is 7 feet 5½ inches in height and his stretch from finger tip to finger tip is close on 8 feet, while as his boots are 17½ inches long, his patronage is eagerly sought by the bootmakers in his locality.

Bronner was born in 1890 and only ceased to grow when he was thirty years of age. It is a remarkable fact that he only weighed 4½ pounds when born. His great height is not shared by any other member of his family, the tallest being 5 feet 9 inches.

Unlike most giants, who outgrow their strength, Bronner is exceedingly strong, and can carry a weight of nearly half a ton with ease. His health is excellent, and so is his appetite. He eats little meat, but consumes a huge quantity of vegetables.

Food and clothing necessarily cost him about twice what an ordinary man would have to pay, and his tailor, when fitting him, requires a stepladder to reach his shoulders. At present this giant is touring the continent, but he hopes shortly to visit this country.

Speaking Bostonese

A young electrical engineer from Boston suffered an injury and was sent to a hospital for treatment, where his accent proved a problem to the attendants.

"Could I have a baba?" he asked one morning.

"There is one in each room," the nurse replied.

Later he made the same request to another attendant, and received the same answer.

"Can I have a baba?" he appealed to the head nurse.

"There should be a Bible in each room," she said.

"Say," he called, desperately, "you don't understand me; I want to get shaved."—Indianapolis News.

Boys Rule Schoolmasters

Many of the communists recently arrested and placed in internment camps by the German authorities were schoolmasters, and their "discipline" has been provided for in a way which suggests that their captors are not entirely deficient in humor. London Answers reports.

The schoolmasters were collected and placed in a special group, which was then placed under the orders of a number of boys belonging to aristocratic families and chosen from among the inmates' own pupils.

One consequence is that a few of the younger generation in this country are now beginning to believe that Germany is not so bad a place, after all.

He D'd It

"Hey, pap," said Hank Hayfoot, somewhat truculently, "hookit yore." "All right, I'm a lookin'!" "What did you do with that cord of hickory I sawed and split before I went to the county seat?" "Fed the stove with it endurin' of that last blizzard." "Dad burn it!" "That's what I done," said dad cheerfully.

They Antedated Him

Young Writer (to critic)—Maitre, I am Lacolomb, the poet; possibly you are acquainted with my verses.

Critic—Indeed I am, young man. I was acquainted with them before you were born.—Le Rire (Paris).

Reason for Trouble

"You look troubled today?" "Yes, I was on the spree last night and when I got home very late I found I had moved to another address!"—Kasper, Stockholm.

Geoghegan in second place. Even more fun was occasioned by the shoe race, which had plenty of entries and in which Newton finally carried off all the honors with George Schade first and Stuart Dalzell close behind. The wheelbarrow race had a long list of entries, with "Tom" Brady of the Brookline delegation outclassing his competitors and winning the final heat with yards to spare. Geoghegan of Brookline was in second place.

The final event was the tug of war between Newton and Brookline, which was won by the Newton team comprising Somers, Calhoun, Gordon, Cozens, Dwyer, Gregg, Gilfix, and Hutchins. The Brookline team included Robinson, Cameron, Cutler, Kramer, Gainer, Moore, Hayes, and Foster. The Newton huskies were so confident of their ability to pull any eight Brookline men on the field that a second match was staged between the Newton team and a fresh Brookline crew, Newton again winning but being obliged to extend themselves to the limit to do so.

At the restaurant, there was music by the Newton Constabulary Band and the Chauve Souris Orchestra, with singing by the crowd under the direction of James H. Melcher, Louis Haffermehl presiding at the piano. Mayor Childs extended a cordial welcome to the Brookline delegation which was accepted by President Harry Marvel of the Brookline Board of Trade. President Rupert C. Thompson of the Newton Chamber spoke briefly and extended further facilitations, and congratulations, after which Mayor Childs introduced Roger W. Babson of the Babson Statistical Organization, as the speaker of the evening.

"The business outlook" was the subject of an especially interesting and informative address, illustrated with various charts. During the course of his address, Mr. Babson discussed present and past conditions, with comparative statistics, as applied to commodity prices, industrial readjustments, wages and living conditions, and prophesied a general and gradual improvement in business if things are left largely to adjust themselves and people strive to live sensibly and be patient, waiting for the upward swing in business that was sure to come. After prophesying further that commodity prices and wages would both show pronounced downward tendencies, he counseled his hearers not to mistake the sunrise for a conflagration, but to give business itself a real chance and things would eventually work out in a way best for all.

Following the dinner, those present adjourned to the theater where the party occupied a large block of seats, and thoroughly enjoyed an excellent show presented by the Jack Ormsby Musical Review. The outdoor diving act by "Speedy" followed, concluding the program. Both the Newton and Brookline committees are greatly indebted to the management of Norumbega Park and restaurant for a degree of cooperation that had much to do with the success of an event that—judging from the favorable comment heard on all sides—may prove the forerunner of many future events of this kind.

Wouldn't You—?

If you could participate in a business where your interests were protected by the strong arm of the State—

If wise and experienced business men of outstanding integrity would run that business and make investments for you, without pay—

If you could have your money when you liked; if it earned a good rate of interest while invested and was free from taxation—

Wouldn't you quickly enter into so safe and profitable a partnership?

New Dance Club Will Have an Ebony Floor

In a big dance club which is projected the dance floor is to be of ebony
—the first of its kind. It will be amazingly decorative, but its qualities for dancing have yet to be tested.

The perfect dance floor is a problem. Engineers and timber experts have produced some curiously complex and original structures for ballrooms in Britain and the United States, according to the London Mail.

The nearest approach to the ideal is laid in a London hotel. It is made up of nearly 10,000 small pieces of Balkan oak, seasoned for ten years, and given resiliency, toughness and imperviousness to atmospheric changes by a lengthy baking process.

Smoothness of surface was attained by pressing with electric irons, and the necessary spring is imparted by a suspension system involving the use of thousands of steel springs and wires.
Although strong enough to bear 250 tons, its resiliency is retained, and regular "tuning" keeps it sensitive.

Floors laid on rubber and felt are comparatively common; but they have many disadvantages. Thin floors laid on a yielding foundation are very pleasant to the dancers while they are new, but they soon become worn in patches and may even become splintery.

Parquet floors, highly polished and laid on a solid foundation, are very tiring after an hour's dancing, although they are not so hard on the feet and leg muscles as the marble floors on which one dances in some fashionable places along the Riviera coast.

Slang of Shakespeare Is Much Used Today

More slang from Shakespeare is being used the Toronto Globe asserts.
The old complaint against the bard of Avon that his plays were "too full of quotations" will have to be amended to read "too full of slang," if our readers' investigations continue. Henry T.
Waller of Toronto sends a formidable list which recalls many expressions used by those said to be of short vocabulary. Hereafter they will cite Shakespeare as their authority. Here is the list:

"Will I live? (to Bardolph). Go with her, with her; hook on, hook on."— King Henry IV, part 2, act 2, scene 1.
"But let me tell the world."—King
Henry IV, part 1, act 5, scene 2.
"Give the devil his due."—King
Henry IV, part 1, act 1, scene 2.
"Our cake's dough on both sides."—
"The Taming of the Shrew." Act 1, scene 1.

"It is not square to take."—"Timon of Athens," act 5, scene 5.
"I cannot tell what the dickens his name is."—"Merry Wives of Windsor," act 3, scene 2.
"As a cat licks milk."—"The Tempest," act 2, scene 1.
"Trinculo is reeling ripe; how canst thou in this pickle?"—"The Tempest," act 5, scene 1.

New Discovery in Iron Making

An instance of a case where a little is bad but an excess of the same bad quality makes it a good one, is reported by the United States bureau of standards as a result of recent researches in the reasons for malleable cast iron becoming brittle after being heated. When galvanized, such metal is heated to a critical range of 500 to 600 degrees Fahrenheit and then quite quickly cooled. This makes it brittle. It has now been found that if the metal is heated to a temperature 200 degrees above the critical range and then cooled, it is not only much more resistant to subsequent shocks, but also made immune to embrittlement as a result of subsequent reheating to within the dangerous range.

Praises Burrowing Rodents

There are 2,000,000,000 mammals in California. Half of these are burrowing rodents, such as ground squirrels, kangaroo rats and gophers, which give farmers much trouble, says the Atlanta Constitution.

Dr. Joseph Grinnell of the University of California, however, has a good word to say for gophers and such.
Fossils show that they have been in existence at least 200,000 years and he has figured out on one tract of land that in that time gophers have given the soil the equivalent to 3,400 plow-ings to a depth of six inches. It is all right to keep them off artificially cultivated land.

New Ruins Found in France

Workmen engaged in clearing grounds around the ancient gymnasium near Orange, France, recently uncovered ruins of a temple of greater dimensions than the famous Masson-Garrest at Nîmes or the Temple of Augustus and Livia at Vienna. The archaeological department of France considers the discovery of great importance, and has ordered excavation to be continued.

Arts and Arteries

She had a vast amount of money but it had come to her quite recently. One day an acquaintance asked her if she was fond of art.
"Fond of art?" she exclaimed. "Well,
I should say I was. If I am ever in a city where there's an artery, I never fail to visit it."—The Christian-Evangelist.

No Noticeable Difference

A $10,000 counterfeit bill is said to be in circulation. But how are they to be detected? All of ours look exactly

Forging a Signature Successfully Not Easy

The news published recently that a claim of $125,000 (nominally $650,000) has been made against a great London bank in connection with alleged forgeries has caused a sensation in financial circles. The amount involved is so large that, should the allegations prove correct, the crime will easily rank as one of the greatest of its kind of recent years.

The crime of forgery is comparatively rare. This is probably due to the fact it is one fraught with great difficulty and serious danger.

Bankers have the greatest confidence in their ability to recognize their customer's signatures, and their commercial and legal brethren, who do not act on a signature unless it is verified by that of a witness, must be moved to admiration when they see a bank cashier paying out hundreds of pounds to a perfect stranger on the strength of a single signature on a check, writes a banker in the London Mail.

That their confidence is not misplaced is seen from the fact that a successful forgery practically never takes place, although on a busy day more than a million checks pass through the London clearing house alone, while the check turnover of the British isles is some £50,000,000,000 a year.

It is, indeed, almost impossible to imitate successfully another man's signature. The handwriting may be most skillfully copied, but the criminal cannot get that personality and character into the signature which alone are the keynote of its genuineness.

Whooping Cough Cured by X-Ray Treatments

Will the X-Ray prove itself the long-looked-for remedy for whooping cough?

A new departure in the treatment of this disease has been inaugurated at the Boston floating hospital, where for the last year patients have been experimented upon with great success, says a Boston dispatch to the Kansas City Star.

Dr. Henry L. Bowditch, physician in charge of the hospital, has renewed the treatment of whooping cough with the X-Ray, which treatment was discovered in 1911 by a Russian physician, and abandoned by him as impractical.

Doctor Bowditch is the pioneer in this method of treatment in the New England states, and while cures in all cases are not effected completely through the agency of the X-Ray, great things are expected of it in the near future, the doctor said.

"Seventy-five per cent of the cases respond to treatment," Doctor Bowditch said. "In a period of two months last year we treated 338 cases with gratifying results."

"This treatment shortens the duration of the disease, lessens the cough and enables the patient to get much needed sleep."

Farmers Using Geysers

Geysers are proving useful adjuncts to farming in Iceland. A well-known dye works in that country linked up its factory with water pipes direct from the hot springs, and after using the hot water in the color processes and for heating the factory and the workmen's homes, conducted it through underground pipes laid in fields, which as a result yielded three times as much produce as neighboring fields not so equipped. Although from time immemorial the Icelanders have been familiar with geysers, only recently have their industrial uses been seriously considered, and a project is on foot to supply Reykjavik with hot water for heating, bathing and washing purposes from one of the neighboring hot springs.

Inviting Crime

"Look here what I bought for that dog of Junior's," Mr. Burton announced, throwing a package on the table.

Mrs. Burton unwrapped it. "Why, George!" she exclaimed. "A dog collar of all things!"

"Yes, and I gave $3.50 for it," Mr.
Burton related.

"Three dollars and a half!" echoed Mrs. Burton. "What on earth? I don't understand! You've always said you had no use on earth for Junior's dog and you wish somebody would steal it!"

"Yes, that's just it," Mr. Burton agreed. "With that collar on it some one will be sure to steal it now!"

Right, Anyhow

There was a worthy public official who had a goodly fund of common sense, but no great amount of book learning. He had never had a chance to acquire the same. Being called upon to address a class gathering, he spoke repeatedly of the university alumni.

"What does he mean?" whispered
one of the audience.

"He means the alumni!"

"Well, he knows they are good metal, anyhow."

His Phantom Fight

"What made you think this gentleman was drunk?" asked the judge.

"Well, yer honor, 'e was 'aving a bit of a fight with his bootlegger."

"But that doesn't prove he was drunk, officer."

"No, but there wasn't any bootlegger there, yer honor."—Everybody's Magazine.

NOTES FROM THE MOTHERS' REST

The party which arrived on July 24th for two weeks had twenty-one mothers and twenty-six children.

The Sunday service held on July 27 at four o'clock, was conducted by Rev. R. D. Davis of the Methodist Church of Newton Centre. Mrs. J. A.
Davis furnished music for the service. On Sunday, August 3rd, Rev.
Charles O. Farrar of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Newton Highlands, was the leader. Miss Fairchild presided at the piano.

On July 17th Miss Priscilla Ordway had charge of the evening's entertainment of stories, music, dances, music, lively and entertaining, was furnished by the talented "Holmes players" and Donald Cunningham, with piano, saxophone, violin, and drums. Miss Clara Smith added to the jollity of the evening with her dancing. Refreshments followed the entertainment.

The mothers were entertained on July 30th through the courtesy of Mrs. F. L. Nagle of Newtonville. Mrs.
Peggy Mann of Newton gave some delightful readings from Edgar Guest's poems, Miss Isabelle Walker of Boston gave generously of her songs, which were especially enjoyed.
Mr. Nagle and Mr. Mann entertained with their music and songs. Refreshments were served. A promise of ice cream cones for the children on the morrow was a part of Mrs. Nagle's thoughtfulness.

To members and friends of the Mothers' Rest Association! Again you are urged to make a visit to the Rest, to get acquainted with the interesting mothers, attractive children who are our guests and renew acquaintance with the matron and her staff of worthy helpers. You will be glad of firsthand knowledge of this good enterprise.

A STEP FORWARD IN MUSICAL EDUCATION

Philadelphia, Pa., August 6.—Not only has America become the music center of the world, but broader opportunities for a musical career are open today to American young men and women than ever before, according to John Grolle, Director of The Curtis Institute of Music.

"Gratifying as this is," Mr. Grolle goes on to say, "there yet remains the opportunity for a greater and more significant advance—the upbuilding of an intelligent appreciation of good music throughout our entire population."

To widen and deepen our national musical appreciation we must have more real musicians—men and women who, whether from the nation-wide vantage of the concert platform or operatic stage, or laboring quietly within the confines of their own community, shall have the scope, the vision, the completeness of full musicianship, to stimulate the musical life of the country.

"For several years a number of our most far-sighted musicians have bent their efforts toward this end. The higher grade schools of music have also tried to do their part. But practical and financial handicaps have made progress discouragingly slow."

With the definite purpose of maintaining a school of music which should so far as possible, be free from such handicaps, the Curtis Institute of Music has been established in Philadelphia under the auspices of The Curtis Foundation, created by Mary Louise Curtis Bok. The Curtis Institute is not a commercial venture. All its resources are directed toward affording the broadest possible opportunities for musical training—opportunities unexcelled anywhere, here or abroad.

Its director is John Grolle, who has for many years been at the head of the music in the Philadelphia Settlement Music School. As director of The Curtis Institute, he will have working with him a faculty which includes some of the most famous names which have ever given adherence as teachers to any music school—among others Josef Hoffmann, Marcella Sembrich, Leopold Stokowski and Carl Flesch.

It is the aim of The Curtis Institute to make possible, through its practically unlimited backing, the training each year of a substantial number of real musicians—artists, teachers and non-professionals. But the Institute looks far beyond this to the uplifting of American musical taste and appreciation through the after-work of its students.

"Of course," as Mr. Grolle points out, "from the practical standpoint, each pupil must have his specialty. But we are not going to teach anybody to be just a pianist, a violinist or a singer. We shall teach each and every one to be an all-round musician, and my idea of an all-round musician is one who not only knows all there is to know about music, but is also well informed on all the sister arts and in all the parallel studies that go with the arts. Each student must be taught to realize that music itself is bigger than the artist, and that the bigger the artist, the greater his responsibility toward music."

"The Curtis Institute is to have two divisions, the Preparatory department, limited to 400 pupils, and the Conservatory, limited to 250. A large normal department will be developed in the Conservatory in order to spread as widely as possible through the country the liberal educative methods of the Institute."

"The profound influence of the graduates of such a school as teachers, artists, or non-professional musicians, is obvious. And surely few things can contribute more to our daily life, our national culture, than a more widespread and sincere appreciation and enjoyment of music in all its forms."

Oldest House in Germany

The oldest dwelling in Germany, possibly the oldest in Tudor, is located in the little hamlet of Winkel, in the valley of the Rhine, and is 1,200 years old.

"Leftovers in Living" That We All Collect

Among what a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly calls "Leftovers in Living," is "the collection of articles, or parts of articles, which gave the word 'miscellaneous' its name."

"You will find this collection," he writes, "in a drawer somewhere in the house. It has been years in the collecting. No human being has ever found a use for more than half of 1 per cent of the things in it. He never will. They are things too valuable to throw away—and of no use whatever to retain."

"Bits of old wire, a flatiron handle with a piece gone from one corner; a part of an imposing gaslight fixture; a once gorgeous pipe case which held a quaintly designed carved pipe, now broken; one end of a curtain rod; two padlocks, the keys of which are missing; a bit of what is supposed to be part of the good ship Cristobal Colon which came to an untimely end in the Spanish-American war; a souvenir showing how much art a penman could put on a bit of birch bark and dating back to the World's fair at Chicago; a china mug on which in old English is the sentimental phrase, 'To a Friend'; an eraser got up to resemble a bullet."

"To go on enumerating the articles in this collection would be a cataloguer's job. It is a staggering lot. Why such things are saved, nobody knows."

Relics Dug Up Prove China Had a Stone Age

Discoveries made in China by J. G. Anderson, a Swedish scientist, establish, in his belief, that China had a Stone Age. At Fengtien the expedition headed by Professor Anderson excavated a cave about 8 by 15 feet. In it were found bones from about 40 human bodies and a large number of objects, none of which was of metal.

The objects included arrowheads, stone axes, bone awls, curious stone rings and a tiny piece of animal sculpture made of marble, fragments of remarkable vessels, some with pressed geometrical patterns and others with a polished red surface ornamented boldly in black. Professor Anderson dates the cave to the transition between the Stone Age and the Bronze Age, or about 2000-1500 B. C.

Large collections of remains also were found at Yang Shao, including specimens of red and black ceramic objects similar to those found at Fengtien. Heretofore leading experts on Chinese history have held that there was on evidence of a Stone Age in China.

Dog's Value in Alaska

In Alaska, where the trackless wilderness and the gigantic snow fields are the general order for the greater part of the year, the principal means of conveyance is the snow sled which is drawn by the malemute, or the husky, as the Alaskan dog is commonly called, says the Detroit News.

Strong and apparently oblivious to the raging of the elements, those brave and hardy dogs are the pride of the Alaskans, who without them would be in even worse straits than we would be without railroads or automobiles. No matter how cold, these dogs are always ready and willing to obey their masters, and even after hundreds of miles of snow-covered waste have been traveled they are ever ready to be up and going at the beck of their two-legged companion, who is usually their friend as well as master.

New Blasting Record

What is believed to have been the biggest blast ever set off in the history of industry was recently fired near Ogden, Utah, to provide material for constructing the fills that are the approaches to the Great Salt Lake trestle of the Southern Pacific railroad. Earth and rock to an estimated volume of 550,000 cubic yards was raised and shattered by the explosion, which used 301,200 pounds of special-process powder, equivalent to 600,000 pounds of black powder. A hill 275 feet high and covering a face of approximately 1,000 feet in length was lifted up and separated into fragments. The placing of the explosives in tunnels, aggregating 4,100 feet in length, occupied 25 men for 45 days.

Not to Be Caught Twice

The clergyman, absorbed in thinking out a sermon, rounded a turn in the path and bumped into a cow. He swept off his hat with a flourish, exclaiming: "I beg your pardon, madam." Then he observed his error and was annoyed. Soon, however, again engaged with thoughts of the sermon, he collided with a woman at another bend of the path.

"Get out of the way, you brute!" he said.

Heartless

"Ah," she sighed, "I shall never hear his footsteps again; the step I have listened for with eager ears as he came through the garden gate, the step that has so often thrilled my heart as I heard it on the front porch. Never, never again!"

"Has he left you?" asked the sympathetic friend.

"No, he has taken to wearing rubber soles!"—Good Hardware.

Leacock Tells How to Help Son Get Lessons

The greatest nuisance of all to the schoolmaster is the parent who does his boy's home exercises and works his boy's sums. I suppose they mean well by it. But it is a disastrous thing to do for any child. Whenever I found myself correcting exercises that had obviously been done for the boys in their homes I used to say to them: "Paul tell your father that he must use the ablative after pro." "Yes, sir," says the boy. "And Edward, you tell your grandmother that her use of the dative case simply won't do. She's getting along nicely and I'm satisfied with the way she's doing, but I cannot have her using the dative right and left on every occasion. Tell her it won't do." "Yes, sir," says little Edward.

I remember one case in particular of a parent who did not do the boy's exercise, but, after letting the boy do it himself, wrote across the face of it a withering comment addressed to me and reading: "From this exercise you can see that my boy, after six months of your teaching, is completely ignorant. How do you account for it?" I sent the exercise back to him with the added note: "I think it must be hereditary."—Stephen Leacock, in College Days.

Romantic Story of Old London Jacobite Bank

One of the most romantic stories in banking history is recalled by the announcement that the business of Messrs. Drummond of Charing Cross, the old-established private bankers, has many associations with the Jacobites. Indeed, its founder, Andrew Drummond, is believed to have been a Jacobite first and a banker afterward.

It is at least certain that he walked from Edinburgh to London, with a price on his head, bearing funds to be used to secure the restoration of the Stuarts. The Malacca cane with a gold crutch handle which he carried with him on this adventurous journey still hangs, a treasured possession, in the bank parlor.

The old banker probably thought of this journey and of the risks he had run in taking it, when Simon Fraser, Lord Lovat, the "old fox" of the highlands, passed the bank on his way to the tower after the "forty-five." Lovat, whose gray hairs did not save him from the scaffold, had been on the books of the firm.

As he passed the bank windows Robert and Henry Drummond looked out to see him, but Andrew sat still at his desk. "I suppose you would run out to watch me if I was to be beheaded," he remarked, dryly.

Survivor of Indian Massacre

Ross Tanner, who is now living at Amaranth, Man., has spent the last few years trying to locate any of his relatives. He is the sole survivor of the Indian massacre at Redwood, Minn., in 1862. As a baby he was picked up out of the bloody mud and brought to Canada by one of the Sioux women.

At the age of ten he found out that he was not an Indian and ran away from the Sioux. He hid in badger holes during the day and traveled at night until he came across a roving band of buffalo hunters. He joined them.

He thinks that he got the name Tanner from the fact that he was given the job of curing buffalo hides, says Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance in an article of the Indians of the Northwest in the Mentor.

Reasoning

An interesting illustration of the processes of reasoning by which scientific conclusions are sometimes attained is afforded by the case of the human skull discovered some years ago at Chapelle-aux-Saints, in France, which, in the opinion of some, is probably the oldest bodily relic of prehistoric man. This skull shows many of the characteristics of that of a monkey, but little indication of intelligence. Careful examination, however, revealed a slight excess of size of the left hemisphere, from which it was argued that the owner of the skull was right-handed, and consequently a user of tools, a conclusion which is thought to be supported by the fact that ancient stone implements were found in the neighborhood.

A Good Sport

A guide one day, while working on a log drive, fell into the water. At last dizzy and nearly exhausted from his struggle, he managed to grasp a big log and hold on to it. The current was so strong and swift that it swept his body under the log until his feet stuck out on the other side.

Just as a comrade, who had run to his assistance, grasped him by the shoulders, he caught sight of his own feet protruding on the other side of the log.

"I can hold on a bit longer, Jim!" he gasped. "Save the poor, fellow that's in head first, if you can."—Tatler.

An Exciting Sport

Lieut. David Rittenbach, holder of the world's seaplane record, said in Washington the other day: "Flying is very interesting sport—rough, dangerous, but very interesting. It's like the life of the young millionaire."

"Have you had an interesting life?" a lady asked this chap.

"You bet I have," said he. "I've gone through four marriages and three divorces and two fortunes and five sanitariums."

UNCLE SAM'S MARKET PLACE

Social leaders on the North and South Shore are planning to return to town early this year to take an active part in making a success of "Uncle Sam's Market Place"—Boston's first Street Fair, which is to be held in Copley Square the week of October 6th.

Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Pitman, who has for years been an active worker in movements for the benefit of charity and philanthropy, is president of the Association organized to promote the Fair. She is surrounded by a very capable organization. The Vice Presidents are: Mrs. Timothee Adamowski, Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr., Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mrs. Barrett Andrews, Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, Mrs. John Lowell and Mrs. Horace Morrison.

Mr. James J. Phelps will be the Treasurer. Mr. Chester L. Campbell, Advisory Manager, Mrs. Henry D. Cornner, Recording Secretary, Mrs. E. M. Beals and Mrs. Archibald Blanchard, Corresponding Secretaries.

Chairmen of Standing Committees are: "Booths and Publicity," Mrs. James Cunningham Gray; "Cabaret," Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr.; "Art Center," Mrs. Nellie L. Thompson; Counselor, Mr. Clement R. Landon.

All of the proceeds of the booths are to be devoted to the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Exchange and Occupational Handicrafts, Inc., which has a shop at 385 Boylston street, where former service men who are still disabled are allowed to display and sell the products of their handicraft. This shop has been made possible by a group of women headed by Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards and Mrs. Horace Morison.

There will be fifty booths of every description, including an Art Center to which more than one hundred of Boston's leading artists and sculptors have already promised contributions. A Community Market managed by the women of the North Shore will be held on the steps of the Public Library. They will sell fruits and vegetables raised in the gardens of North Shore estates.

A gay midway with a ferris wheel and scores of other carnival features will make the week of the Fair a real Gala Week for Boston.

THE BYFIELD CASE

Judge Weed of the Superior Court has denied the petition of Mrs. Celia Byfield of Newton to enjoin the city of Newton from razing her house at 15 Eldridge street, Newton, which with the land upon which it stands was taken by the city of Newton some time ago to enlarge a schoolhouse in that immediate vicinity.

The action was taken by Judge Weed after Grant M. Palmer had been appointed by Judge Macleod to hear and report on the facts involved. Mr. Palmer found that the city of Newton had complied with all requirements of law.

The house in which Mrs. Byfield has lived since her marriage many years ago was a gift to her from her late husband, and she claims that it has a special value because of its unusual interior finish. She has a petition pending in the Superior Court of Middlesex County for an assessment of damages, and says that it is important that the house should remain standing until after the jury has inspected it.

One ground relied upon by Mrs. Byfield is that the proposed action by the city of Newton is in violation of the Constitution of the United States, in that it would deprive her of property without due process of law.

Choate, Hill & Stewart are counsel for Mrs. Byfield, and the case may go

TOWLE ESTATE SOLD

Papers of agreement have been signed providing for the purchase of the estate of the late Loren D. Towle, at the corner of Centre and Cabot streets, Newton, by Henry J. O'Meara. The property includes nearly fifty acres of land, with a frontage of 1050 feet on Centre street and half a mile on Cabot street. It enjoins also Edmands Park.

The house contains twenty-five rooms and is of light Roman brick and limestone, with terraces leading into the garden and overlooking the country to the west. It contains also an entertainment suite with a ballroom, dressing room and special kitchen. The interior is elaborately finished, the conservatory being done in limestone with a marble mosaic floor and a carved wall basin for aquatic plants. The woods used in the interior decoration are American walnut, African and Honduran mahogany and French walnut.

The purchaser plans to develop a large part of the land as home sites, surrounding a lily pond on the grounds, with winding streets, to give a picturesque effect in keeping with the surroundings.

The purchase is subject to the decision of the Supreme Court for final determination.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

The second of the series of talks on "How to run the other fellow's business" was given at the Rotary Club meeting on Monday of this week at the Norumbega Park Restaurant. Vice-President "Tom" Sullivan was scheduled to give a stereopticon lecture on "The Mountains of New Hampshire." That much was anticipated from the genial vice-president was indicated by the large attendance. The stereopticon lecture, however, failed to materialize and it was announced instead that the subject assigned the speaker was "How to run a drug store."

The change in subject resulted in no noticeable disappointment, however, and Howard Tuttle, the retail pharmaceutical member of the club, was given more good advice in the course of fifteen minutes than usually befalls a man in a lifetime. Because of his several years of service in the Board of Aldermen during Pro-Volstead days, the speaker deemed himself especially well qualified to advise and suggest, especially in regard to the conduct of certain branches of the drug business, and outlined several innovations that would—in his opinion—greatly improve the service offered to patrons.

When called upon to testify in rebuttal, Druggist Tuttle "passed the buck" to the physicians, which immediately secured a rise from "Doc" Clark, the representative of his fraternity in the membership. The series of talks occasioned much fun and all three speakers qualified as humorists as well as presenting much interesting information that was new to the rank and file of the club.

Among the interesting announcements of the meeting was one to the effect that Dr. Cecil Clark was scheduled for a talk in the near future on "Quack medicines," in which he will deal with various remedies that are well known in name but deemed by physicians to be of questionable value. President William T. Halliday presided and among the guests was a brother Rotarian who brought the greetings of Rotary Club No. 1 of Chicago.

Miss Celia Considine, Miss Alice Shea, Miss Mary Buckley, Miss Margaret Buckley and Miss Veronica Murphy.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

The other day we waked up to find ourselves the subject of an extended article in our esteemed contemporary. Editor "Ed" Powers of the Progress, with his facile pen, had put us on trial. Versatile as he is, he was able to act as complainant, court officer, prosecuting attorney, judge and jury. He was the self-appointed foreman of the jury, too, for he announced the verdict. But to go back a step. He charged us with inconsistency, and to prove his case submitted a bill of particulars that almost overwhelmed us. He brought forth from the archives "pieces" we had written for the Graphic about the traffic conditions in Nonantum Square and then (we could almost hear his scornful laugh) asked us what we meant by them. He said we first found fault with conditions and then when they were remedied we found fault with the cure. Knowing that many other men have been guilty of inconsistency we stood ready to acknowledge our blunder, or rather admit we were going to the telephone and call "Ed" up and admit everything. But that was before we had finished reading what he had to say about us. We hoped that by pleading for mercy he would let us off, but in the last paragraph he administered a rebuke and then sentenced us to "offer constructive criticism." Now everybody knows that to criticize is easy, but to construct and criticize at the same time is a terrible task. We feel that the sentence imposed upon us most certainly included "hard labor." Instead of seeking to carry the case to a higher tribunal we are going to serve our time, or carry out the mandate of the court.

Now then our defence! We did charge that something should be done about the daily mix-up in Nonantum Square. It was early last October that we hurled defiance, whatever that may mean, and called upon the local authorities to straighten out the tangle. This was months ago, please remember. Now it is Summer and the "remedy" is in use only a few weeks. However, if we started something we submit that our writings of the past were not altogether futile of accomplishment. In all our suggestions we never dreamed that any such scheme would be devised as that which has already come to be called the "seeing Newton" rule for traffic. Whoever thought that a driver headed from Watertown to Brighton would be required to swing to the west and make a detour of the bank building, return to Washington street and proceed to Brighton after a glimpse of the billing on the Community Theatre and a good view of all places of business north of the Centre-street railroad bridge. We maintain, in face of the punishment already inflicted upon us by our fellow newspaper man and boyhood friend, that such a detour is little short of unnecessary. What's the matter with pulling the Middlesex & Boston cars out of the way for 15 or 20 feet? Instead of running to the very end of the line they halted a short distance west of that point the drivers from Watertown would be saved the trip around the square. The vehicular traffic from Watertown to Brighton would go right ahead. The trouble is that nobody wants to disturb the Middlesex & Boston cars and why they do we cannot understand. The objection might be raised that a car coming from Watertown might not have a clear view of a car headed north from Centre street; that the presence of a Middlesex & Boston car would obstruct the view of both drivers. Our answer to that is that the traffic officer would take care of that situation and we do have efficient traffic policemen. He, the traffic "cop" could see approaching cars from both directions and command them to stop or advance. At the same time trolley car patrons and other pedestrians would be guarded from danger. Until we see something better than this ring-around-rose game that automobile drivers are called upon to play in Nonantum Square we shall continue to say conditions are not yet perfect. And we do so with full knowledge that "Judge" Powers may find us in contempt of "court."

It seems to us an encouraging sign when people "talk politics." Some of our friends would discourage it, but that in our opinion is a mistake. To discuss a subject doesn't necessarily mean, we regret to say, that one is familiar with it. However, there is always the possibility that there may be some other or other appear an individual who understands the game and can supply valuable information. These are the days when men and women should be following the campaign and its incidents. On Tuesday, Sept. 9, will be held the State primaries and voters will be called upon to choose those they wish to see candidates of their party. The fact that the direct primary system may not appeal to a voter is no excuse. Such a system is in operation and growing about it will not change matters. So long as voters are required to go to the polls and select party candidates in this way it is up to them to do their duty. It is not our intention to advise our readers. We carefully avoid handing-out tips on political matters. Do not assume that we are stingy with what little store of knowledge we may possess regarding party candidates. We refrain from telling our friends how they should mark their ballots solely because we believe they should find out for themselves. There is altogether too much advice given during a primary campaign. The man who waits for somebody in whom he has faith to tell him what he shall do is laboring under a misapprehension. It will get him nothing. Such dependence is the foundation of the iniquitous "boss" system, although we venture to say that some good people in Newton will dispute our assertion. It is the healthiest sign possible, in our opinion, when two people get into an argument regarding the respective merits of candidates. In that way they are almost certain to obtain some pertinent facts which should be considered. We have said we do not give tips. Let us withdraw that, please.

NEWTON PALS WIN ANOTHER VICTORY

On Tuesday evening, Aug. 19th, the Newton Centre Cardinals forfeited a game to the Newton Pals by refusing to play on the Pals' home grounds.

The Newton Pals have made an enviable record for themselves this season, having won 24 games and losing only 5. They have beaten some of the strongest amateur teams in and around Boston. They are the junior amateur champions of Newton and are also claimants of the Junior amateur championship of the State. They are the most logical contender for this championship having beaten the former winners by a score of 5 to 0.

A SERIOUS MATTER

Editor, Newton Graphic:

I trust you will be able to use this letter, or contents thereof, because I believe it touches on a common base of complaint,—namely, trespass.

In this section the district is systematically covered by gangs. The leading gangs are the Wops of West street, the Adams street Guineas, and the Dago Midgets. Now, while these are supposed to be composed of Italians belonging to said districts, there are probably other nationalities. They are born here and educated here, but they come under a distinct influence of their own kind.

They have this part of the city well covered, and make the excuse to pass the swimming part of the Charles River near the Albemarle Links. On the way going they just simply make it disagreeable to everyone having a yard of any size. Part of this place has some apple trees in the front yard, and the other boys in their teens do not hesitate to hurl stones larger in size than three bricks so that it is too dangerous for the occupants to stay in that part of the yard.

It is physically impossible for a policeman to see what they do here, as he has to cover the rest of his beat. But this sort of thing should be wiped out once and for all. I was dealing with the Italian problem, so-called. I would find out the home conditions, and in place of a fine I would sentence the father or guardian of the delinquent child to spend a certain amount on the right kind of toys, for I notice the little and growing children of Italian families never have toys. Also, I would see if there was a non-English speaking grandmother in the family, for such a one is a prime disturbing element in these families. Girls I have met as clerks in New York City (where you meet them associating with their own as a majority) have told me these grandmothers had the complete say-so over the whole family. Girls from the North End of Boston have also told me the same. Now, as I see it, this means that these grandmothers dominate the households where they live, and dominate us if we do not offset this condition. The mothers go out to work and earn good pay, as you will find if you investigate. So much for the Italian part of the question.

Providing you have fruit of any kind, there is a class who will let you have all the responsibility of its care for fifty-one weeks in the year, and on the fifty-second week they will try and collect the harvest. The back of my yard runs into the northern part of Silver Lake, where there is a part known as the "island" and certainly every child or elder person within a half-mile should know enough not to trespass. On this island are some very nice blueberries. One morning I went down to pick some, and found some girls there. I requested them to hand over the berries they had picked. The first three did, but the fourth began to fight, and two hands grasped my permanent wave. I then said it would be a good idea for us to travel in the direction of Hose 8. I grasped her loose dress and started off. Nothing rough, but like a fancy character dance. After a short distance, at the request of a mother I released my hold, but reported the matter at the Station. I was told before I could make any arrest I would have to put up some signs. To comply with this requirement I painted some signs and nailed them up. I then informed the trespassers that I had placed these against my own wishes, but that they would find each one of the signs, and each one of them had the kick of an army mule. Bobbed and unbobbed bandits included.

These youngsters are suffering from a state of mind. They think the whole police force headed by the chief could not stop them. (Want to stop us? Try and do it!) As a matter of fact a few men in plain clothes could perform a painless operation with the right dope. They would change this attitude to one of it can be done,—in fact it has been done! Give the under-pup a yank in the right direction and there will be no underdog.

Be fair minded to every one concerned, in which the residents of the places invaded should be considered. Respectfully yours, E. C. STOCKS.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Martin of Waban will sympathize with them in the death by drowning of their son, Charles T. Martin, aged 21 years. Martin had been attending a camp at Big Moose, N. Y., for the summer. Sunday he was canoeing in company with J. C. Irwin of Newtonville. After paddling around the lake, according to Irwin's story, they headed for shore. As they neared it, Irwin looked back and saw Martin's canoe overturned.

The body was recovered from 15 feet of water. Martin was a strong swimmer, and it is thought he must have been stricken by heart disease, although details are lacking. Martin attended Boston University after having been graduated from Boston Latin School. He was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1924. While he was at Harvard he won the Union Club tennis championship and the Waban Neighborhood Club championship.

Martin also was an accomplished musician. He gave up tennis temporarily this summer and planned to enter the New England Conservatory of Music this fall, to make music his life work. For the past eight years young Martin had lived with his parents in Waban. His father is prominently identified with the United Shoe Machinery Company, and is well known in the shoe machinery business in the East and the Middle West. The dead youth, who was very well known and liked in Newton, is survived by his parents, and a brother, Donald.

Funeral services were held at the Martin home on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. James C. Sharp, former rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, officiating.

Washington Refused Crown

In 1782 an army officer wrote to George Washington suggesting that he become king, as the experiment of democracy seemed to be a failure. Washington immediately replied that he was extremely surprised by such a suggestion and advised the writer of the letter to banish such a thought from his mind if he had any regard for his country, himself and posterity, or respect for Washington.

ROTARY CLUB TOURNAMENT

The first round of the Members' Annual Handicap Golf Tournament of the Newton Rotary Club was played at the Woodland Golf Club on Monday afternoon. A large proportion of those in attendance at the weekly meeting of the club on Monday noon adjourned to the golf links after lunch and helped give the tournament an especially auspicious opening, enthusiasm developing to the extent that it is already unanimously agreed by the golf enthusiasts of the club that the tournament is to become an annual feature. Of those playing on Monday, eight qualified for subsequent play. After the first round, the balance of the tournament will be match play. Members of the club who were unable to be present on Monday will be given until September 1 to qualify on the first round. The scores of those qualifying in the first session were as follows:

EDITORIAL

We often wonder why the average good citizen does not seem to realize the importance of his or her duty in the selection of candidates for public office. Some of us always plan to vote at the presidential elections each fourth year, while a less number seems to take some interest in the elections held half way between the presidential elections. But the fact remains that even these passably good citizens fail to recognize the importance of the party primary, held two months before the regular elections. In this state, practically all of the important offices are actually selected at the primary of the Republican party, and the November elections become merely a ratification meeting, so to speak. This year we select a candidate for United States Senator, for governor, and other less important offices, most of whom will be named within the next three weeks, and we venture to assert without fear of successful contradiction that there are less than a hundred persons in this city who realize the importance of the coming primary election. Wake up citizens of Newton.

In the coming primary, there will be four candidates for the three nominations for Republican representatives, with Messrs. Early and Saltonstall candidates for renomination and Mr. C. S. Luitwieler and Mr. Arthur W. Hollis as new men. We have already stated that we shall support Mr. Luitwieler instead of Mr. Hollis, and desire at this time to earnestly urge the renomination of Messrs. Early and Saltonstall, leaving Mr. Luitwieler and Mr. Hollis to strive for the third place on the ticket. Representative Early is one of the strong men in the present House and will be recognized as one of the leaders if elected to the coming session. Mr. Saltonstall in his first term of service has also made a place for himself as one of the able members of the House and, if elected, will undoubtedly hold important committee places. Do not fail to vote for both of these gentlemen.

Gillette 73, Coolidge 63, Dallinger 53. These figures ought to tell the story of the coming nomination for United States Senator. Mr. Gillette, at 73, can only expect one term in that important office. Mr. Coolidge, at 63, could only expect but two terms, while Mr. Dallinger is young enough to serve long enough to become, under the seniority rule of the Senate, one of its leaders and an important factor in legislation.

We heard recently a stirring appeal by Assistant District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell of this city, on the need of

BOOKS SOLICITED

At the time of the Smyrna tragedy, two years ago next month, the American teachers at the girls' school, known as the American Collegiate Institute, and a good many of the Greek and Armenian students, were rescued by American ships in the harbor and were taken across the Aegean to Athens. The school building and all the equipment of many years' residence were burned or looted during those terrible days.

Last October the school was again opened in Athens by these same dauntless teachers, and with so many of the former Greek and Armenian pupils that each class of a Junior College was represented, among the 80 students who had been earnestly waiting for the school thus transplanted to open its doors.

Miss Annie E. Pinneo, one of the teachers and the special missionary of the Woman's Association of Eliot Church, is in this country for the summer and is collecting books to carry back with her to replace the library destroyed in Smyrna.

Books of reference, history, modern language texts, standard works of poetry and fiction, whatever would be desirable in the library of a girls' school in this country, would be most gladly received.

Any friends having such books which they are willing to contribute, may leave them with Mrs. H. W. Powers, 82 Church street, on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 25 and 26.

These girls are as pretty and as capable as are our own American girls, and perhaps more anxious for an education. Here is a chance to help them in a simple and practical way.

DEATH OF MR. HOLDEN

Mr. J. Charles Holden, a resident of Newton for more than fifty years, died Sunday, August 17th, at the Newton Hospital after an illness of several months.

Mr. Holden was born in Marblehead February 19th, 1839, and was the son of Nathaniel and Mary Ann Holden. He came to Newton in 1866 and took a position as station agent at Newton Upper Falls, and in 1868 was transferred to Newton Centre, where he remained for many years.

When the new railroad station was built at Waban, Mr. Holden was again transferred and remained at Waban until his retirement fourteen years ago.

Services conducted by Edward H. Keach, C. S., were held at the Newton Cemetery Chapel Tuesday at 3.30 o'clock, and burial was in the family lot at the Newton Cemetery.

Mr. Holden is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lily Holden, one daughter, Mrs. Harriet Woolway, and a grandson, Frank Woolway, all of Newton Centre.

DEATH OF MRS. WILSON

Mrs. Mary Grace Hastings Wilson, the widow of the late Edward B. Wilson, died this week at her home on Grove street, Boston.

Mrs. Wilson was in her seventy-first year. She was a daughter of Solomon Henry Howe and Lucinda Savage Howe, and spent the early part of her life in the Longwood section of Brookline. Her father had been a member of the State legislature and was prominent in the dry goods business, as well as assisting in starting the Eliot National Bank.

Mrs. Wilson was married twice. Her first husband, Leslie Hastings of Cambridge, died more than thirty-five years ago. Mr. Wilson was her second husband and whom she married in 1907. Mrs. Wilson is survived by a son, Leslie Hastings.

POLICE COURT

On the night of July 13, the Newton liquor squad under Sergeants Thomas Leehan and Andrew Moran started a cleanup of the city. It has enriched the local court by more than $1,000 in fines and has stocked the cellar of police headquarters with as many gallons of wine.

The first stop was at the home of Giuseppe Caffelli, alias Cappello, of 54 Oak avenue. Mrs. Forstenada Cappello was arrested, charged with an illegal sale of liquor and was fined $100 in the Newton District Court. Giuseppe was charged with keeping and exposing intoxicating liquor for sale, and was fined $250 and given a suspended sentence of six months in the House of Correction, two of the most severe sentences ever imposed in a similar case. The house at 51 Oak avenue was raided and about 300 gallons of wine in six barrels was carted from the cellar, out into the wagon and into the cellar at headquarters.

Alderman George M. Heathcote, counsel for the defendants, found that all of the wine seized was not the property of the Cappellos, and was held before Judge Bacon, who found that about 90 gallons of the wine in separate barrels was the property of two boarders at the home of Cappello, and the illegally seized liquor was ordered returned.

Saverio Carnivale of 44 Faxon street, Newton, who was arrested August 13, was tried Tuesday morning before Judge Bacon and given a fine and suspended jail sentence. Carnivale's home was raided by Sergeants Leehan and Moran and Patrolmen C. Feeley and T. Riley. A small quantity of liquor was seized. Carnivale was charged with an illegal sale of intoxicating liquor and was fined $100 for this offence; on a charge of keeping and exposing intoxicating liquor for sale he was given a suspended sentence of three months in the House of Correction. He paid the fine.

RETURN FROM NOVA SCOTIA

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. O'Malley of Newton Upper Falls, returned this week from a tour of Nova Scotia, where they met many Americans from New England.

"In every hotel," said Mr. O'Malley, "we found about 80 percent of the guests registered from New England. Good roads, crowded with American automobiles were evidences of Nova Scotia's efforts to attract tourists."

"While at Digby we saw 400 Danish immigrants who had arrived there and had been trying to come into the United States, but were turned back. They were a fine group of people and it seemed a pity that they were denied admission. Another group of 60 Chinamen were hanging around, and there was a rumor that they would be smuggled into Maine the first dark night."

"About 15 miles off Yarmouth Harbor we saw a run-running schooner, which has been anchored there for more than a month. She was the 'mother bootlegger' for the province and supplied the booze to the thirsty Nova Scotians, who are as dry as Bostonians. We saw many run-runners between here and Yarmouth."

DEATH OF MR. BUFFUM

Mr. William Mansfield Buffum, one of the oldest residents of Waban, died on Tuesday at his home 1545 Beacon street, in that village, after an illness of several months. Mr. Buffum was born in Philadelphia, 63 years ago, and has been a resident of Waban for the past 33 years. For many years he was in business as a shoe salesman.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Mr. Eliot M. Buffum of Springfield, Mass., and three daughters, Mrs. Betty Seaver of New York and the Misses Marjorie I. and Helen Buffum of Waban.

Funeral services are being held this afternoon at the family residence, Rev. James C. Sharp, a former rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd officiating, and the body will be cremated at Mt. Auburn.

Happy Bermuda Has No Real Traffic Troubles

There are no traffic police on duty in Bermuda, motor cars being prohibited by law. The police are a conspicuous feature of the landscape, however, with their natty blue uniforms and the distinctive blue and white striped duty band on the left sleeve at the wrist, reminding one of the metropolitan police in London.

Those who go to Bermuda to rest usually pass the time driving round to the various sights of the islands, such as Tom Moore's house, Gibbs hill light-house, Cathedral rocks, the Lemington cave and its stalagmites, or going out to the coral reefs in a tug to be later put off in small glass-bottomed boats from which they can study the sea life below them in water which is perfectly clear, although it may be 30 or 40 feet to the bottom, says a Bermuda letter to the Brooklyn Eagle.

Every Wednesday there is a reception and 5 o'clock tea at the governor's house, to which all visitors to the islands are welcome and the military band is on duty at some place or other every day. One of the favorite resorts is Elbow beach, on the south shore, where there is only one narrow strip of coral reef between the bathers and the broad Atlantic, and waves come rolling in sometimes 20 feet high.

On account of the long narrow shape of the island the distances are usually inconvenient. For example, it is six miles from the principal hotels to the most popular golf links, and what with transportation, greens fees, caddies, luncheons, liquid refreshments and tips, $10 a day will hardly cover the expenses at either of the more popular courses, Riddell's bay and Tucker's island. At St. George, on the other hand, which is two hours' ride by carriage from Hamilton, and where the links are not more than five minutes' walk from the hotel, the greens fees are only $1 a day for four persons.

Little Bell Used by the Japanese Newsboy

Here and there, sometimes inconspicuously mingled with the practices of Westernism, the characteristics of the old, the romantic, the picturesque Japan remain to attract and to enthrall the foreigner. Although the Japanese newspapers are printed in strange fantastic characters, writes a correspondent of the London Times, they help to spread a veneer of the West over the Far East, but when Japan sells its newspapers the thinness of the veneer becomes at once apparent.

Here we have no roaring boys rushing through traffic-crowded streets and bawling the latest tidings into the air.
A special edition of an evening paper is a gogal, and the blue-clad coolie who sells it on the streets may be eighteen years old or eighty, but his procedure is ever the same. He lopes along with his "specials" (the size of half a sheet of notepaper), and for the piercing yell of the London newsboy he substitutes the ringing of a tiny handbell. And, even though there are many bells rung through every hour in every Japanese city, none can be mistaken for that of the gogal man.

The first news of the death of President Harding and news of the death of Viscount Kato were spread through the capital of Japan by the tinkling of little bells.

Lucky Cat

After berating many things at the seaside resort Mr. Flubdub took up the subject of his own fat headedness in allowing himself to be dragged away from a comfortable home. Apparently this made him think of the family cat.

"Hey, what about the cat? What didja do with the cat?"

"The cat is provided for," stated

Mr. Flubdub calmly. "Our neighbor promised to feed it."

That gave him another helpful thought.

"Well, I hope the cat is getting better board than we are."

Goes to Church

A dollar and a penny met. The penny had a bright, clean face; the dollar was dirty but proud.

"You think you are gold, but you are only cheap brass," said the dollar.

The penny replied: "I am what I am and claim to be no more."

The dollar swelled up with pride and said: "I am patriotic, I am trustworthy, I have the emblem of liberty on my bosom, and the United States government has placed these words on me,
'In God We Trust.'"

After a little thought the penny answered: "I grant you all that, but I go to church oftener than you do."

Considering the Wife

The insurance agent advised a negro to take out an insurance policy.

"You never know what may happen. And there's your wife to consider."

"Lawdy!" said the negro, who was thoroughly married. "I ain't any too safe at home as it is, sah!"

Intrepidity

"There's a man outside who says he wants you to secure him a government position."

"A government position, when we're in the midst of all this agitation?"

"Yes, he says he's hunting work."

"He isn't hunting work. He's looking for trouble."

Indian Tribe Believed Men Changed to Brutes

The Santa Barbara Channel Indians, before the influences of white civilization came among them, believed just the opposite of the modern theory of evolution, according to J. P.
Harrington of the Museum of the American Indian, says the Santa Barbara (Cal.) correspondent of the New York Post.

These Indians, said Harrington, thought that all the animals once had been people and had attained their various forms by a slow process of evolution. There had been a time, according to the lore, when people were the only form of life. Gradually the "first people" came to resemble certain animals, into which they eventually turned.

The ancestor of the owl was said to have been an ordinary-looking Indian, but rather fat and hairy and with a habit of inserting the syllables "mu-hu" between his words. The bullsnake had been an excessively thin Indian, with shifty eyes, a fleet runner. The coyote, the most popular animal, was declared still to resemble an Indian man, though it was admitted, his hands had become paws, his nose projected rather far, his lips were black and he had grown a tail.

The medicine men used to say the coyote still had human speech, though he uttered little yelps between his words. This creature was credited with magic powers.

Clock Made Wholly of Glass Except Springs

A Bohemian glass polisher has performed a wonderful feat in the glass industry. He constructed a clock, which, with the exception of the springs, is made entirely of glass.

The glass plates and pillars of this extraordinary timepiece are bolted together with glass screws. The dial plate hands, shafts and cog wheels are all glass, and glass wedges and pins are used for fastening the various parts of the running gear.

All parts are ground to the average proportions of the metal parts of other clocks of the same size. The teeth of the cog wheels are cut with minute exactness, only the balance wheel being heavier and thicker than it is in an ordinary clock. The key with which the clock is wound is also of glass. Many of the parts had to be made over and over again before a clock that would go and keep time was produced.—The Pathfinder.

Prison Built by Convicts

The work of convicts and other prisoners is not allowed to compete with the work of honest men, but prisoners may surely be allowed to build their own place of incarceration.

That was what actually happened in the case of Wormwood Scrubs prison, says the London Tit-Bits. Before a stone or brick was laid, however, the plans had to be drawn, and this task was entrusted to a convict.

This done, the building was erected entirely by convict labor, and, as it contains 1,381 cells, built at an average cost of £70 7 shillings each, both the task and the cost were no small matters.

The total number of bricks used was 35,000,000, weighing 120,000 tons, and every brick was made by convicts.
The total cost of the building was £97,000.

Sharp Distinction

An army officer tells of a friendly argument that arose between two young chaplains of different denominations, in which the senior chaplain rather cleverly got the better of his opponent.

"Let us bury the hatchet, my brother," he said. "After all, we are both doing the Lord's work, are we not?"

"We certainly are," replied the junior chaplain, quite disarmed.

"Let us, then," said the senior, "do it to the best of our ability, you in your way, and I in His."—Harper's Magazine.

"Pop" Not Important

"Many people," says a Scottish registrar, "seem to think that popping the question is the important event in every courtship. As a matter of fact, in many courtships proposals are never formally made at all."

"I have put the question to many couples to satisfy my own curiosity, and have been informed that no such thing was done—that they had just drifted into an engagement."

"I believe that if some country girls had to wait until their sweethearts made a formal declaration of marriage they would never get married at all."

Edinburgh Scotsman.

Familiar Signal Missing

At a horse race in Dublin one of the animals proved refractory and, despite all efforts, his rider could not get him into the line. The patience of the starter became exhausted as he shouted for the tenth time: "Bring up that horse! Bring him up!"

"I can't, sir," yelled back the rider of the stubborn equine. "This here's been a cab horse; he won't budge till he hears the door shut, and I ain't got no door."—Boston Transcript.

In Bad Condition

A man who was new to golf turned to his caddie and said: "I say, why couldn't that fellow get his ball into the hole?"

"He was stymied, sir," was the reply.

"He was what?"

"He was stymied, sir."

"Oh, was he?" replied the other; "I thought he looked rather funny at lunch."

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT

Edward Bangs Drew of Cambridge, retired commissioner of the Imperial Maritime Customs of China, and a former resident of West Newton, died suddenly Saturday at Cotuit, Cape Cod, his summer home. He was born at Orleans, August 24, 1843, the son of Benjamin Bangs Drew, a Boston teacher and author. He was graduated from Boston Latin School, and after studies at Harvard, received the degree of A. B. summa cum laude from that institution in 1863, and the degree of A. M. in 1868. He had already begun the study of law, and was intending to practice in Boston, when he entered the Chinese customs service. The Chinese emperor conferred on him the button of the Second Rank and the decoration of the Double Dragon, second division. In 1896 Mr. Drew was secretary of the embassy of Li Hung Chang to the United States. During his occasional visits to this country he lectured on Chinese conditions. He was former president of the Royal Asiatic Society of Shanghai and fellow of the Eastern Asiatic Society of Boston.

Mr. Drew was married in 1874 to Abbie Anna Davis of West Newton.
Six children were born to them in China, but received their education in this country. The eldest son, Charles Drew, a graduate of the Institute of Technology, spent many years in the service of the Mexican Central Railroad. The eldest daughter, a graduate of Radcliffe, married Professor Babbitt of Harvard.

Mr. Drew was a member of the Harvard, Travellers, Colonial and Examiner Clubs, and his Cambridge residence was at 48 Garden street.

Westerners Are Ugly in Eyes of Japanese

It has happened more than once that a Japanese baby has howled and shrieked in terror at the sight of a beautiful, fair-haired, blue-eyed girl.
This may strike you as comic or tragic, but it is a fact. Japanese standards of feminine beauty are different from ours.

A Japanese beauty must have straight, black hair. Should she have the misfortune to possess hair with the slightest tendency to wave, she will take endless trouble to straighten it out—as much trouble, in fact, as an American girl would take to produce the opposite effect.

Her face should be narrow and long; her forehead high and narrow at the middle, but wider and lower at the sides, so that it corresponds as nearly as possible to the outline of Fuji, the mountain beloved by Japanese artists.

Her eyes, of course, must be long and narrow, slanting upward at the corners; the eyebrows mere shadows, and high above the eyes; her complexion ivory-white with little or no color.

The Japanese girl carries her head and shoulders slightly forward, and inclines her body forward from the waist. She walks with short, quick steps, her toes turned in and her feet hardly lifted from the ground. To walk otherwise would be immodest!—

Heart Is Injured by America's Swift Pace

More deaths occur today in America from various diseases of the heart than from any other cause, says the New York Times. A few years ago tuberculosis headed the list, but while the number of deaths from this cause have been reduced, those from heart trouble of various kinds have increased.

The decrease in the ravages of tuberculosis is explained by the great educational campaigns carried on throughout the country for combating the evil and to improved sanitary conditions.

The increase in heart troubles is attributed largely to the increasing pace of modern life in America. A decade ago the death rate from tuberculosis was 159.2 per 100,000. At that time the death rate from heart troubles was 140.9. A recent survey showed that while the rate for tuberculosis has been reduced to 114.2, that for heart disease has jumped to 141.9.

The highest fatality from heart disease has been found in Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts in the order named. The lowest death rate is reported in Montana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and Nebraska. It is increasing in New York.

Modernizing the Apache

A campaign is under way at the Fort Apache Indian reservation in Arizona to improve the living conditions of the Apache. Of all American Indians he is the most primitive.
Tenaciously he holds to the codes of his fathers. He has always dwelt in the traditional wigwam. This tribe owns plenty of timber to construct modern houses, and the government has placed a sawmill on the reservation. The work of construction will be done by the Indians themselves, under the supervision of qualified government employees. Hardware and general house-fittings will be purchased with funds belonging to the tribe.

Charles H. Burke, commissioner of Indian affairs, says the Indians seem to be interested in the proposed change and it is probable a number of modern houses will be erected the coming summer. The Apache, in the past, has been the most feared Indian on the North American continent.

Roman Laws on Wills

The Romans were the first ancient people to actually enact the statutory laws regulating bequests of property.
Under the earliest Roman laws wills were made and declared in public, were irrevocable and the testator therefore surrendered free and unrestricted sovereignty over property acquired by him prior to that date.

No person other than a patrician soldier in the eve of battle was permitted to dispose of his property by will. It was only at a later date that the privilege was extended to the common people.—Detroit News.

Aurora Borealis Theory

Protracted researches into the nature of the Aurora Borealis, known as the "Northern Lights," lead Professor Vegard of Christiania university to believe that its essential character is nitrogen, and say that the green line which is the chief feature of it consists of small particles of frozen nitrogen in the highest part of the atmosphere. This line appears when frozen nitrogen is exposed to electric rays.

Travels of a Needle

An irritation in the kneecap of a twelve-year-old girl of Durango, Colo., led to the removal of a steel needle which the child had swallowed when eight months old and which, for more than eleven years, has been wandering through her system.

Splitting the Fee

"I suppose you are getting a good fee, doctor, for attending the Smith boy? His father's rich."
"Well, yes. Why?"
"Well, I hope you won't forget that my little Ted threw the brick that hit him."

Alaska Porcupine Owl Has a Foghorn Voice

Lore concerning the porcupine owl, which, as the tale runs, finds its way in fog by sound and, as it travels the frozen water courses of the far North, makes unsensational noises like those of a steamboat, has been brought to the states by J. P. Chisholm, a trapper from the upper Koyukuk valley, Alaska, and printed in the Philadelphia North American.

"Unlike the owls of temperate climates," said Mr. Chisholm, "the porcupine owl can see only in daytime.
He would be just as bad off if he could see only in the dark, because where he lives the day and the night are each six months long.

"To overcome his blindness the porcupine owl has received from nature a vibrant and resonant voice. At a distance it sounds like the whistle of a boat, and many a newcomer in Alaska has rushed to the river looking for a steamer when the boats were frozen fast for the winter.

"The porcupine owl uses his voice
as a mariner uses a siren in a fog.
He hoots and then listens intently.
If there is an obstruction, he gets the echo. A man or a beast carries an echo to the ear of the porcupine owl.

"This owl gets his name from a set of quills that weights him down so that he cannot fly. With these quills he can fight a man or a fierce animal in the dark. In such combats he often repels his foe."

Remedy Finally Found for Sleeping Sickness

Sleeping sickness of Africa is not the same as that known in this country. It is caused usually by the bite of the tsetse fly, which spreads the trypanosomes, as the irritant germs that cause the disease are called. The problem was to find some drug which would kill these trypanosomes in the blood in all parts of the body, and which would, at the same time, not harm the body, an exceedingly difficult and delicate matter. Dr. Wartel Jacobs and Dr. Michael Heidelberger of the Rockefeller Institute undertook this task. They took arsenic compounds and experimented with them, finding time and again to gain the desired effect, but noting the results carefully and altering the compound 63 times, they finally succeeded. That is why the drug trypanamide, used with such success against the sleeping sickness and paresis, is known as A83, the sixty-third arsenic compound. The first experiments were conducted on animals, and when trypanamide had proved its value, Dr. Louise Pearce went to Africa and experimented with it on the natives.

Clock Also Saves Bank

An American savings bank is making a present of a clock to every depositor who opens an account with it.
It is a timepiece of a peculiar kind and is really a combination of a clock and a safe. It is alleged to keep excellent time for 24 hours, according to the Manchester Guardian.

Rewinding is then necessary, but before it can be rewound a nickel, dime or quarter must be inserted in it. The owner is thus compelled to add something to his savings every day, so that, in fact, saving becomes a daily habit.

The clock is advertised as "the watchdog of its owner's future," enabling persons to save who never before found it possible and enabling them to save "in an easy, sure and enjoyable manner."

No Longer a Man

A very pompous farmer was made a justice of the peace, and was so impressed with the tremendous dignity of his position that the village where he lived was much too small to contain him.

As he was swaggering along the road with his very important nose in the air, he walked into a barrow belonging to an old woman.

"Be careful where you're going, man!" she cried.
"Woman," replied the indignant farmer, "I am no longer a man; I am a magistrate!"

Boston No Joke Now

On being offered a Boston joke the editor of a humorous weekly proceeded to take the alleged humorist to task in no uncertain manner.

"I don't see any point to these whams about the highbrow proclivities of Boston," declared the editor.
"They're out of date, to say the least.
Boston has won her share of pennants and was once the home of John L.
Sullivan."

Real Titan Discovered

An authentic Titan, owned for many years by an artist who never suspected its worth, has been sold to a Los Angeles art collector for $100, 000. The artist who sold it bought it at an auction in Florence, Italy, while he was studying art there in his youth.
He paid the equivalent of $150 in American money for the masterpiece.

Ants Destroy Light Poles

Utilizers of electric-light poles in California find it necessary, in many instances, to impregnate the entire pole with creosote to prevent serious damage by termites to the tops and cross arms.

Woman Conducts Orchestra

Probably the only woman conductor of a symphony orchestra in America is Madame Davenport Engberg, who directs the Civic Symphony orchestra of Seattle, of which she also was the founder.

TWO MEN INJURED

Thomas "Harp" Morrissey of 437
Cherry street, West Newton, Newton High School boy, who has been working for the summer as a section hand on the Boston and Albany and was struck by a freight train Saturday morning, is improving at the Newton Hospital. He has a badly fractured leg and multiple bruises and lacerations. When taken to the hospital in the police ambulance he was placed on the danger list, but since that time he has showed constant improvement. With an older employee, Frank Salucci of Clinton street, Newton, working on a track beyond the Riverside station and bridge, the pair did not hear a freight train back up on them slowly, and both were knocked down beneath a car. Three cars passed over them before the freight stopped and they were removed. Salucci sustained a slight fracture of the leg and he was bruised but was not placed on the danger list. Morrissey is known through his connection with High School theatricals and Newton Catholic Club dramatics. He was preparing to take a post-graduate course at Newton High this fall but while his injuries are not expected to be fatal, he will be laid up for some months to come.

DEATH OF JOSIAH E. BACON

Josiah E. Bacon, prominent in the iron and steel trade in Boston, and one of the best known residents of Newton, where he was born and spent all of his life, died Sunday after a brief illness at his summer home at York Cliffs, Me., in his eightieth year.
Mr. Bacon was senior member of Bacon & Co., which he founded and which has offices at 107 Oliver street, Boston.

Mr. Bacon was born on June 27, 1845. He received his early education in the public schools of Newton and as a young man entered the iron and steel business, being employed first as a clerk in the firm of Henry M. J.
Johnson & Co., importers of iron and steel. In the late sixties he formed a partnership with John G. Brown under the firm name of Bacon & Brown.
The partnership was dissolved after several years, and Mr. Bacon conducted the business alone, until his two sons were admitted to partnership. At one time Mr. Bacon was one of the largest importers of Swedish iron and steel in the United States, and at this period he made frequent trips to Sweden in connection with his business. He had never formally retired but in recent years he had not devoted as much of his time as formerly to his business.

Mr. Bacon was prominent as a Unitarian and had played a leading part in the building of the West Newton Unitarian Church. He was a member of the Exchange Club, the Brae Burn Country Club and the York Country Club. His home was at 119 Prospect street, West Newton. He is survived by his wife, Isabella Bacon, two sons, five grandchildren and one great grandchild. The sons are William H.
Bacon of West Newton and Josiah N.
Bacon of Brookline.

A GREAT SUCCESS

The Annual Festival of the Newton Playground Department attracts thousands of spectators.

The annual Playground Festival of the Playground department scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed until Wednesday afternoon on account of the storm.

The events took place on the Newton Centre playground and between four and five thousand people were attracted by the excellent program which showed all the activities of the department for the past summer.

The exercises began with a salute to the flag and the singing of "America."

The athletic events were contested by teams selected from the different playgrounds and considerable rivalry entered into the sports.

A feature of the afternoon was the folk dancing by both little girls and their older sisters.

A NEWTON RESIDENT

The "wild man" found in a naked and exhausted condition in the woods at Middlefield Saturday was identified yesterday as Joseph Pillion of 15 Carter street, Newtonville.

Identification was made at the State Hospital here by his brother, George, who had seen reports of the case in the papers. Pillion was brought into District Court Monday and he there gave the name of Charles Burt, and said today that his father was a Boston contractor.

George Pillion said that Joseph disappeared from his home in Brighton in June. He had not been in good health and a short time before his disappearance had been under treatment at a hospital. He will remain at the hospital here. Although he is somewhat improved, he is not yet able to give an account of his wanderings.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Aug. 27.—Reports come trickling into party headquarters here that indicate widespread uncertainty as to the numerical strength of the various parties in Congress. Despite the untiring eloquence of the professional campaigners, the real leaders are pondering over the problem of Congressional control. The retirement of Representative Young, of North Dakota, to accept a judicial appointment and the death of Senator Colt, of Rhode Island, narrows the Administration's margin in the legislative assembly and brings out a real fight for these two seats. The two major parties are equally concerned as both are desirous of maintaining a hold on the legislative branch of the government. It is difficult for an administration to fulfill campaign promises with a hostile Congress.

It has been said that it is easier for men to speak the truth and that they are more inclined to do so than utter falsehood. This popular maxim is often reversed in politics. Stories are current in Washington that the voters are becoming more critical and exacting in their demands for definite statements on politics. This change on the part of the public is often a source of embarrassment to "stump" speakers, who heretofore have capitalized heavily in the formation of hasty conclusions from insufficient data. The extension of education facilities is gradually reducing the number of individuals who possess credulous dispositions. No longer does the public change its opinions merely from "hearing voices." With these manifestations of having the voters think on problems which vitally affect their civic life, there has been an appreciable decline in the predictions of campaign officials. The bosses and the "delivered" vote are elements which are admittedly on their way out of American politics. There are certain localities, however, where the voters permit petty politicians to do their thinking in exchange for liberal patronage. It would require a remarkably sanguine temperament to contemplate the complete abolition of these factors.

The usual stormy colloquy between rivals for public office is about due as the candidates begin their tours of the country. In fact, observers here say that it is high time that the activity should be intensified to keep potential voters aroused until November. The attitude taken by General Dawes is taken to mean that the Republicans will be more aggressive than defensive in their warfare. The national leaders located here for the summer months are speculating as to the outcome of the Dawes tactics in carrying war into the LaFollette camp which, the candidate charged, was made up of a nondescript following. It is certain that the General did not endear himself to the present Congress with his complaint that the assembly had too many demagogues. Gov. Bryan, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, has taken a different attitude and made a play for the farmer vote. He has revived the tariff issue which, it seems, was considered a relatively unimportant issue, during the preliminary campaigns. With Mr. LaFollette and his running-mate, Senator

Wheeler, appealing to the farmer against the bids of both parties, it will be noted that the agriculturist is a mighty strong factor in deciding the election.

While everybody is trying to bolster up the economic condition of the ruralists, some are equally disturbed over the vote in the industrial centers. The report of the various Federal agencies issued last week shows that "hard times" continues in all localities. Employment fell by four per cent during July and wages took a drop of nearly eight per cent. Experts attribute these declines to seasonal changes such as inventories and vacations. But, the old-time campaign slogan of the "full dinner-pail" is something to consider. Economists have explanations for the unemployment in "presidential years" but the wage-earner, out of a job, is not easily convinced. The party managers have these items to handle in turning out the vote.

The settlement of the reparations issue has given rise to interesting discussions here as to the possible effects on the international issue upon the electorate. It has been argued in some quarters that the readjustment of European finances will be too slow to exercise any material influence on the coming election. It is said that the refunding of debts will eventually lower taxes in this country. The claim is also advanced that balanced budgets are necessary before Europe can square her indebtedness to the United States and these steps cannot be accomplished overnight. The reparations subject will undoubtedly provoke a controversy but domestic matters will naturally predominate in the end. It is reported that discussion is now turning to the possibilities of the present Congress acting as arbiter of the elections, assuming that the LaFollette candidacy will complicate matters in the electoral college and prevent a decision. Perhaps, it is said, the arguments will stir the public to a stage wherein they will endeavor to make their vote count. The "get-out-the-vote" movement is gaining support among all parties.

WOMAN SPEEDER APOLOGIZES

Mrs. Helen Eldridge of 1662 Commonwealth avenue, West Newton, was fined $15 Saturday in the Brighton Court on a charge of speeding near the reservoir, and appealed. Motorcycle Officer Barron testified that Mrs. Eldridge was driving at from thirty-five to thirty-eight miles an hour. Mrs. Eldridge claimed she was not going excessively fast and apologized for having said to Motorcycle Officer Donahue, who was near Barron, that he should "get a man-sized job and not hide behind buildings." Judge Dean said that there was nothing he knew of that called more for a man's work than that of a police officer. Barron told the court that he considered Mrs. Eldridge's driving a menace to others on the road, and mentioned other times she had been in court for similar driving, the present instance having been on Aug. 15. After her case was finished Mrs. Eldridge stepped up to the bench and requested the judge not to recommend that her license be suspended but this he declined to do.

THE SOONER STATE

The National Editorial Association Enjoys the Unbounded Hospitality of the State of Oklahoma

The real serious work of the Association—for pleasure is not all our object in making these annual pilgrimages—was done in Oklahoma City, and which was our next stop after the delightful day at Bristow.

Here, again, we were greeted with a band on our arrival at the railroad station and taken to the Huchins Hotel, our headquarters for a three days' stay in this, the capital of the state.

Our program was contained in a pamphlet bearing a huge, extended hand on the front cover with the words "Howdy, Editors: Welcome to Oklahoma City." Inside the first page had the following greeting: "Editors of America: No artist yet has painted a picture of Oklahoma City's Heart of Hospitality. So we are compelled to offer you, in picture, only, our hand of Welcome. We can show you, however, during your visit, the spirit of each Oklahoma City heart toward you—representatives of a great profession than which there is no greater; and to make this spirit so plain that the memory of it shall never be effaced is our hope for the days and nights of your stay among us. Your welcome is as broad as our verdant fields, as pure as the untainted atmosphere that God vouchsafed us, and as warm as our sunny skies. That your joy while here may be unalloyed is our wish. Oklahoma City."

This welcome was certainly borne out during our three days' visit to the metropolis of the state, for Oklahoma City is not only the capital but it is the largest city of the state, our ranking Tulsa by a few disputed thousands.

The various organizations vied with each other in entertaining us. At our first breakfast we were guests of the Rotary and Cosmopolitan clubs, the next morning, the Kiwanis, Civitan and Exchange clubs were the hosts, while on the third morning, the Lions, C. O. P. and Optimist clubs were in charge. The display of flowers was most lavish at each breakfast, and if we were to choose a nick name for the state, it would certainly be called the "land of roses."

With the business sessions, my readers will have but little interest, as most of the papers and the discussions centered around newspaper problems. Our president, Mr. Wallace Odell, of Tarrytown, N. Y., in his annual address made a strong plea for law enforcement which met with the hearty approval of all present, and which was largely quoted throughout the country.

Our luncheon the first day was served in the Masonic temple, and we were the guests of the leading newspaper of the city, the Daily Oklahoman, assisted by the Oklahoma City Times and the Oklahoma Farmer Stockman.

The temple was built about a year ago at a cost of one and a half million dollars. It is principally of white marble four stories high and of massive, and imposing architecture. We were shown all over the building and marveled in its appointments and beauty. It has two immense auditoriums, several large rooms, numerous club rooms and an immense banquet hall. All the floors throughout are covered with the richest of carpets, giving an air of luxury and artistic taste.

At the close of the afternoon session, we took the interurban line for a trip to Guthrie, the first capital of the state, and which to this day believes that Oklahoma City stole that honor away from it.

The residents of Guthrie certainly showed us wonderful hospitality. Leaving the station in a motorcade of a hundred cars we were shown about a charming residential city, and at a large conservatory, each lady was presented with a half dozen carnations.

The most important feature of Guthrie is the Scottish Rite temple, not yet finished and on which three million dollars has already been expended.

The building occupies a commanding position at the head of Oklahoma avenue, one wing of it being the original Capitol building. It covers a ground space of one and a half city blocks and is built of Indiana limestone, the architecture being of the Greek Doric order. The main lobby or corridor is 52 feet wide and 190 feet long which was utilized in the evening for a dance for our party. The main auditorium seats 3500 people and is fully as large as the auditorium of the Boston theatre and much more ornate. The stage is 62x90 feet larger than almost any theatre in the country and none is fitted with more beautiful scenery. During the evening entertainment we were shown several of these settings used in the work of the order, one of these showing Christ ascending into Heaven surrounded by a group of angels while the apostles stood about a stone struck wonder, one of the most beautiful and impressive scenes that we have ever seen. On another floor is another auditorium which will accommodate 400 or 500 and is used for class work. There are numerous other lodge rooms on different floors for the use of the Eastern Star and other branches of the order, parlors and rest rooms, billiard rooms, library and other rooms in bewildering variety.

The Blue lodge room is particularly effective in its black marble floor imported from Belgium and the white marble finish from King Solomon's quarries in Palestine. There are of course many Masonic emblems used in the decorations and the windows are of art glass in beautiful designs many of them memorials to prominent members of the order. Entrance to the building is through massive doors of bronze. One of the exterior architectural features are the immense stone pillars on the front 37 feet high and weighing 70 tons each. It is estimated that 10,000 people can be comfortably accommodated in this building at one time. The dining room accommodates 1500 at one sitting. The Scottish Rite bodies of Guthrie have a membership of over 13,000 and the entire cost of this magnificent building has been subscribed by the members of the order.

At 6 o'clock that evening a splendid banquet was served the party in the main dining hall and during the serving the High School orchestra of about 30 pieces rendered a concert program from the balcony and played with the skill of a symphony. After dinner an adjournment was made to the main auditorium where a fine entertainment was given and an illustration given of the wonderful lighting effects of the auditorium which were beautiful beyond description. The revelation that this building brought to us was so impressive that it will long remain fresh in memory. After the entertainment the party were invited to dance but the majority were quite ready to return to Oklahoma City and call it a day.

NEWTON PALS DEFEAT PAWNEE INDIANS

On Sunday afternoon, August 24, at Cabot Park, the Newton Pals defeated the strong Pawnee Indians of Everett by a score of 3 to 2. In the Pawnee's line-up were five former Everett High stars. John Mahoney pitched a fine game for the winners allowing the losers only 4 hits and striking out 8 men.

The Pawnees scored their only two runs in the eighth inning, when with two men on base the better hit a scratch single over second base that scored their only two runs. Lyman and Finn both played well at short and third respectively, each of them turning in some pretty stops. Cuspo played well at second. Campbell made a running catch in the sixth inning that was a beauty.

The feature of the game was the hitting of Eddy Murphy who got 3 hits out of 4 trips to the plate, one of them a ringing double that drove in two runs. Taylor and Washington played a fine game for the losers.

It was a fast game complete with thrills, from beginning to finish and was watched by a large crowd. Jack Barwise umpired.

BASEBALL NOTES

The annual baseball game between John Neagle's Old-Timers of West Newton and Jack McIsaac's Oil Kans of Auburndale is a thing of the past. The Old-Timers will not accept the challenge of Jack McIsaac, hurled annually for the past eight years. Mr. Neagle will put an all-star team on the field next Sunday and will play the winner of the game this week between the Galloping Dominoes and the Newton Baseball Club, formerly Newton Legion. John Dowling, who won for the 101st Infantry at Camp Devens, the championship of the National Guard this year, will be Mr. Neagle's twirler, and Bernard McCarthy, Dowling's battery mate, will be behind the bat for Neagle's All Stars. The Galloping Dominoes are the favorites in the game this week, and "Nobs" Connors, who has pitched two no-hit, no-run games this year, will probably oppose Dowling.

GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB

The Good Government Club of Auburndale held a public meeting on Friday evening, September 5. Candidates for Governor and United States Senator have been invited to address the meeting and also local candidates for the State Legislature.

EDITORIAL

The indifference of the average voter to his or her duty as a citizen is appalling to those who have studied and worked on the problem. When such an important office as the attorney general of the Commonwealth is dictated by but 9 per cent of the voters, while representative and state senators are selected by an average of 15 per cent of the voters, is it not time to cry out for an awakening of the people to the danger of government by organized minorities? In a recent speech, Lieutenant Governor Fuller made the point which we emphasize, that a man does his duty by his home and his church, but fails to realize that he also owes a duty to his country as a citizen. Last year Newton cast about 6500 votes at the primary out of a registration of over 18,000. Let us all do what we can to poll a much larger percentage at the coming primary on September 9th.

The Playground department and the Red Cross deserve the gratitude of the people of the city for arranging for several community programs in various parts of the city. These outdoor events are of great service in creating a neighborhood spirit and of which Newton needs all it can get.

The jurors drawn last Monday night have a fine opportunity to represent the sentiment of Newton in the enforcement of law. Let us trust they will do their full duty in this respect.

The weekly report of Registrar Goodwin and the news in the daily papers regarding the action of district judges in cases of conviction for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, continue to be most discouraging. We cannot believe the people of Massachusetts approve of this situation and have confidence that stricter and more drastic action will be taken in the near future.

We are authorized to state that there is no truth in the rumors of the last week that the Newton schools will not open at the usual time. While more than $100,000 has been expended on school repairs this summer under the direction of Building Commissioner Chadwick, the schools will be ready for occupancy on Monday, September 9th.

Mr. Goodwin is to be commended once again for his attitude towards automobilists who paste figures on their wind shields and windows. It is a silly fad and ought to be squelched at once.

If you are a registered voter prepare to do your duty on September 9th.

THE BYFIELD CASE

This celebrated legal battle seems to be nearing a settlement of some kind. Last week, a hearing was held before Judge McLeod of the Superior Court, who refused to enjoin the city from taking possession of the property which is now delaying the completion of the Underwood School on Eldridge street, Newton. Last week we were in error in attributing this decision to Judge Weed.

An appeal was taken from this decision by Judge McLeod and another hearing held on Monday before Judge Qua of the Superior Court, who also refused the injunction sought by the attorney for Mrs. Byfield.

The city solicitor thereupon instructed a deputy sheriff to take possession of the property which was done on Wednesday, and he is now engaged in packing up the furniture preliminary to tearing down the house.

An appeal is still pending on this matter but such appeal does not delay taking possession by the city authorities.

THE STORM

Newton suffered but lightly from the storm of last Tuesday.

In West Newton Cheesecake brook, usually a tranquil stream a few inches in depth, became a torrent, overflowing its banks, flooding cellars and carrying away foot bridges serving play-ers on the Albemarle golf links. The Charles river in the Newton Upper Falls district was swollen to such an extent that the water rose nearly level with Kendrick bridge.

A trolley car of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway in Waltham, fell, tying up cars all over the system for more than an hour. The accident happened just as theatres in both Newton and Waltham were letting out and many people were forced to stand for nearly an hour waiting for cars. The dust, dirt, and leaves of the summer had evidently filled the catch basins throughout the city from the appearance of the streets. Water filled many of the squares and crossings to a depth of more than a foot, and the Albany tracks resembled the Charles river with the morning trains, plowing through like speed boats.

LADIES' HAIR

The following views on bobbing and shingling by Mr. D'Angelo, formerly of Wm. Filene's Sons Co., and now with D'Angelo & Murray, Tremont street, Boston, will probably be of interest to our readers.

Mr. D'Angelo believes that shingling becomes practically every woman, if it is done in the proper manner. He contends the shape of the head is the most important factor to be considered, and to be most becoming bobbing or shingling has to have individuality. It is, therefore, necessary to study the client's features before cutting and D'Angelo & Murray attribute their popularity to the consideration they give each individual.

DEATH OF MRS. BAILEY

Mrs. Frances E. D. Bailey, widow of John L. Bailey and for many years a resident of Newton, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Goldwin S. Sprague, 25 Church street, Newton, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Bailey was an active member of Eliot Church and Woman's Association and a member of the Newton Community Club.

Funeral services conducted by Rev. George S. Butters were held this afternoon at her late home and burial was in the family lot at the Newton Cemetery.

Brophy, are as follows: House, James McCarthy, chairman; Joseph Ryan, secretary; James Cunningham, Charles Barry, Patrick de Bourque, John J. Riley, chairman; Joseph Cunningham, secretary; Peter Hargodon, William Kiley, Jack Tusch-er; bowling, William Robblee, chairman; James Lyons, Joseph Ryan, Charles Bannan, Edmund McCourt; billiards, Hugh Devine, chairman; John Hart, Augustus T. Sweeney; entertainment, Joseph Ryan, chairman; Vincent Hargodon, John Keefe, Charles Laffie, Richard Lane; auxiliary, Frederick Cahill, John J. Higgins, Frank Kane, Charles J. Landers, Richard Leahy, Joseph Lyons, Thomas J. Lyons, James Mitchell, Daniel Reardon, Edward Sheridan and John J. Barry.

PASSES BAR EXAM

Numbered among those who passed the recent Massachusetts bar examination was a Newton man, John W. Blakeney, Jr., who resides at 5 Washburn street. Mr. Blakeney was graduated from Boston University Law School with the degree LL. B., last June. He was exceedingly popular with his classmates, and was one of the editors of the year book "The Brief," contributing a great part of the material of which the book was composed.

His versatility finds expression in short story writing and humor, at which he is very adept, and he has likewise attracted considerable attention by his work in amateur theatricals.

While at Law School Mr. Blakeney was acclaimed "the ideal American husband." He is a veteran of the World War, having served with the First Army Artillery, and was disabled from his service in France.

MOTHERS' REST NOTES

Several dozen glass canning jars belonging to the Rest are waiting to be filled. Anyone willing to fill one or two, please communicate with Mrs. J. B. Jamieson, Jr., 93 Homer street, Newton Centre, Mass. Telephone Centre Newton 0674-W.

The present party of twenty mothers and twenty-one children arrived on Monday, August 25th, being conducted to the Rest by Mrs. Robert Burgess of Newton Centre.

The Sunday service on August 17th was conducted by Mrs. Abraham Pol-hemus and the music was furnished by Mr. George, Miss Cornelia Holmes and Walter Holmes.

On August 20th Mrs. Philip Stone-metz of Dover was the hostess at an enjoyable entertainment planned for the guests at the Rest. Music was furnished by a young ladies' orchestra of Waverley, by Miss Dowd, Dr. Dowd and Mr. Wallace of Newton Centre.

OPPOSE TRUCK HIGHWAY IDEA

The people living along Boylston street, from Brookline Village through the Newtons to Wellesley Hills, are up in arms over the attempt of the State authorities to make that thoroughfare a boulevard for heavy trucks coming to Boston from New York and intermediate points.

A hearing is being held today at the East Cambridge Courthouse. Residents of that section of Newton are particularly aggrieved. A high hill from the Charles River Bridge to Bacon place is the most difficult to negotiate. Even now the residents are kept awake nights by the roar of the heavy trucks climbing that hill. With the advent of more traffic the people surmise that there would be little inducement to live in that section.

CAN'T PLEASE EVERY ONE

The editor who can please every one is not suited for this earth, but is entitled to wings. Human nature is so constituted that some of our readers would like to have us feed them on scum; some would like to have us tell the unvarnished truth about them, while others would kill us if we did. It is a comforting thought to the editor to know that the Lord Himself did not please every one while on earth. We labor hard to entertain and please our subscribers, but that we should occasionally fail is to be expected, but you will always find us ready to be forgiven.—Harlem (Mont.) News; H. C. Anderson, Editor.

ROTARY CLUB

Mr. Clarence G. McDavitt, assistant vice-president of the Telephone Company was the guest and speaker Monday noon at the regular meeting of the Newton Rotary Club at Norumbega Park.

Mr. McDavitt gave an especially interesting talk on the relations of the telephone company with the general public and of the rapid development of the telephone business, locally and in a broader way. He quoted many interesting statistics and gave the Rotarians present an insight into phases of this vast business in a way that held their closest attention and presented much information and suggestions applicable to other lines of business, or valuable to executives or business men in a general way.

The growth of the New England telephone system, with its ever increasing demands for more service, was discussed interestingly by the speaker, these demands more than keeping pace with the capacity of the company. The speaker explained how this growth was largely financed through new capital rather than by earnings, the latter being applied largely to the improvement of present equipment.

On account of the holiday, the next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday instead of Monday noon.

ELKS' OUTING

The annual outing of Newton Lodge 1327 B. P. O. E. was held at the Wayside Golf Club in Saxtonville, Saturday afternoon, August 23, there being about 300 present.

The original plan was to eat in the open near the club house, but due to the rain in the forenoon it was found necessary to set up the tables in a large barn on an estate adjoining the golf course. An excellent dinner consisting of steamed clams, lobsters, chicken and all the fixings was enjoyed by all.

Shortly after dinner the boys indulged in a ball game, the married men playing the single men. The single men won 8-7.

During the progress of the ball game, those who cared to entered the athletic events. The three legged race was won by Carl Burns and Paul Murray. The 50 yard dash was won by Thomas Rodden. Walter King coming in a close second. The shot put was won by Thomas L. Dolan. Quite a number of the boys, headed by John T. Burns, played golf in the afternoon, while others enjoyed swimming and fishing in the lake adjoining the course.

During the afternoon ginger ale and lemonade was served to those who did not participate in the athletic events.

DEFENCE DAY

Plans are being formulated for the observance of Defence Day on September 12th in this city. The committee in charge is composed of Mayor Edwin O. Childs, Honorary Chairman; Lieutenant Colonel Sinclair Weeks, Chairman; Major C. Raymond Cabot, and Captain Thomas F. Hickey. Mr. Weeks was appointed by Adjutant General Stevens of Massachusetts to organize the activities on Defence Day in Newton.

A meeting was held Wednesday night at the Armory attended by representatives of patriotic and fraternal organizations in this city. Plans were adopted for a patriotic mass meeting to be held in the Armory at 8 P. M. on September 12th in conjunction with the assembly of Company C of the 101st Infantry and the Reserve Officers located in Newton. Members of the City Government and the clergy will occupy seats on the platform. The meeting will be held in support of the effort of President Coolidge and the War Department to acquaint citizens with the importance of National defence.

A complete account of the Defence Day program will be printed in the Graphic next week.

For the Superstitious

The superstition about the owl is that it is fatal to love, and sows discord between the giver and the receiver; given as an engagement token, it is sure to bring ill luck; it is a luck stone for those born in October.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Leverett D. G. Bentley

We abominate a scold. For that reason we like to think that whatever we say in rebuke of the shortcomings of others is nothing more or less than friendly suggestion. But perhaps something stronger is necessary in order to emphasize the point we have in mind. However, we shall allow our readers to determine for themselves how they think we should characterize our observations. Something should be said, rather emphatically, by some one regarding the lack of public interest in the proceedings of the special committee of the Legislature appointed to investigate the problems of motor vehicle driving, drunken operators, etc. When we say "lack of public interest" we do not refer to the special committee nor to conscientious State, city and town officials who are wrestling with these problems every day and who would like to be aided in obtaining some reasonable solution. The public themselves are to blame. They talk and assert frequently what in their opinion should be done by this or that agency or authority. Some even write letters to newspapers. In fact, if hard pressed for a topic of conversation among a piazza group, it is "sure fire" when the subject of automobile accidents is brought up. One after the other will cite examples of reckless driving, of failure of law enforcement, of discrimination and so on. But how many of these people will take the trouble to go to the State House and express their views before a special committee whose members have come from different parts of the State and who, serving without pay, are really doing a public service in tackling the subject for the good of the commonwealth. It is hard, yes, impossible to persuade the average citizen that what he might have to say would be gladly listened to by these legislators. Happily the present special committee has invited a number of prominent men and women to give their views. These have been forthcoming and of much help. The committee is even going to hold hearings in different sections of the State to accommodate those who really care to make their ideas known. But, after all, the committee is almost placed in the position of "trimming" a tree, and that is far from an ideal state of affairs. People who can't attend the hearings should at least write letters. If they don't do one thing or the other what right have they to complain? It may be all very well to "let George do it," but citizens must not find fault with "George" if he fails to carry out some of their pet theories which they so successfully manage to keep from him.

Among the names of cottages that we have seen this Summer one has impressed us so deeply we must write of it. We refer to the "Sleep & Eat," the location of which is not essential. It might be located most anywhere and still be a fitting name. It is our opinion that "Sleep & Eat" is truthfully descriptive. Furthermore, we maintain that a descriptive title such as this is much more worth while than most cottage names we have seen. We would like to organize a campaign for better cottage names and if it weren't that Summer is practically over we might venture upon such an undertaking. We are weary of "Primrose," "Adella," "Ocean View," "Hill Top" and the like. Even if the owner's esthetic feelings are to be sacrificed we still insist upon truthful names. To assist proprietors we gladly offer some names that we know would better the situation than such vague titles as are now so commonly used. Here is a partial list of our creations: "Mosquitoes' Mecca," "Let-Us-Be," "Neighbors-R-Noisy," "Gaining Weight," "Too-Many-Callers," "Seldom In," "Bring Your Own Eats," "Don't Bother Us," "Home of Jazz," "Sunburned and Sore," "Squeaky Beds."

Of course the possibilities are unlimited and quite easy for truly original minds with which we would not presume to compete. We merely lay before our readers such as have popped into our head hoping, as the lecturer says, that "anybody" may take this thought home with you.

It is not difficult to understand the state of mind of a Newton resident, who, in a letter to the Graphic recently, complained of frequent acts of trespass upon her property. It never occurred to us that it was partly a racial problem, as her letter would imply, and we are not prepared to accept that view. We can state of our own knowledge that malicious mischief has been committed by children of some of our finest families; whereas the trespassers would never have countenanced such depredations. We think that lack of consideration for others may exist in the minds of some children regardless of their parentage. It is our opinion that there must be some way of making it plain to these youngsters that the property rights of other people are to be respected. We doubt if fear of the police or court punishment will accomplish this. It is the spirit of boys to invite a "chase" from a householder or even a "cop," providing a safe start is obtained. If memory serves us we ourselves participated in several "sprints" which were successful in spite of the fact that we really deserved a good spanking. However, the actual act of larceny is different from plain annoyance of a property owner. We recall that our "going" was satisfied merely with "starting something" and had no thought of stealing. We believe that theft is a serious matter and should be prevented. The suggestion that "plain clothes" officers might be assigned to watch orchards is not so bad. Just how it would work out we are not prepared to say, but we think there is enough merit in the idea to have it tried for a time at least. With the approach of autumn and ripened fruit the temptation is certain to be strong. Those who cannot resist it should be submitted to forceful persuasion. We firmly believe it to be a civic problem, especially in our own city where there are many gardens

It strikes us that next week is going to be one of much speech-making, shouting, argument, red-fire, etc., in short a case of "rally round the candidate." Newton will not share the excitement of Boston and other larger cities because its citizens are not keen for corner gatherings. Nor is there a scramble for county offices such as now obtains in Boston. In Suffolk county nine active Democrats seek one nomination—that of candidate for Register of Probate and Insolvency. The contest is sharp because the nomination is equivalent to election. Several of the nine we know quite intimately. Each with whom we have talked has assured us he was going to win. One genuinely witty at all times, said, "I have eight other candidates to run against but no opposition." We thought that a neat way of dismissing his rivals. It happens that Newton is to witness a primary contest of four well-known citizens who seek three seats. One must lose, of course. That may seem extraordinary in our well-ordered city, but what would our citizens do if they lived in some of the several Suffolk county Representative districts? Think of thirteen men contesting for three places! That is the situation in one part or Boston. In another district ten men are battling for two places. These are not the only big-field fights in progress in Boston. The politicians there "go after" the job. However, we are not at this writing disposed to discuss the open primary system and its faults and benefits. What we would like to say is that a political contest is not always a pretty thing to witness, in our opinion. Yet we are unable to answer the man who says, "Hasn't anybody a right to run if he wants to?" If we did attempt a reply it would be, "Yes, but why should he want to run?" and that would not answer at all. What has impressed us is the old stuff, "I charge my opponent with—." That is almost as amusing as the declaration of a candidate that he is "fighting the machine." He usually springs this after he has gotten together about all the friends he could assemble, formed committees, held meetings, urged all acquaintances to vote for him and employed every possible device to enlist followers. Even then he accuses the other fellow of being the machine candidate. As far as we can observe no real candidate admits anything. His cry is "Your machine" and "My organization," all of which is after all unconscious humor, isn't it?

Again we wish to make it clear that when we tell a story we do not pretend that it is brand new. As a matter of fact it is one we have never heard before and it makes such a hit we are bold enough to repeat it with full knowledge of the probable consequences. This one deals with a Scottish nobleman whose title was bestowed upon him because of his universal success as an entertainer. We might add that he has been seen and heard many times in Boston. Well, anyway, he was supposed to have met a prominent actor in New York last Winter and to have invited him to visit his home in Scotland. The actor, this Summer, proceeded to the small Scottish town to pay his respects. Much to the American's surprise the streets appeared deserted except for a cabman who willingly agreed to drive the visitor to Sir —'s home. The Yankee rang the front door bell and waited. Within 15 seconds the door was cautiously opened a few inches by none other than Sir —.

"You remember me in New York," said the American.

"Yes," whispered the nobleman, "come in quick, this is tag-day."

All hail the closing week of Summer and practically the last call for week-end invitations for lonesome bachelors and other unattached persons.

The fact that school-house janitors have all floors swept and desks dusted off will not make the youngsters any more eager to return to their lessons.

DON'T EXPERIMENT. GET THE BEST

TWO PARTS OF EVERY HOUSE THAT SHOULD HAVE SPECIAL ATTENTION

They are the two parts that have the hardest usage or wear.

THE ROOF AND THE FLOORS

It doesn't pay to use anything but the very best material in both places.

The weather quickly tears through a cheap roof, and cheap floors wear out carpets and rugs very fast so that neither the cheap roof or cheap floor is really cheap in the end.

This is the right time of the year to put in a GOOD roof and put in HARDWOOD floors and have them right for many years to come.

The difference in cost between poor floors and roofs and the very best is so little that you can't afford to let it stand between you and the enjoyment of the kind you really want and should have.

Let us show you the goods and give you figures.
